most suspicious circumstances many recent sinkings, the ers declare, have been their ing occurrence within of land. In underwriting it has become a common re- hat never have so many lost known with so little loss of life. The Spanish and Portuguese coasts and the Mediterranean have been the scenes of the majority of recent deathless sinkings.

Another curious fact noted by the underwriters is the frequency of losses of ships and cargoes just three or four days before the expiration of insurance policies on high wartime valuations. These valuations were made when shipping was in great demand for wartime or the flourishing post-bellum traffic and, consequently, were at the peak of the long sustained high market.

In many cases the explanation of the captain of a lost ship has been: "Sunk by striking a mine," but this explanation now is failing to satisfy the underwriters, who have the admiralty's assurance that few live mines are jeopardizing the sea lanes.

One of America's leading judges is Miss Katherine Sellers, whose word is law in the juvenile court of the District of Columbia. It was while practicing law in Washington that Miss Sellers attracted wide attention, so much so that she was appointed to her position by former President Wilson.

Pennsylvania Train Derailed.

Altoona, Pa., April 28.—Train No. 64, the New York express, on the Pennsylvania railroad, was derailed 10 miles west of this city. A number of passengers were slightly injured. A special train with nurses and physicians was sent to the scene from Altoona. The wrecked train was bound east.

To Utilize Volcanic Heat.

Honolulu, April 28.—The heat of Kilauea volcano is to be utilized to provide electric light and power for every town, hamlet and industry on the island if the purposes of a memorial recently addressed to the legislature of Hawaii are worked out. The memorial cites the fact that volcanic heat already is being used on a large scale for the production of power in Italy.

6 BIG DAYS WATCH FOR HIM AT THE MARION

Raisin Day—April 30th

Next Saturday is Raisin Day all over the United States—the day on which millions will make and try delicious new raisin foods. Try them in your home. Begin on that day to get the benefit of the raisin's healthful food-iron which brings the pretty rose tint to the cheeks.

Stewed Raisins

Cover Sun-Maid Raisins with cold water and add a slice of lemon or orange to each half pound. Place on fire; bring to a boil and allow to simmer for one hour. Sugar may be added but is not necessary, as Sun-Maid Seeded Raisins contain 75% natural fruit sugar. Serve with or without cream.

Try Stewed Raisins on Raisin Day

—the attractive way to bring the bloom of youth to women's and children's cheeks

Stewed Sun-Maid Raisins are as luscious a dish as was ever served at breakfast. And they bring a benefit that everyone should have.

Rich in food-iron, raisins help to make red corpuscles for the blood. When cheeks are pale the blood has too little iron.

Raisins, through their iron content, tend to bring the rose tint back.

So raisins are "a beauty food," because they promote the good looks of good health. Serve stewed raisins at least twice a week.

Great sanitariums serve them to anaemic patients every day.

SUN-MAID RAISINS

Use Sun-Maid Raisins in all your cooking, for they are the finest grown. Made from tender, juicy, thin-skinned California table grapes.

Packed in an immaculate plant in California. Clean, sweet, wholesome American raisins—the kind you know are good.

Three varieties: Sun-Maid Seeded (seeds removed); Sun-Maid Seedless (grown without seeds); Sun-Maid Clusters (on the stem). All dealers. Insist upon the Sun-Maid Brand.

Send for free book, "Sun-Maid Recipes," describing scores of ways to use.

GARIS' BEDTIME STORIES

UNCLE WIGGILY AND BILLIE'S TOP.

[BY HOWARD R. GARIS.]
[Copyright 1921, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.]

Once upon a time, hopping through the woods, Uncle Wiggily reached a place where some green ferns grew in clumps around a dingy dell, and he heard a voice reciting this little verse:

"Going through the woods one day
I chanced to pass this very way.
Go up fast, and come down slow,
Tell me where my top did go!"

Next there sounded a noise as if something had fallen through the leaves of a bush, thudding on the ground near the bunny.

"I hope no one is throwing stones at me," said Uncle Wiggily. "And yet this is a stone, surely enough," and he looked at what had fallen.

Mr. Longears was just going to hop away, thinking that perhaps the Woozie Wolf might have taken a notion to write poetry—which is very bad for a wolf—when, all of a sudden, Billie Bushytail, the squirrel brother of Johnnie, came scrabbling through the bushes.

"Is it there, Uncle Wiggily?" chattered the squirrel boy eagerly, as he saw the bunny gentleman.

"Do you mean the stone that dropped almost on my tail, silk hat?" asked the bunny. "Yes, it's here. And I'm glad to know that you threw it, and not the Wolf, for I know you weren't trying to hit me."

"Oh, I should say not!" exclaimed Billie. "But that was only a searcher stone I threw."

"A searcher stone!" exclaimed the bunny. "What is that?"

"I wanted the stone to search for my top," went on the Bushytail chap. "I lost my top a little while ago, Uncle Wiggily, when I was running through the woods, and I can't find it anywhere. So I sent a searcher stone after it. But this doesn't seem to have found my top," and Billie looked around near where the pebble had fallen. No toy top was in sight.

"Will you tell me about a searcher stone?" asked Uncle Wiggily.

"Oh, it's just this way," went on Billie. "When you lose anything you pick up a stone and you say a little verse. You can recite the one I did, or anything like this:

"Stone, stone, fly up high,
Maybe almost to the sky,
When again you touch the ground,
Right there my toy may be found."

"Hum," said Uncle Wiggily "That's a nice little verse, but does it do any good?"

"Well, sometimes when you chuck a stone over your shoulder it falls just where you lost what you are looking for, and you can find it," the squirrel boy said. "But this time it didn't. I'm going to try again."

"Oh, good luck! Good luck!" barked the fox.

Billie threw more stones around, but none of them landed near his lost top, and he was beginning to feel that he would never see it again, when Uncle Wiggily said:

"I'll make you a top, Billie!"

"Oh, will you!" cried the squirrel boy. "Please do!"

The bunny gentleman found a round ball off the sycamore or buttonball tree. Through the brown ball Uncle Wiggily thrust a stick, which he gnawed to a point on one end with his sharp teeth.

"There is a top for you!" said Mr. Longears to the squirrel boy, and when Billie wound a string around it, and snapped it to the ground, the button ball top spun and whizzed and hummed as nicely as a piece of cheese.

"Don't you want to try to spin the top you made for me?" asked the squirrel boy of Mr. Longears.

"Well, as long as Nurse Jane isn't here to say that I am getting young in my old age, playing with children's toys, I'll spin the top," said the bunny.

He wound it up and set it spinning. And while Uncle Wiggily and Billie were listening to the hum of the top, all of a sudden out from behind a sassafras bush hopped the Fuzzy Fox.

"Oh, good luck! Good luck!" barked the fox. "I shall have ears to nibble now!" and he looked straight at Uncle Wiggily.

Billie, the squirrel, stooped down and picked up a large stone. As he tossed this into the air he recited this verse

"Stone, stone, now's your chance
To make this Fox do a jiggily dance,
Tap him on his tender nose,
Make him stand on his tip toes!"

Up went the searching stone, and when it came down it found its way to the end of the nose of the Fox, giving him a most hearty bang.

"Hi, there!" howled the bad chap. "What's the idea?"

"The idea is for you to let Uncle Wiggily alone!" answered Billie. "Skip along, now, or I'll throw more stones!" And away ran the Fox, not getting a single nibble off Uncle Wiggilys ears.

"I'm glad I practiced throwing stones to find my top," said the squirrel boy, as he thanked the bunny. Mr. Longears was glad, also

MUSCLES SEEMED TO BE TIED IN KNOTS

Toledo Woman Had To Give Up Her Profession Because of Rheumatism — Says Tanlac Has Overcome Troubles.

"Tanlac has done me more good than all the other medicines I took during a period of seven years combined," said Mrs. M. Hickey, 1315 Milburn Ave., Toledo, Ohio.

Mrs. Hickey has been dressmaking in Toledo for the past ten years and is highly esteemed by all who know her.

"For seven years I was in a very weak and run-down condition and my appetite was completely gone. But my worst trouble was rheumatism, for the muscles of my feet and hands pained me constantly. This made it very difficult for me to do my sewing and I got so bad off that I had to give up the work altogether. I could hardly walk and my muscles felt like they were tied in knots.

"But that is not the case with me since I took Tanlac. I have a ravenous appetite now and my whole system has been wonderfully built up. I hardly notice any rheumatic pains and can do my sewing as well as ever. Tanlac has helped me so much that I feel a great deal better in every way than I have for years. It is a wonderful medicine."—Adv.

It has been very sunshiny today and all the grass has got on bright colors and new ribbons and everything and buds are blossoming in every yard but ours. My mother says that when Annabel Lee gets a little bigger and older and everything there will be lots of flowers in our yard because girls love flowers and beautiful things. I asked her if little girls didn't love anything but beautiful things and she said they didn't and then she asted me why and I said if Annabel Lee didn't love anything but beautiful things it was going to be offal hard on my ant and my grandfather when Annabel Lee got older. Then my father got mad and told me to pay attention to my eating and let my vitals stop my mouth, so I did. A boy ha not got any right to say anything.

I bet if Annabel Lee thinks I am going to tend to her flower garden when she grows up she has got another guess coming. If she will give me a rose once in a while I might help her some. If a fella has got a friend he wants to give her a rose once in a while.

When school had let out we all took off our shoes and put our stockings in them and tied them around our necks by the strings and went barefoot. Some of the fellas that hadn't fell in or gone in all winter had pretty black feet. We went out to the railroad track and there is a lot of blackberries and dewberries in blossom, and the peach trees are in blossom and I guess us fellas will have quite a lot of peaches this year.

When we got to the bridge where the watchman is at and where my pants got run over that time he said to us that he used to be a boy oppe himself and that he liked boys but that he did not like them hanging around his bridge because if the flyer comes along whilst a lot of kids are on the bridge it is good night. And I said to him that he had offal strong whiskers for a fella that had ever been a boy, and he said that his whiskers is the toughest things outside of hobbed wire that he ever tried to cut, but one time he said that his face was as smooth as mine. But I guess he did not look at mine so very close because if he had he would see that it is not so darn smooth, there is a lot of hairs around my ears and on my lip. Of course they are kinda white and short yet, but they will get longer and taffer and darker some time, and I will look funny if my father has not let me wear long pants by then.

I was in the river and not in my pants when they got run over that time.

We went over to Banty's house but we did not have a good time because his mother had found out about the butter and was waiting to lick him. But we had a better time than he did. I went to bed early because father said he thought it might be a good idea.

WANTS THEM TO MOVE HOUSE AND GAS LINE

C. W. Cocherel Says Edmundsons Occupy His Land.

DEFAULT JUDGMENT IN TIRE-RUBBER SUIT

Royal Arch Masons Ask Dismissal of Thibaut Petition To Set Aside Salmon Will.

Suit to recover possession of property was filed in the common pleas court this morning by Charles W. Cocherl against Ray Edmundson and May Edmundson. The petition was filed through Carhart & Warner.

The plaintiff states he is the owner of the north half of lot No. 3,595 in Ivanhoe's addition to Marion and the defendant, Ray Edmundson, is the owner of the south half of the lot, which is located at the corner of Greenwood and Adams streets. The petition charges the defendants, or their predecessors, erected a house which extends two and one-half feet on the property of the plaintiff, has a gas line constructed on the plaintiff's property and a gas meter located there. He states he has requested and demanded that the defendants move their house and gas line and meter and they refuse to do so.

Answer of Marion Chapter.

The answer of Marion Chapter, No. 62, Royal Arch Masons, was filed in the common pleas court today in the suit of Annadelle Thibaut to set aside the will of Anna G. Salmon. The answer, filed through J. H. Eymon, admits the order is a beneficiary of the will, enters a general denial of the other allegations and asks that the petition be dismissed.

Default Judgment.

Default judgment in the sum of $1,919.29, with interest at eight per cent, from January 10, was entered today in the common pleas court in the case of Walter W. Spadone and Hyman Spadone, partners under the firm name of the Spadone Machine company, against the Marion Tire & Rubber company. The plaintiffs sued for judgment on a note for $1,000 dated October 5, 1920, to run sixty days at seven per cent, interest. The defendant company was in default for answer or demurrer.

Denies Trustee Is Necessary.

The answer and cross-petition of Joseph A. Salmon, executor of the will of George E. Salmon, was filed in the common pleas court this morning in the partition and registration of title suit of Charles E. Merkel against the First Presbyterian church and others. The pleading was filed through Carhart & under the Torrens law, because he

The answering defendant denies it is necessary to appoint a trustee for receipts from the sale of the property and further denies the allegation of the plaintiff that the answering defendant never qualified as executor of the Salmon will. He also states the estate will derive no benefit from the registration of title under the Torrens law, because he is required under the terms of the will to sell the property in order to close the estate. The answering defendant claims this registration would be wholly beneficial to the plaintiff and he should bear the costs of registration.

In his cross-petition, the answering defendant sets up a claim to a one-half interest in the property as executor of the will, consents to the sale of the property and asks that he be paid the estate's portion of the proceeds of the sale.

ALL JOIN IN CHORUS OF GOODBY, APRIL, GOODBY

May Your Shadow Never Grow Larger, Marion's Prayer.

D'ye know what a swan song is?

Well, April is singing hers today, while people are wearing overcoats, wraps and furs.

Today could have been worse, so could it have been better, but, at that, when all the planets are in some sort of an entanglement, what else can one expect in April but a bad mixture of good and bad weather, with the reverse English mostly on the bad.

No one is going to weep at the passing of 1921's April. S'far as the Star's star weather-observing young reporter is concerned he's glad April has thirty instead of thirty-one days. April has caused a lot of people to grow bald from worry.

Wonder why it is that a bald eagle never uses hair tonic?

Saturday. The years that brings a fella long pants takes his Saturday, and a fella's father helps to take away his Saturday before he gives him long pants. My father said this morning that before I go anywhere on Saturdays after this he wants me to clean the barn out till it is all clean and everything hung up, and a fit place for animals to live in, and then he set up and looked at me and asted me what I said and I said that I did not say anything, and he said if I did not tell him what I said under my breath he would take me out to the barn and coax it out of me, and I said that I said that if he was going to keep me in the barn all of the time he ought to have named me Barney instead of Thomas Aristides, and that made my grandfather laugh or I bet I would of got licked.

When my father went to work I went out and shut the gate, and turned the cow and her dotter and the horse out in the yard and got the shovel and cleaned out the barn. While I was at it the bunch came in and they stood around and one of them said he was boss of one stall and one that he was boss of another and all of them was boss of something, and Nibs said, "My good man, I hope you don't call this clean," and I said I didn't but that I would turn on the hose and wash it and when I went for the hose they all shun out through the manure hole and Banty was the only one that I got with it.

My mother did not want any errands so I went looking for the bunch and they were over in the brickyard by the mudhole and we all made a fire and dried Banty where the hose hit him, and then we all went down to the breakwater. There was some fellas playing ball down by the old river bed, but we did not go down there because they was probly Micks.

There was a boat tied up to the end of the breakwater which had been bringing store for the breakwater but there was not anyone on it so we went down in the cabin and the captain's spectacles and pipe and cap was there. So I put on the cap and spectacles and put the pipe in my face and made out that I was the captain and Jubilee was the first mate and the rest of the bunch was sailors. The cap was too small for me which shows a fella dont have to have much brains to be a captain.

And Nibs said "My good man, I hope you don't call this clean."

I made them untie ropes and tie them up again some other place and we had a lot of fun til we seen some fellas coming out the breakwater and then they all let go of a rope they were pulling and a part of a mast fell down and I laid down the cap and spectacles and pipe and we walked offal careful when we met the men and then we run.

After awhile I got offal sick and had to lay down by the road, and Hopper waved to a man in a auto and when he stopped he said I was sick and the man put me in the auto and Hopper told him where I lived and Jubilee jumped in and we went home. My mother said she could tell by my being yellow that it was tobacco sickness and asted me if I had been smoking or chewing, but I told her I hadn't, and I am not a liar and she knows it. I had to go to bed and lose nearly all of my Saturday. When I heard the family go to bed I pulled Jubilee up. A captain can smoke a tuff pipe.

GARIS' BEDTIME STORIES

UNCLE WIGGILY AND SUSIE'S KITE.

[BY HOWARD R. GARIS.]

[Copyright 1921, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.]

"Uncle Wiggily! Oh, Uncle Wiggily! Nurse Jane said you were down there!" called a voice at the oustide door of the rabbit gentleman's hollow stump bungalow one day.

"I am down here—down cellar sorting over the carrots," the bunny answered as he went to the foot of the steps. "Who wants me?"

"I do," answered the voice, and for a moment Uncle Wiggily did not know what to say. He could not hear very plainly, down cellar as he was, and it might be the Woozie Wolf or the Fuzzy Fox. Uncle Wiggily sort of shivered under his fur.

"Come on up, Uncle Wiggily," went on the voice. "It's Susie Littletail calling!"

"Oh! All right!" answered the bunny, and he felt much better. "What do you want, Susie?" he asked.

"Paint," replied the little rabbit girl.

"Oh, not paint for your cheeks, I hope!" exclaimed Mr. Longears. "Nor yet paint for your lips. I know you don't need it for your nose as that is pink, like mine. But as for painting your lips or cheeks—"

"Don't worry, Uncle Wiggily!" laughed Susie. "I will never do anything as foolish as that! I am going to paint something else, and I want as many colors as I can get."

"I have a lot of paint left over when Nurse Jane and I last decorated our hollow stump bungalow," said the bunny gentleman. "Come down and get the cans. There is a little color in each one."

So Susie got red, green, blue, yellow, pink, purple, black and white paint, and putting them in her brother's express wagon, Susie wheeled them to her house.

"Aren't you going to tell me what you are going to paint?" asked Uncle Wiggily, teasing like, as he nibbled the end off a carrot.

"I'll let you see it when I have finished," promised Susie. "Until then it is a secret," and with this Uncle Wiggily had to be content.

But he was so busy for the next few days that he rather forgot about Susie and her paints, and it was not until toward the end of the week that an adventure happened which made Mr. Longears glad he had given the colors to the little bunny girl.

Nurse Jane had sent Uncle Wiggily to the store to get a jug of molasses, for she was going to bake a strawberry longcake, and the bunny was almost back at the hollow stump bungalow with the pound of sugar and the codfish cakes when, all of a sudden, out from behind a big rock sprang the Blue Nosed Baboon.

"Oh ho and oh ha!" howled the bad chap, as he caught Uncle Wiggily by the ears. "You can't get away from me now! You haven't any sticky postage stamps to make me so stuck up I can't nibble your ears. I have you now!"

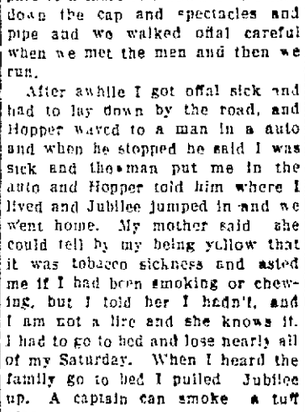
"Yes, it does seem so," sadly said Uncle Wiggily. He was just wondering if he couldn't pull his tall silk hat down over his ears so the Bab couldn't nibble them when, all of a sudden the bad chap looked up in the air overhead and cried:

"What's that?"

Uncle Wiggily glanced up and saw what at first he thought was a big grinning face of some monster colored red, green, blue and yellow.

"My gracious sakes alive and some peanut pancakes!" owled the Baboon. "Such a looking sight! Is he after you, too?"

"I guess maybe he's after you!" said the bunny boldly, as he saw the queer red, green, blue and yellow face coming nearer through the air.



"Oh, don't hurt me! I'll be good!"

And just then the face, which did not seem to be fast to anybody, gave a dive and appeared to come straight at the Bab.

"Oh, dont hurt me! I'll be good! I won't nibble Uncle Wiggily's ears!" cried the blue-nosed chap, and, letting go of the bunny away he ran.

Down came the grinning face, with its red mouth, yellow cheeks, green nose, pink eyes and blue hair, and it crashed into the bushes close beside the bunny. Uncle Wiggily was too surprised to run, and a moment later the voice of Susie Littletail cried:

"Oh, my nice new painted kite that I made! Is it smashed, Uncle Wiggily?" Then the bunny saw that the face was painted with many colors on a paper kite, which Susie had made, almost as good as a boy. She had used the red, green, yellow, blue and other tints to make a grinning monster on the kite.

"What happened?" asked Uncle Wiggily.

"I was flying my new kite and the string broke," Susie said. "It came down. Did it scare you?"

"A little, but it scared the Bab worse, I am glad to say!" chuckled Uncle Wiggily. Then, as the kite was not much hurt, he helped Susie fly it again. It was the little rabbit girl's secret, and it helped the bunny a whole lot.

DULL TIMES FOR GALLERY GODS

bal duels. Nobody embraces but the two participants. Champ Clark, the longtime leader of the Democrats, has passed into the world where there is no politics, and the minority is tossing about with no one ready to lead them on into the battle. Claude Kitchin, of Scotland Neck, North Carolina who once was a giant in the battles in the well of the house, is not physically fit for great exertion. Others who might take up the cudgels for Democracy seem inclined to a "laizzez faire" policy.

Gallery Gods Sigh.

The gallery gods sit and look down on the house, with perhaps a scant dozen members present, sigh and yearn for the good old days when southern congressmen placed their hands on their hips and jumped to their feet in heated reply; when Champ Clark pulled his great body out of his seat and cut loose, with his deep voice in a drawling denunciation of the Republicans; when Tom Heflin, of Alabama and Billy Mason, of Illinois, stood man to man and swapped oratorical punches; when Jimmy Gallivan, of Massachusetts, fought tooth and nail against prohibition, when Uncle Joe Cannon joined the fray with his pointed and witty shafts; when Billy Murray, of Boston, and the sergeant-at-arms clashed on the floor of the house, and when each day's session was but a series of battles.

Those were the happy days for the gallery gods!

Now even Blanton, of Texas—who has been christened "Blenting" Blanton by Samuel Gompers—doesn't have very much to say.

Unless some one starts a real row in congress soon it will be a dull session, and with hot weather in the immediate offing the hopes for a fight of real proportions rest mainly in Tex Rickard's promised Jersey City encounter.

Right now it begins to look as though the gallery gods will have to go to the "movies" for their entertainment, at least there is very little of it in congress.

IMPORTANT NOTICE TO ELECTRICITY CONSUMERS

Electricity will be off next Sunday for about an hour and a half beginning at 12 o'clock noon. We regret this interruption very much, but it is necessary in order to enable us to cut in new apparatus we are installing and which will connect us up to our new Power Station at Scioto. We hope this will be the only complete interruption and expect to be using our Scioto Plant by June 1.

Mme. ANNE E. GUERIN

The Poppy Lady of France has come to America and

She has brought with her millions of tiny red silk poppies the kind that blow on Flanders Field and she is going to help America unite with France on Memorial Day in honoring the brave dead who sleep in French soil.

The poppy has been adopted by the American Legion and other patriotic organizations as their memorial flower. It was at the American Legion convention last fall that Mme. Anne E. Guerin was christened "The Poppy Lady of France," a name by which she is now known on two continents.

The Poppy Lady is the founder of the American and French Children's League in France and America. This is a growing movement which seeks not only to aid the little martyrs of devastated France but still more important hopes to teach the children of both nations to remember and foster the friendship which has existed as it seldom is a battlefield.

Four Presidents Urge Help for China in Hour of Need

CABLEGRAMS, NEWS DESPATCHES AND SPECIAL WRITERS DEPICT CRITICAL SITUATION RESULTING IN SPECIAL "CHINA FAMINE WEEK" APPEAL

With cablegrams from its co-operating committee in far-away Peking emphasizing the acuteness of the worst calamity now visiting the world—the famine in China—and with press associations and special writers detailing the horror, the American Committee for China Famine Fund, from its headquarters in New York, has urged its volunteer committees throughout the country to observe "China Famine Week," May 1 to May 8, as a special period of appeal.

The plight of China is the first tragedy to elicit proclamations or appeals from three presidents of the United States. Eight days after he entered the White House, President Harding renewed the appeal of President Wilson's official proclamation, and asked America to hearken "to the cry for succor which comes from a people far distant but linked to us by manifold ties."

Former President Taft, named as one of the original members of the American Committee by his successor in office, "hopes that the philanthropy of the American people may arise to this occasion as it has to so many in the past."

The president of another republic, Hsu Shih Chang, chief executive of China, not only has sent a cablegram of gratitude to President and Mrs. Harding for their own interest in the work of relief and the generosity of America, but has given $30,000 for famine succor.

"We never shall forget," President Hsu cables, "the generosity of the American people."

Writing from the famine zone, Eleanor Franklin Egan, a traveler in many lands and a trained observer, described the famine in The Saturday Evening Post as "the saddest thing I have ever seen," and a cablegram from the American Committee in Peking included this appeal to intensify activities during "China Famine Week":

"All funds practically exhausted by purchase of grain which will be consumed before May 1. Most critical period subsequent six weeks preceding harvest early in June. People will devour growing grain unless helped. Millions of lives saved by funds already contributed."

Contributions for the China Famine Fund are being received by local committees, banks and newspapers, or may be sent direct to Vernon Munroe, treasurer, Bible House, New York City.

SAID TO EXCHANGE THEIR PRICE LISTS

Manufacturers Accused in New York Building Probe.

New York, April 28—At the legislature building trust inquiry, 19 groups of manufacturers spread over the nation were brought under investigation.

The committee heard testimony that the manufacturers exchange price lists, operate secret codes for informing one another of their business operations from day to day and compare bids on each piece of work.

The 19 organizations declared to be cooperating with exchanges are grouped as those of cloth paper, ammonia, brass, copper, fire control goods, metals, asphaltic, natural gas appliances, paint boilers, steel lockers, steel sashes and pipe valves.

The 19 groups of manufacturers exchange information through their joint office in Fifth avenue. The committee was told that the maintenance of their system and a large clerical force necessary to conduct it require expenditures approximating $1,000 annually.

The committee was informed that there is no such thing as free competition in the fire insurance business of the United States. Willis A. Robb, manager of the New York Fire Insurance company, who gave this testimony, defended joint rate makings by the companies, while Samuel Untermyer, committee counsel, severely criticized it and recommended state supervision.

ROBIN'S LANE

By IZOLA FORRESTER.

Hardy had been home a week, and still he felt like a stranger in Tapiola. Not but what everybody welcomed him, but they did it in an easy-going sort of way that left his own enthusiasm cold after ten years of anticipation.

He had been twenty-four when he had started West. There had been two incentives his father's demand that he throw up engineering and go into the store and Winifred's refusal to marry him.

His yearning to make good and show them the sort of man he really was had been the spur all the years he had worked and climbed. Winifred had told him she liked boys who were "steady." That meant the hardware store, and "Irving & Son" on the long glass and gold sign over the door. He had laughed bitterly, out in the lonely Arizona nights, before he had struck his right pace and yet there had been the sting of homesickness in it too. With all the joy of adventure and experience the little mill town on the Yantic river back in Connecticut was home to him, and Winifred was the only girl who could bring a thrill to his heart just little Winifred Burke with her big blue eyes that seemed to challenge a fellow to do the very best that was in him.

He had seen her only at a distance since his return—once in church, twice down along Main street when she was waiting for the car. Then he met her on the old hill road coming from the reservoir Saturday afternoon, her hands filled with violets.

"You know they always did grow longer and larger up there, it seemed," she said, as he walked beside her in the road.

"I was going up after some," Hardy told her awkwardly.

"Take the short cut through Robin's lane, why don't you? Do you remember the way?"

And Hardy deliberately prevaricated. No, he was sorry. He had absolutely forgotten the short cut. Wouldn't she just turn back and show it to him? Winifred hesitated, laughed a little and looked as if she didn't believe him.

"We always went that way after violets, Hardy," she reminded him. "It's just the little lane below the big woodlot. You know it so well."

But Hardy shook his head, looking down into her eyes until she ignored him, and switched the fringe of pines and red oaks ahead of them, with slender white birches lifting tremulous new leaves in the sunlight.

He had made up his mind all the way home that he would ask her again. She had only been seventeen then. Now she was twenty-seven, and it seemed as if the years had only made her sweeter and more desirable. There was something indefinable about her now, something that evaded him. She seemed sure of herself poised and tranquil eyed, more tender, too, in her way. It must have been lonely for her there in the little mill town.

"See the island over yonder," Winifred said suddenly. They had come to the crest of the hill overlooking the reservoir. It had always looked like a miniature western mountain scene, the broad lake with its rocky pine-edged shores, and rocky islands here and there. "What splendid times we used to have up here, Hardy."

"I've never forgotten one of them," he said slowly. "When you're a thousand miles and more away from home, only memories seem real."

"I know," she rejoined quickly. "All the time I was in Japan I felt that way and when we were sent down to the Philippines it was even worse, for there I would meet somebody from home once in a while, and everything they said made me want to take the next boat back."

"You've been away!" he exclaimed. "With Aunt Dora and Uncle Phil," she nodded her head. "There were so many of us at home, and when he was sent to the East by his company, he wanted a secretary, so I coaxed him to take me. Then he died in Tokio, and because I understood the trade situation pretty well, they made me sales manager instead of trying to break in a new man. I've only been home about two months. They want me to try South America this time, but I'm tired of it. I suppose women are just tabby cats after all. You work and make believe you like it, and all the time you're thinking of some cozy corner to curl up in and rest. I'm going to buy the Prendergast place and fix up the garden beautifully, and have five cats."

Hardy laughed, laughed until she turned to look at him almost resentfully. He was so tall and broad shouldered, so resolute and sure of himself, just as she remembered him. One reason why she had gone away was to show him that girls didn't have to stay at home.

"You can't buy it," he told her tersely, "because I knew you loved it and the deed is waiting for me now. We could make it the homestead. Winnie. I'll have to go West soon and then, and I want you to come along. I want to show you all the places where I've thought of you and told myself to keep up my nerve and go back after you and make you say yes."

Winifred looked up at him over the violets held to her lips.

"I always wondered why you stayed so long," she said. "I thought you were just a quitter, Hardy, when you didn't take me with you before."

FATE AND BILLY

By ANNA L. SMITH.

(Copyright, 1921, by the Newspaper Syndicate.)

Some one had sent Billy a local paper and 400 miles from home incidents heretofore considered unworthy of attention were read with absorbing interest. France with its thousands of fighting comrades in continued excitement and impending danger was a lonely place. Lonelier than Bridgeburg had ever been.

Seeming to stand out among the personalities was a familiar name. "Miss Elizabeth Brown," so the column announced, "was spending the summer with her aunt."

Elizabeth Brown. Billy wrinkled his brow perplexedly, then memory came to him. "That was Patty Brown," of course, he said to his Betty, his companion of past vacations. Betty had gone out from the city then, to spend her summer with her aunt.

To Billy, somewhere in France, came a vision of the town of his childhood, the white house with its flowers and vines where Betty had held sway.

What sort of a young person had Miss Elizabeth Brown become? He wondered. With the enjoinment of her first long skirt her visits to Bridgeburg had ceased. Following a sudden impulse Billy drew a card toward him. He would surprise her with a message from overseas.

"Do you recall," he hastily wrote, "a youthful admirer, Billy West? Used to devote himself to you when you stopped in Bridgeburg? Well, this is from Bill. I'm fighting for Uncle Sam now, and a fairy has whispered your name to me over in France. Won't you send a line?"

When the card was dispatched Billy wondered at his own temerity.

"Oh, well, no harm done, she need not answer." But she did.

"What do you know!" he murmured to himself and perused the letter. Miss Brown honestly confessed that she couldn't recall exactly the identity of Bill West. But if he was the good-natured boy, (hand-some skis inserted Miss Brown), who used to let her tyrannize over him when she visited at Aunt Lucy's she'd be glad now to make amends by adopting him in a certain way as her soldier, forwarding to him little things which might add to his comfort, and also be generally useful.

"Of course," added Miss Elizabeth "he must not consider her a foolishly romantic person or anything like that, for she was merely trying to help in a spirit of pure patriotism. And if Mr. West knew of any other lonely soldier, her assistance could also be extended to him."

Billy did not know of any. He hastened to tell her so.

Throughout his long homeward journey Billy thought of the girl who had written him letters of inspiration and courage. "What a kind little soul she was!" Then Billy paused in his pleasant meditations.

"Little?" How did he know? She might be tall; neither had Betty been prepossessing in her appearance. His boyish respect, Billy realized, had been won by her sheer domination. He had fallen in love, yes, there was no doubt of it, with Elizabeth Brown, on paper. And she?

She had confessed that romance dwelt not in her, she had been unable honestly to recall his identity. Billy sighed. "He would personally thank his benefactress for her letters; then perhaps that would be the end." His own sister added to the quandary.

"Elizabeth Brown who used to live next door?" She answered his question. "Why, she was married last week. They showed me the invitations!"

White-faced and more shaken in disappointment than he would have thought possible, Billy, the soldier, passed down the Bridgeburg street, then on to his boyish haunt near the stream.

A girl sat on the mossy bank. She was engaged in knitting, but she raised her blue eyes at Billy's approach, gravely regarding him, then she smiled.

"I see you have followed me," said the girl. "I came away from home before you should call, in order to save you embarrassment. Last night only I realized your mistake. When your return was mentioned aunt referred to your boyish devotion to my cousin Elizabeth who has recently married." She laughed. "Probably my own visits escaped your notice, Mr. West. I was much of a child at that time. And so," Elizabeth Brown rose to go, "we will consider the matter dismissed."

Billy looked into the lovely face before him. It was of such a face he had dreamed, led on through nights of terrifying darkness, such a face which had smiled promise through the mist of his hospital windows.

"Vote sent to me the name of the woman I love," said Billy solemnly, "and though Elizabeth Brown flushed scarlet the silence she gave him was neither startled nor displeased.

TAX EXPERTS LOSING SLEEP

Question, "When Is a Girl a Miss?" Is Puzzling Bureau of Internal Revenue.

The other day Low Hahn executive secretary of the National Retail Dry Goods association, took the joy out of life for the experts of the bureau of internal revenue when he asked whether corsets were underwear. Now he has gone and done it again, the query this time being:

"When does a girl become a miss?"

Framers of the new revenue tax law included in the list of taxables "women's and misses' wearing apparel." Experts of the bureau, Mr. Hahn says, have informed retailers that no tax is to be collected on wearing apparel for girls.

Retailers say there are hundreds and hundreds of misses and quite a few married women who are so petite that they can still wear, and therefore buy, girls' clothes. Does the fact that such articles of clothing are to be worn by women of mature years change the nature of the apparel in the eyes of the law; or do garments designed for girls remain girls' wear, regardless of the age of those who buy and wear them? This is the puzzle Mr. Hahn has put up to the bureau experts.

A Waiting Game.

"Suppose you wait here in this comfortable seat while I match these two samples of ribbon," said Mrs. Simson sweetly to her husband, who had been entrapped into going shopping with her.

When she came back she said contritely: "Have I kept you waiting an unpardonable long time, you poor dear?"

"Oh, I haven't minded it," he said cheerfully. "I just jumped on a car and ran up to the football match, and then I took a little spin in Jack Dance's new car. Did you match the samples?"

"One of them. It's so provoking. I shall have to come in again tomorrow, for they are just closing the shop."—London Ideas.

Arkansas Diamonds.

Arkansas has several diamond mines that have turned out about 5,000 diamonds valued at about $20,000. The geological formation in which the gems are found is called peridotite and is akin to the famous South African kimberlite. It occurs in chimneys like those of South America. The Arkansas mines have been reclaimed during the war. With diamonds increasing in price and popularity, it is said, the mine owners are making plans to work their properties in a more extensive and systematic way.

[illegible] speaking for the owner of Mrs—Osborne. [illegible] and I was sure that I had caught [illegible] the [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] market and read of [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

Aloud I replied [illegible]

[illegible] to [illegible] But I [illegible] and [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] place to a stranger.

"I must know [illegible] the [illegible] unpronounceable [illegible] [illegible] stood upon me. 'How many rooms has it? How much ground? How far from the railroad station?'

"I can tell you all about it in a very few minutes, [illegible] replied and then there followed the description of the property which might have been copied from a list of our requirements. I should make for my enthusiasm [illegible] as I listened. Location—[illegible] I might have been made to order, and yet I could not down an unaccountable reluctance to go to the place.

With a strong effort I summoned my common sense to the rescue, making the [illegible] answer possible.

"I shall be very glad to come to see it," I said. "You may expect me in an hour, possibly less."

"Thank you. One other thing," the voice was hesitant again. "Mrs.—Osborne is an old lady and extremely nervous. She does not like to meet people. That is one reason she has not put the place in an agent's hands—she could not bear to see a lot of strange faces. So if you will come by yourself—"

"Of course," I returned coldly.

Then I asked and received minute instructions for finding the place, and turned from the telephone, fighting an absurd little doubt which had sounded in my brain like the ringing of a tiny [illegible] and deep in my consciousness.

Come by yourself'—the words echoed in my ears for a long minute while I stood irresolute. Then with a self-scoring laugh I went back to my room, made a leisurely toilet, for I was too tired to hurry, and I had purposely planned an hour's interval before going to the [illegible] in order to avoid any haste.

I met Katie coming from her rooms at the back as I went to [illegible] the rear stairs when I had finished dressing.

"Vy you no call me ven you take bop?" she asked reproachfully. "I tink I only lie me down vhen-t five-ten minutes—I tell dot Jerin to take me, und de next ting I know I hear you talk on [illegible] But Jeem be pounding his ear."

"Why should I call you, Katie?" I returned. "I [illegible] you, everything is done, and you and Jim, I know, must have been tired. I am going out now to look at a house which I have just heard of in Hempstead. Will you be Mrs. Burkee when I get back?"

"Ve-ell, I vass [illegible] with her [illegible] formula. Bur Meesis Graham, you goin' alone to dot house?"

"Of course, Katie," I returned a bit impatiently.

"I not like dot,' she said disapprovingly.

The consciousness of my own vague feeling on the subject made me resentful of her advice.

"How perfectly absurd, Katie!" I said. "I'm not a child and I'm used to the car. What on earth could happen to me on the road to Homestead?"

"I no thinking of vot could happen on road. 'Katie went on. 'It is no good going alone to houses you don't know nothings about.'

"You've been attending too many movies, Katie,' I laughed lightly.

Her face took on a sullen look.

"You laugh now,' she said sullenly. "Maybe, before you [illegible] back, you learn on odder side of your face."

Rheumatism

A Remarkable Home Treatment Given by One Who Had It.

In the year of 1895 I was attacked by Muscular and Sub-Acute Rheumatism. I suffered as only those who are thus afflicted know for over three years. I tried remedy after remedy, but such relief as I obtained was only temporary. Finally, I found a treatment that cured me completely and such a pitiful condition has never returned. I have given it to a number who were terribly afflicted, even bedridden, some of them seventy to eighty years old, and the results were the same as in my own case.

I want every sufferer from any form of muscular and sub-acute (swelling at the joints) rheumatism, to try the great value of my improved "Home Treatment" for its remarkable healing power. Don't send a cent, simply mail your name and address, and I will send it free to try. After you have used it, and it has proven itself to be that long-looked for means of getting rid of such forms of rheumatism, you may send the price of it, One Dollar, but understand I do not want your money unless you are perfectly satisfied to send it. Isn't that fair? Why suffer any longer, when relief is thus offered you free. Don't delay. Write today.

GARIS' BEDTIME STORIES

UNCLE WIGGILY AND JOHNNIE'S GUN.

[BY HOWARD R. GARIS.]
[Copyright 1921, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.]

"What's the matter, Johnnie?" asked Uncle Wiggily one day, as hopping through the woods, he met Johnnie Bushytail, the squirrel chap. "Why do you look so sad and unhappy?" the bunny gentleman inquired.

"Because I haven't a water pistol," chattered Johnnie, flipping his big tail from side to side careless like.

"Well, why should you be sad just because you haven't a water pistol?" asked Uncle Wiggily. "If you had had one, and lost it, or if you owned one and had taken it out in school, so that the lady mouse teacher took it from you, then you might be sad. But, as it is—"

"Bully and Bawly No-Tail, the frog boys—they have water pistols," interrupted Johnnie, not very politely, I'm afraid. For he should have waited for Uncle Wiggily to finish talking. But the rabbit gentleman knew Johnnie was not quite himself so he made excuses.

"Well, it is quite proper for frog boys, who live in the pond, to have water pistols," laughed Uncle Wiggily. "I should think you would want a nut pop gun."

"I'd like anything that would shoot!" exclaimed the squirrel boy, "but a water gun best of all."

"Perhaps your daddy hasn't money to spend on such toys," spoke the bunny gentleman. "You know money is scarce and there isn't work for every one."

"But a water gun doesn't cost much," objected the squirrel boy, "and I want one a lot!"

"Well, perhaps instead of buying one I can make one for you," said Uncle Wiggily.

"Oh, can you!" cried Johnnie. "I'll be awful good if you will!"

"Come along to the woods," invited Mr. Longears. "I may want you to help me."

Together the bunny rabbit and the squirrel boy went over the fields and into the woods. On the bank of a little brook were growing some elder bushes—a kind of shrub that has branches filled with soft, white pith, like the inside of a corn stalk.

"Bring me an elder branch," said Uncle Wiggily to the squirrel boy.

Johnnie gladly did as he was told, and when he had gnawed off a stalk

"Oh, that's fine!" chattered Johnnie

with his sharp teeth Uncle Wiggily took a small, slender stick and with this he pushed out the pith, or soft middle of the elder stalk leaving a hollow wooden tube, like a bean blower, only a bean blower is made of tin.

"Is that going to be my water gun?" asked the little squirrel boy, frisking around quite happy now.

"This is part of it," said Uncle Wiggily. "I must now make a thing to go up and down inside, so that when you pull it out it will suck water up into the hollow elder stalk. And when you push down the water will squirt out."

"That's almost like a water pistol," chattered Johnnie, "'ceptin' that a water pistol has a rubber ball."

"Well, as we haven't a rubber plant here I can't make a rubber ball," said Uncle Wiggily, his pink nose twinkling extra fast because he enjoyed making a water gun. "But I think this will be what you want."

The bunny gnawed out a smooth stick, with a handle on one end, that moved up and down inside the hollow elder stalk. Then, dipping the open end of the stalk in a nearby spring, the bunny pulled up on the handle. There was a sucking sound as the water filled the hollow tube.

"Now watch!" cried the bunny uncle.

He suddenly pushed on the handle, shoving the stick down inside the stalk, and out came the water!

"Oh, that's fine!" chattered Johnnie. "It's a dandy water pistol, and I like it better because you made it, Uncle Wiggily!"

"That's good!" said the bunny. "But it is not quite finished." He gnawed out a plug of wood, with a tiny hole in, and fitted this in the end of the elder stick. This little hole let only a fine stream of water come out, instead of a lot at once. And now Johnnie's gun was really like the frog boys' pistols.

"Oh, what fun I'll have!" cried the squirrel chap as he sucked up some water in his new gun.

"Yes, and I'll have fun, too!" suddenly growled a most unpleasant voice, and there stood the Fuzzy Fox, who had hopped out from behind a mulberry bush. "I'm going to have fun nibbling Uncle Wiggily's ears!" howled the Fox.

"Are you? Well, I'm going to have fun this way!" laughed Johnnie. Then, before the Fox could stop him, the squirrel chap squirted a whole gun full of water in the face of the bad chap.

"Oh, wow! Oh, ouch! Oh, this isn't my day for a bath!" howled the Fox, and away he ran, not hurting the bunny's ears at all.

"I'm glad I made you a water gun, Johnnie," said Mr. Longears, as he and the squirrel boy hopped away.

RHEUMATISM LEAVES YOU FOREVER

Deep Seated Uric Acid Deposits Are Dissolved and the Rheumatic Poison Starts to Leave the System Within Twenty-four Hours.

Every druggist in this county is authorized to say to every rheumatic sufferer in this vicinity that if two bottles of Allenrhu, the sure conqueror of rheumatism, does not stop all agony, reduce swollen joints and do away with even the slightest twinge of rheumatic pain, he will gladly return your money without comment.

Allenrhu has been tried and tested for years, and really marvelous results have been accomplished in the most severe cases where the suffering and agony was intense and piteous and where the patient was helpless.

Mr. James H. Allen, the discoverer of Allenrhu, who for many years suffered the torments of acute rheumatism, desires all sufferers to know that he does not want a cent of anyone's money unless Allenrhu decisively conquers this worst of all diseases and he has instructed Schmidt & Co.'s and Carl G. Ungericht Drug Stores to guarantee it in every instance.—Advt.

KIDNEYS AILING? Watch the Symptoms.

Don't take any chances with your kidneys. If you have the faintest suspicion that your kidneys are weak or your bladder is irritated the wisest thing you can do is to get a bottle of Dr. Carey's Marshroot at once.

Watch the symptoms carefully. The tiniest signals often indicate that the kidneys are ailing and need attention. Dry skin for instance and little specks floating before the eyes. Sometimes the feet feel heavy, as if your shoes were full of lead. Often the joints ache or you have quick, darting pains shooting through the back or side. Then again that frequent desire to empty the bladder, cold, clammy feet and just a little puffiness under the eyes. Occasionally the hands or feet swell slightly and the palms of the hands are moist. Don't neglect them—you can not afford to take any chances with your kidneys.

IMPORTANT — Dr. Daniel G. Carey, the well known kidney and bladder specialist of Elmira, N. Y., who retired recently, declared that this great prescription, No. 777, "Marshroot," had helped thousands of sufferers from kidney and bladder troubles. It is not a patent medicine and is only sold through drug stores to accommodate his patients. Hereafter you can always get this effective prescription of Carl G. Ungericht, and all reliable pharmacists the country over. Keep in mind the name, Dr. Carey's Marshroot, prescription No. 777. No other medicine can take its place.—Adv.

To Whiten and Clear the Skin

Muddy or sallow complexions or skins, that are marred by freckles or blemishes, should be cleared and whitened in a very short time by using the following:

Mix some glycerine and sintone and dissolve in water. You will find the result to be a beautiful white cream and by its liberal use a tremendous improvement will be noted in the complexion, within a few days. The ingredients may be obtained in any drug store.

You Who Have So Often Wished For Something that Really Would Take Away the Wrinkles

Just learn what a difference there can be between a cream freshly made at home and one that has been standing for months on a druggist's shelf.

The skin can be brought back to its original plumpness and vigor by the following formula. An astonishing result is the quick disappearance of wrinkles, little and big, crows' feet and lines of age. It is simple and can be prepared in a few moments, by adding to half a pint of water one tablespoonful of glycerine and two ounces of orpin, obtained from your druggist. This takes years from your appearance and is always sure and positive in its work if you will apply it liberally, every day.

To Have the Arm Pits Soft and Free from Hair

You can be sure that there is but one sensible way to remove hairs from the arm pits, and, in fact, from any part of the body. It is foolish to "burn" them off, injuring and spotting the skin. Just moisten the hairs with sulfo solution. This will actually dissolve away the hairs completely, and leave the skin superbly soft and smooth. It will not irritate the most delicate skin. Sulfo solution may be obtained at nearly any drug store.

Easy For Thin People to Put on Flesh and Gain Weight

It's such an easy matter nowadays for thin, weak, scrawny people to put on good, healthy, solid flesh and become plump and graceful that one often wonders why there are still so many people who seem to prefer to be "all skin and bone," ungainly and unpleasant to look upon.

whoever could discover a remedy that wohever could discover a remedy that would cause the food that one puts into th. stomach to turn into good, rich, flesh-making blood instead of going to waste, would also discover how to put healthy muscular flesh onto thin under-nourished people and this has now been accomplished.

If you are thin, under developed, nervous, weak, or lack vigor and vitality, you can secure any good pharmacy at moderate cost a ten days' treatment of EVANS' TRIPLE PHOSPHATES, a new combination of flesh producing, muscle building, strength creating elements that is guaranteed to put good, solid, lasting flesh on your body and to make you strong, healthy and vigorous, or money back.

Physicians who have watched the results of the Evans' Triple Phosphates treatment are astonished at its rapid action—often in a month five to ten pounds of desirable weight is gained. Bartlett's Drug Store has agreed to supply readers of this paper with Evans' Triple Phosphates and to guarantee it to do just what is claimed for it or money returned. —Adv.

Costs Little and Overcomes Trouble Almost Over Night.

Any breaking out of the skin, even ferry, itching eczema, can be quickly overcome by applying Mentho-Sulphur, declares a noted skin specialist. Because of its germ destroying properties, this sulphur preparation instantly brings ease from skin irritation, soothes and heals the eczema right up and leaves the skin clear and smooth.

It seldom fails to relieve the torment without delay. Sufferers from skin trouble should obtain a small jar of Mentho-Sulphur from any good druggist and use it like cold cream.—Adv.

Me and Jubilee had a long time when we woke up this morning thinking about my grandfather and the fishes he got out of Mud Turkle pond and he did not have any bait on his hook, nothing but a bright piece of tin and some feathers. I guess the bright tin makes the fish come up close to see what it is and the feathers tickles his nose and when he opens his mouth to laugh or sneeze the hook gets him. It is no wonder he puts up such a fight. It is enough to make anyone mad to be fooled that way.

But I think a fella ought to put a worm or something on the hook. It is a dirty trick to catch a bass and not give it a chance to swipe a bait. I am glad I am not that kind of a fella. Frenchy who has been all over says that is the way to catch redfish, and they are as long as I am and you can not pull them out of the water with the hook and line but have to slip a iron hook under them and lift them out.

I would hate to be a fish and get caught. I must make a fish ashamed of itself when my grandfather pulls it out and it sees what has caught it.

My toolip ain't no good. Yousisses has got flowers on them. Her mother says she can't understand what was the matter with the one she gave me. I can't either. I took it out of the ground about a dozen times to see if it was starting and it wasn't so I fed it to the cow. When school was out we all went out to Mud Turkle pond to see if we could catch any fish with worms, but we couldn't. My grandfather says a bass is too wise to bite at worms. But I think a fish that won't bite at something to eat and then bites at a bunch of feathers is not so very wise.

I bet the Last Bag of Tripe that he could not swim across Mud Turkle pond and he bet me he could. I almost won. Me and Nibs had to go in after him or he would of got drowned. I swam on my back and he swum with his chin in one of my hands. The mat said he won, because he said he swum it anyhow even if I did help. The next time I will not help him and he will see if he will win or not. He was nekked

I took it out of the ground about a dozen times to see if it was starting and it wasn't, but me and Nibs had to go in with our clothes on because the mat had went down once and could not wait for us to undress.

We all went home with him to see his baby brother. After we can get him out and tuffia him up some he will be a better swimmer than the Lost Bag of Tripe. He has not got much muskie now and he is too pot-belly for a real athalete, but some training will fix that. I sat up till nine but no one came. Then I went to bed and pulled Jubilee up,

Buy Your Coal Direct From Mine—Big Saving

The high cost of coal is a thing of the past! At least, there are no complaints on this account—since the removal of government restrictions—among those who have learned how to buy coal. The way to buy coal is to get it direct from the mines. This saves several middlemen's profits. It saves hauling expenses. Anyone can now buy at mine prices, whether a carload buyer or one who uses only ten or fifteen tons a year. This has been made possible through a plan evolved by a large and old-established concern, THE BERNICE COAL COMPANY, with main offices at 624 Como Building, Chicago.

This company has thousands of customers in various sections of the United States who receive all of their coal direct from the mines. These customers are pleased not only because of the many dollars they save every year, but also because of the quality of coal they are getting. Many write that they never before had coal that makes so little dust, that burns so well, leaving so few ashes. If you are a coal user—whether you use hard or soft coal, much or little—it will be greatly to your advantage to write the Bernice Coal Co. at once for prices, stating kind and quantity of coal you use.—Adv.

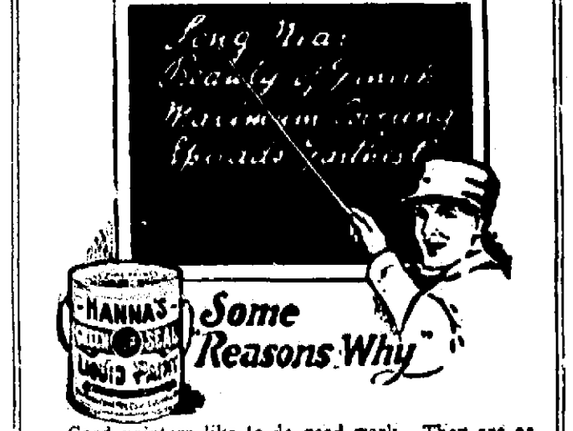
AN OPEN LETTER TO WOMEN

Mrs. Little Tells How She Suffered and How Finally Cured

Philadelphia, Pa.—"I was not able to do my housework and had to lie down most of the time and felt bad in my left side. My monthly periods were irregular, sometimes five or seven months apart and when they did appear would last for two weeks and were very painful. I was sick for about a year and a half and doctored but without any improvement.

A neighbor recommended Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to me, and the second day after I started taking it I began to feel better and I kept on taking it for seven months. Now I keep house and perform all my household duties. You can use these facts as you please and I will recommend Vegetable Compound to everyone who suffers as I did." — Mrs. J. S. LITTLE, 3456 Livingston St., Philadelphia, Pa.

How much harder the daily tasks of a woman become when she suffers from such distressing symptoms and weakness as did Mrs. Little. No woman should allow herself to get into such a condition because such troubles may be speedily overcome by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which for more than forty years has been restoring American women to health.



Some Reasons Why"

Good painters like to do good work. They are as much interested as the property-owner in seeing that the paint they put on looks good and wears well. The fact means much, therefore, that many painters always use Hanna's Green Seal Paint on every house painting job. They find that produces the right results. It imparts a beautiful glossy finish; it wears well; it forms a durable film that covers the surface thoroughly without brush marks showing; and every gallon spreads out over a wide area.

In the long run Green Seal is the brand most economical to use on your property.

LOS ANGELES IS IRRITATED.

The publicity manager of the Los Angeles chamber of commerce feels that his city has been done grave injustice by the following paragraph in the Star of March 11:

Los Angeles is erecting tents in which to shelter the homeless. Could the explanation be that one has suffered one of those California "fires?"

The basis of the paragraph elected from an exchange, is so much irritating to the Los Angeles chamber, apparently, than the reference to "fires." He writes:

The real facts are that we are not erecting tents, we have no homeless and have not suffered from a "California fire." Instead of erecting tents we are breaking previous records in building substantial homes. Last month showed a gain of a million dollars over the same month of 1920. The first half of April showed nearly 1,500 permits and $4,000,000 worth of building. Last year we built $60,000,000 worth of structures, including residential property enough to house 50,000 of our population. At present we are leading the country in building.

Naturally, with this record, it is irritating to read in your paper that we are erecting tents to shelter the homeless.

We sincerely hope that the publication of the foregoing statement will arouse the irritability of our California friend, which, we can but help feeling is utterly uncalled for in view of the fine record made by the city in home building. If the people of Los Angeles really have cause to believe that they and the country, in the line they should be imperiled to just such a tax by fatuous comment made otherwise them.

CLAMPING ON THE HEADLOCK

REGARDING STRIKE INSURANCE.

"Increasing interest exhibited by private insurance companies in the writing of strike insurance has aroused the labor chieftains at Washington," remarks the Republican Publicity association. "Their apprehension has caused them to issue a threat that, unless there is legislation to stop the practice of issuing strike insurance policies, labor will withdraw its patronage from private companies and urge that the state assume control of insurance. Mr. Matthew Woll, the vice president of the American Federation of Labor, Mr. Gompers' right hand man, undertakes to give the reasons for the opposition of the labor leaders to the new form of insurance."

"Strike insurance will encourage strikes," declares Mr. Woll. "When an employer is insured against strikes he certainly will not be inclined to go far in making concessions to his employes, however just their demands may be. It would be to the interest of companies selling strike insurance to foment labor troubles in order to stampede employers into taking out strike insurance."

Strike insurance is comparatively a new venture in the field of risk, consequently there are few data upon which a judgment of its effect can be based, but there appears to be little ground for Mr. Woll's apprehension. An employer would have no more desire for strikes in his industry if he were insured than he would like to see his factory burn down if he carried fire insurance, nor does a man seek death merely because his life is insured. The real effect of strike insurance is to introduce a new element into the industrial world that seeks to promote friendly relations between employer and employe.

Precisely the same influence is at work in the fire insurance and life insurance fields. Fire insurance companies are constantly doing everything in their power to reduce fire risks. They encourage the installation of efficient fire protection devices, automatic alarms, sprinkler systems, etc., and maintain salvage corps whose business it is to rush to the scene of the fire and protect property from the effects of fire and water. The big life insurance companies contribute in every effective way to the improvement of the public health, well knowing that a reduction of the sickness and death rates means added profits to them.

It is ridiculous to assert that strike insurance companies are going to "foment labor troubles in order to stampede employers into taking out strike insurance." It would be as reasonable to suppose that fire insurance and life companies are going to promote conflagrations or risk ruinous lax inspection laws and in other ways take part of actual incendiarism, or are going to encourage accumulations of filth and the propagation of germ supplies in order to produce devastating epidemics.

The whole history of insurance, no matter what form it may take, has been one of prevention of the loss against which the insurance is effected. Of course, the prime purpose of fire, life and all form of insurance is to provide indemnification in case of loss, but the object of the fourth knows also that the probability of loss has been diminished by the encouragement he has given in the insurance contract. A fire-insurance adjuster once wrote that his judgment of what property to insure was largely influenced by the question: Will these people want to see it burn?

It is just the truth of this matter that Mr. Woll does not want to see it put in the hands of the men every intelligent employer would be glad to get rid of.

GENERAL DISARMAMENT.

The Dearborn Independent comes out with an editorial bowling for general disarmament—world disarmament. It says:

The whole problem of taxation at this time revolves itself into a question of taxes. And the one way to reduce taxes is to reduce armaments.

Disarmament first!

The only way to reduce our debt is to disarm. Disarmament first!

And thus the editor of the Independent goes on.

He is against all wars; and perhaps he is right. He thinks all war should cease, and maybe it should. And he holds that general disarmament will stop all war. But will it?

War ought to stop, let's admit it.

Murder ought to stop, too.

But does it?

Can we afford to cut expenses and thus lessen taxes by disbanding our police forces?

Rot, say and thievery should cease.

It. have they—do they?

Should we quit building treasury vaults—and thus lower expenses and lessen taxes?

Arson, rape, forgery—and all other crimes, vices and misdemeanors—should be unknown in this day of civilization, of the world's existence, of our national history, doubtless.

But are they?

Can we close our criminal courts—and thus cut expenses and lower taxes?

We are wise enough to know that war is wrong, is wanton waste and ruthless destruction; but war goes on.

Are there any signs of its ceasing?

None!

So can the United States afford to disarm?

Can we safely scrap our navy and discard our army?

Is the world ready for disarmament?

We thought the country ready for national prohibition; the majority of the people voted for national prohibition.

But what are we witnessing?

All the police powers that have been brought to bear have not yet been able to enforce an inimitable mixture of prohibition.

Every American war has left us deeply in debt.

And every time the cry has gone forth to lessen taxation by lowering the standard of our military and naval defenses.

Would such a course have been wise—following any war in which we have been engaged?

If not—was it such a course to take now?

We have a law against carrying concealed weapons.

How does it operate?

The honest citizen goes unarmed, the criminal goes armed to the teeth, and the latest estimate is that 1,000 men are murdered annually in the streets of this country.

BASEBALL

Tagging the Bases.

The fine pitching of Holland and Sutherland for the Tigers featured Detroit's victory over Cleveland, breaking a string of six wins for the Indians.

Bernie Neis' pinch single helped the Dodgers' tie up the score against the Giants and Bernie then came home with the winning run on Johnston's single.

Cecil Causey weakened in the seventh inning long enough to permit Boston to score four runs, which defeated the Phillies.

Bressler's single with the bases full in the first inning gave the Reds a lead that Chicago could not overcome.

Timely hitting by Bigbee, Maranville, Cutshaw and Whitted enabled the Pirates to defeat St. Louis.

Duffy, Lewis and Magridge played prominent roles in the second straight defeat of the Yankees, by Washington.

George Kelly, of the Giants, got his fifth home run of the season in Brooklyn, thereby tying Babe Ruth's mark.

WITH THE PUGS

Enters a Denial.

New York, April 28.—Tex Rickard, today denied that Frankie Armstrong, who is suing for an accounting of profits made by the promoter at Madison Square garden, is a business partner of his in the garden venture. Rickard said the only enterprise in which he and Armstrong were ever associated was an oil company. Armstrong claims to have secured the original lease on the garden property and that Rickard obtained it and has deprived the plaintiff of his interest by organizing several corporations to take over the lease and operate the garden.

Dempsey's Training.

Summit, New Jersey, April 28.—Jack Dempsey will train at Atlantic City, he said today. The world's champion also announced that Kid Norfolk, the chocolate-hued thumbsmith, has agreed to act as one of his sparring partners.

"I want to get several big strong fast fellows," said Dempsey. "I want them as near Carpentier's size as possible. I think Norfolk will be a great help to me. Carpentier, also, will have a colored sparring partner. Gus Wilson, trainer of the French champion, who is living at present, said that Joe Jeanette will aid Georges at Manhasset, Long Island. He added that Carpentier will positively train in private.

THE ISLAND OF YAP, WHICH UNITED STATES WANTS SAFEGUARDED

First and exclusive photographs of the Island of Yap, which is now the subject of controversy between the United States, Japan and the allied governments. Naval reports describe the Island of Yap as a low-lying bit of land in the Caroline Islands, a little west of Guam, an American possession in the Pacific. It is surrounded by reefs, extending not farther than a mile and a half off shore, and has two principal harbors, Rull and Tomil, easily navigated by ships in ordinary weather. The illustration shows the coaling station at the harbor of Tomil, on the Island of Yap.

BAYONNE MAN IS SHOT TODAY

Tries To Save Registered Mail from Robbers.

THE BANDITS ESCAPE WITH THEIR LOOT

Amount of Money in Pouches Not Known.

Federal Agents Reach Bayonne and Are Working on the Case. Victim of the Shooting Is in a Serious Condition.

Bayonne, New Jersey, April 29.—Bandits, early today, stole three mail pouches, one of them containing registered mail, from the baggage-agent of the Central Railroad of New Jersey, while he was taking them from the station across the street to the postoffice. Matthew Lyons, the baggage-agent was shot in the face when he attempted to resist the robbers. The amount of money in the pouches is not known.

A fire alarm turned in about a block away just before the robbery occurred, attracted all attention away from the scene of the holdup. The police believe the robbers turned in the alarm as a ruse. The bandits escaped in an automobile.

Lyons was taken to a hospital in a serious condition. He was armed, but was shot down before he had a chance to draw his gun. An alarm has been telegraphed broadcast throughout the metropolitan district. Lyons gave a fairly-good description of three of the bandits. The police believe four took part in the robbery.

An automobile resembling the one used by the robbers was found later in the outskirts of the city.

Postoffice inspectors arrived from New York soon after the robbery and took charge of the federal end of the investigation.

They stated no estimate of the loss can be made until all of the mail has been checked up.

BROAD PROGRAM INAUGURATED

Big Business Joins Hands with Government.

THE PROTECTION OF AMERICAN INDUSTRY

Against Ruinous Foreign Competitors Is Aim.

Billions of Invested Capital To Support Constructive Measures for Domestic and Foreign Trade Expansion.

Washington, April 29.—Big business united with the government, today, in a broad national program to foster and protect American industry against ruinous competition from abroad.

Industrial leaders called here by Secretary of Commerce Hoover to bring about unified action by American interests, voiced the support of billions of invested capital, in constructive measures proposed by the government for greater domestic and foreign trade development.

Foreign price cutting and the "dumping" of cheaply-priced goods in domestic markets, called forth expressions that business must present a united front and follow a course of closer cooperation with the government in defensive trade methods already projected.

The spokesmen for industry, without exception, expressed fears over the results of the "militancy" over foreign commerce bodies, now launching out with the financial backing of their governments to make inroads upon American trade fields. A grave danger, recognized by many, was the practice of foreign governments in subsidizing industries, thus making it possible for foreign exporters to sell goods below cost of manufacture.

Another danger discussed, was the existence of foreign import and export trade combinations now operating in a manner to control prices of American products.

Secretary Hoover contended that this phase of the situation calls for an immediate remedy, through international agreement, or by other effective means, to assure American industry adequate protection. Business spokesmen were emphatic in declarations that joint action by American industry, cooperating with governmental agencies, must be exerted to offset the competitive methods now in evidence.

Representatives of the interests at the conference were:

James S. Hammett, cotton manufacturer; F. S. Clark, wool manufacturer; Joseph S. DeFriese, chambers of commerce; Stephen C. Mason, National Manufacturers' association; James A. Farrell, national foreign trade council; William F. Morgan, New York Merchants' association; Homer L. Ferguson, shipbuilders; Alexander Legge, farm implements; John J. Raskob, motor manufacturers; W. H. Nichols, chemicals; C. F. Kelly, copper mining; Irvin T. Bush, public utilities; A. C. Bedford, petroleum; Charles H. McDowell, fertilizer manufacturers; R. S. Huddleston, lumber exporters; J. E. McElwain, boot and shoe manufacturers; Harry I. Thayer, tanning industry; Walter S. Dickey, clay products.

A BIG AIRSHIP CORPORATION

To Have Headquarters in Washington, It's Announced.

WILL HAVE CAPITAL REACHING $50,000,000

Great Ships Are To Be Used on Regular Lines.

Craft Will Have Speed of from Eighty to 100 Miles an Hour and a Cruising Radius of 10,000 Miles, It's Said.

Washington, April 29. — Announcement was made, today, of plans to establish here the headquarters of an airship corporation, said to be the largest in the world, with a capital of $50,000,000.

According to a statement by C. A. Tinker, those materially interested in the corporation include Fred S. Hardesty, consulting engineer of Washington; Edward Schildhauer, who designed much of the electrical equipment on the Panama canal; H. S. Jacoby, Henry Harrison Suplee and Lieutenant Hanson E. Ely.

Plans for the first ship, as announced by Tinker, provide for a craft 752 feet long, ninety-six feet in diameter, with a gas capacity of 3,355,000 cubic feet and a speed of from eighty to 100 miles an hour, with a cruising radius of 10,000 miles.

The new corporation proposes to open its first commercial passenger line between New York and Chicago, later extending the line to San Francisco.

Quarters for the passengers, Tinker says, will be as luxurious as the finest hotel in the country, with upholstered salons. Staterooms with hammock beds and lounge and smoking rooms will be provided.

The first line is expected to be in operation in the spring of 1922, according to Tinker and he announces that it is hoped to establish a trans-Atlantic line later.

AUTHORITIES DOUBT STORY OF A WOMAN

Skeptical That Mrs. Ingraham Is Dorothy Arnold.

Middletown, Connecticut, April 29.—Authorities here were frankly skeptical, today, of the story told by Mrs. Leon A. Ingraham, of Durham, that she was the missing Dorothy Arnold, of New York. Mrs. Ingraham vanished from her home here, last Saturday, after telling the story. Her husband, who married her in 1917, said, today, that he did not believe his wife was the Arnold girl. According to word received from New York, the Arnold family has investigated Mrs. Ingraham's story and pronounced it false.

Offered Command.

Paris, April 29.—Marshal Joffre, who was the commander-in-chief of the French army after the outbreak of the World war, has been offered the command of the allied army of occupation that may take over the Ruhr district, it was reported here this afternoon. Marshal Joffre is now in London, conferring with the military experts who will report to the supreme council.

MEDIATION BY UNITED STATES

Is Still Possible In View of the Administration.

ALLIES HAVE NOT CLOSED THE DOOR

To Negotiations with Berlin on Reparations.

Secretary Hughes Talks to Representatives of Allied Governments in Terms That Can Not Be Misunderstood.

Washington, April 29. — Though apparently fully informed of the attitude of the allies toward the German reparations proposal, the Harding administration, today, gave no evidence that it would consider the task of mediation undertaken by Secretary Hughes a hopeless one.

Being of the opinion that the main point involved is whether the Berlin offer forms a proper basis for negotiation rather than whether it is acceptable, this government takes the view that the door to mediation has by no means been definitely closed by the decision of France and Great Britain as to acceptability.

This view is said to have been conveyed by Secretary Hughes to the representatives of the allied governments in unmistakable if informal terms, in conversations held with them, yesterday afternoon. These conferences are expected to continue, today.

Observers who anticipated the French government's rejection of the German proposals, but who nevertheless believed Secretary Hughes had a "trump card up his sleeve," see a key to the situation in the latest elucidation in the American position.

They point out that the Harding administration has merely indicated its views that "every man, woman and child" in the United States has a vital interest in the settlement of the reparations controversy. Secretary Hughes, feeling that the world could not get back to normal until a satisfactory solution of that problem is found, agreed to consider bringing any German proposal to the attention of the allies in a manner acceptable to them.

For Mr. Hughes to abandon his efforts merely because the first German proposal did not meet with the entire approval of the allies, it is argued, would be to surrender before the battle were well begun and the United States would emerge from the encounter with a considerable lessened prestige.

No Change.

It was officially announced at the state department, shortly before noon, that there was "no change" in the situation in any respect. This government has not yet made any reply to the German government's proposals and there was no indication of when such a reply would be made.

Secretary Hughes is in complete charge of the negotiations and his assistants have been forbidden to discuss matters pertaining to them with any one. The secretary of state went to the White House at 11 o'clock for the cabinet meeting. He took with him no papers bearing on the situation and if he regards the case as hopeless, it was not reflected in his demeanor.

He appeared in excellent spirits as he entered the conference room, arm in arm with Secretary of War Weeks.

STATE OFFICIALS GIVEN A SURPRISE

Marriage of Miss Baldwin and William S. Bundy.

Columbus, April 29.—Officials and employes in the office of Governor Davis were surprised, today, when William S. Bundy, Athens, the governor's commission clerk and grand nephew of the late former governor and United States Senator Joseph Benson Foraker, failed to report at his desk.

The mystery was solved, a short time afterwards, when Floyd Waite, the governor's secretary, opened a note in which Bundy informed him that he had gone to the Hotel Gibson, Cincinnati, and will be married today.

The future Mrs. Bundy is Miss Marie Baldwin, formerly of Bellefontaine, employed as a clerk in the state highway department.

Expected To Recover.

Columbus, April 29.—Walter S. Schmidt, twenty, World war veteran, who attempted suicide by firing a bullet into his chest after reading a psalm in the Trinity Episcopal church, east Broad street, here, Wednesday, is expected to recover, coroner F. W. Miller, who succeeds F. W. Miller.

A FOUR-YEAR-TOT MAKES OCEAN TRIP

Smiling coyly and waving a cheery good-bye to her dad on the pier, Miss Phyllis Tocque, four years old, of Louisville, Kentucky, recently sailed from New York for England to visit her grandparents. Phyllis's mother died last year, and her father could not leave his business to accompany her. However, he saw her put safely aboard the steamer. It was an old story to the little traveler from Louisville, however, for this is her third trip across.

REDS SEEKING A REVOLUTION

Scatter Literature in Chicago and Other Cities.

URGING ASSAULT ON GOVERNMENT

Arrests Made in Windy City and Hammond—Akron Watching Communists.

Chicago, April 29.—Following the arrest of two men whose names are closely guarded and the seizure in Hammond, Indiana, and in the West Side districts of Chicago, of "Red" literature announcing to the "Brotherhood" that the May day of revolution is here and that "we must destroy the United States government and put in its place a workers' government," extensive preparations were being hurriedly made here, today, to prevent possible violence, May 1.

There was nothing to indicate any definite plan for concentrated movements May day, but a close watch will be kept on all government building throughout the country, government officials here intimated.

"Reds" in Akron.

Akron, April 29.—Police are investigating a soviet movement which it is declared will be inaugurated here, May 1.

When Akron awoke this morning thousands of circulars were found to have been distributed in the highways during the night hours. Paragraphs in the circular read:

"Working men of America—all over Europe the workers are arming themselves. They are preparing to forcibly overthrow their capitalistic governments. They are learning to use force against force. There is no other way.

"On this May day, let us prepare for the social revolution which is spreading around the globe.

"This May day, there is only one country where the workers will celebrate as freemen. That country is soviet Russia. In soviet Russia, the workers rule.

"Get ready for the proletarian revolution in America.

"The Communist party of America calls: Arms against arms; force against force."

New Superintendent.

Dayton, April 29.—Paul C. Stetson, Muskegon, Michigan, was named superintendent of public schools here, last night, to begin September 6, at salary of $8,000. He succeeds F. W. Miller.

SENATE STAGE SET FOR ACTION

Knox Resolution Is Being Debated Today.

PRESIDENT MAY BE SLOW IN MOVING

After the Measure Reaches Him Next Week.

Clearing of German Reparations Situation Is Desired Before New Peace Negotiations. President Back at Desk.

Washington, April 29.—With the senate stage set for the passage of the redrafted Knox resolution, tomorrow, Republican leaders of congress indicated, today, that it would be jammed through the house and senate to the president for his approval by the end of next week.

Several of them expressed the opinion, however, that in view of the German reparation situation, the president might be slow in following up the resolution with the additional peace negotiations for which it is intended to pave the way.

Until the reparations situation has been clarified, the administration might hesitate.

Senator Hitchcock, of Nebraska, ranking Democratic member of the senate foreign relations committee and one of two others on the Democratic side—including Senator King, of Utah—debated the resolution in the senate, today. The senate otherwise marked time pending the final vote on the resolution, tomorrow.

Back to Duty.

Washington, April 29.—President Harding, returning here, today, from Norfolk, where he reviewed the Atlantic fleet, yesterday, went to the White House soon after 9 o'clock and plunged into work, a long list of engagements having been made for him prior to the cabinet meeting at 11 o'clock.

Another Note.

Washington, April 29.— Another note to Panama, couched in such terms as to make it virtually an ultimatum, has been despatched by this government, it was learned authoritatively today.

The note, it is understood, sternly admonishes the Panama government to accept the White award as a basis of settlement in her boundary dispute with Costa Rica, as demanded by this government in the previous notes that have passed between the two countries.

Reported Favorably.

Washington, April 29.—Discarding the amended immigration restriction bill passed by the house recently, the senate immigration committee, today, reported favorably the bill passed by the last congress and vetoed by former President Wilson, which provides that immigration be limited to three per cent, of the foreign born population of the United States. The committee refused to accept the house amendment, giving religious refuge and unrestricted admission to the country.

Some Big Claims.

To Increase Force.

"It seems to me the facts are so palpable," he stated, "that no one at this time ought to want to cripple our military establishment. We have grave international questions which our state department is trying to solve. We hope they will be solved with honor and credit to our government.

"We are the only altruistic nation in the world, today. We do not demand territories or indemnity for our participation in the World war.

SUNDAY TO BE A DISMAL DAY

Thousands of Apartment Leases in Chicago Expire

TWENTY THOUSAND TENANTS REBELLING

Fighting Real Estate Agents and Landlords in Their Effort To Increase Rents.

Chicago, April 29.—Sunday, May 1, loomed as a day of dismal possibilities for Chicagoans, today.

Thousands of apartment leases that will expire on that date have not been renewed. Twenty thousand tenants, it is estimated, have refused to renew leases at increased rentals and are defying their landlords. Real-estate agents have been recruiting these apartments, nevertheless, and thousands who are preparing to move, May-day, will find the apartments they rented occupied by a tenant who refuses to move. Countless lawsuits are expected to result.

Added to the troubles of the tenants was the probability today, that a strike of milk-wagon drivers and bread-wagon drivers would be called for May 1. Approximately 3,000 milk-wagon drivers have voted to strike unless their employers grant a six-day week. Bread-wagon drivers have voted to strike rather than accept a twenty-per-cent. cut in wages.

WILL H. HAYS HEARD TODAY

Delivers an Address Before Nation's Publishers.

SOME POLICIES OF THE ADMINISTRATION

Message Brought from President Harding by the Postmaster General.

New York, April 28.—Predicting that President Harding "will make a great president," Will H. Hays, former Republican campaign manager and now postmaster general, in speaking before the American Newspaper Publishers' association, today indicated that one might feel assured the administration would be guided by these policies:

1.—Immediate reduction and equalization of federal taxes, with the repeal of taxes which kill initiative and the spreading of the war debt over a great number of years.

2.—Development of a better relation between capital and labor, with justice to both and with justice to the public.

3.—No undue federalization of industries and activities by the government, but bringing the government back to limitations of the constitution, in times of peace, with federal regulation but not federal ownership.

4—Prevention of further spread of Socialism and seeing the nation's feet firmly on the path of progress and along ways which liberty must ever guard and preserve.

5—An honest, efficient and economical business administration of the nation's affairs.

6—The administration will measure its steps forward by the new needs of the nation, with its eyes ahead, but with its feet always on solid ground.

Postmaster General Hays made it clear he was not "presuming to indicate the purpose of the administration," but that "if we refer to the future in this regard, we might vision with hope and assurance the administration moving to make certain" the six principles mentioned.

Message from Harding.

He brought this message from President Harding, himself, formerly a publisher, to the publishers:

"We expect your help in bringing this republic and its varied interests into the straightforward track again."

Postmaster General Hays, predicting that the nation "will love him—President Harding—trust him and follow him," asserted the chief executive would in no sense be a partisan president.

"And the world will honor him," Hays said.

"I do not want to leave the impression that the administration is standing behind this particular program, either wholly or in part," said Hays, "but some such changes would be natural and whatever plan is finally adopted, the reorganization will bring a material reduction in the overhead expenses of the federal establishment and an improvement in the quality of service rendered the public."

Mr. Hays said inadequate parcels-post facilities in many sections would be remedied.

He emphasized that it was "no part of the primary business of the postoffice department to act as a censor of the press; this should not and will not be."

The American Newspaper Publishers' association was on record, today, against "reduction of the hours of work constituting a week's work below forty-eight hours." It endorsed efforts of members endeavoring to maintain the forty-eight-hour week and pledged them co-operation and support.

Her work is remarkable for a child of her age, and would do credit to an artist of mature years. She is versatile, having already won prizes for swimming and story writing.

SENATOR BRAND MAKES CHARGE

Says Governor Davis Threatens To Attack Him.

DEMANDS SUPPORT FOR SCHRIMPER BILL

Announced Governor Will Issue a Statement in His Defense at Once.

Columbus, April 28.—During debate in the senate, this afternoon, relative to the proposal to pass a minimum wage bill, Senator Charles Brand, Republican, Champaign county, charged that Governor Davis threatened him if he did not change his attitude and support the Schrimper bill, which was turned down by the senate committee on manufacturers and commerce, of which Senator Brand is a member.

Senator Brand said that Governor Davis called him into the governor's office and threatened to attack him in the five newspapers of Ohio unless the senator supported the Schrimper bill.

After the governor said he would give the senator two hours in which to think it over, Senator Brand said he left the governor's office and did not return.

Governor Davis was accused by Senator Brand of stating, some days ago, that he wanted the Schrimper bill amended so as to take the "teeth" out of it and that Assistant Attorney General Clarence Laylin was called upon to draft such amendments. Senator Brand said he has Laylin's proposed amendments in his possession.

Declaring he has been consistent in his attitude toward the measure and that he questioned the wisdom of providing minimum wages through legislation, Senator Brand expressed the belief that the substitute measure which he was instrumental in inducing the committee to report but instead of the Schrimper bill, is better than the Schrimper bill.

Declaring that it was Senator Brand and not the governor who had "flopped," Floyd Waite, secretary to the governor, said Governor Davis will issue a statement replying to Senator Brand.

Spain has Great To-do Over Yankee Road

First Concrete Highway Is Opened With Much Civic Eclat

Touring
Every American is familiar with the concrete mixer but the first one created a furore in Spain
Filling with crushed stone
Ponding for paving sub-structure

OVER in Spain where the old roads built by the Moors centuries ago are being revamped with the aid of up-to-date American road building machinery, the completion of a new highway becomes a big event.

Much work began on the reconstruction of the road from Moncada to Barcelona. The first section completed was made the occasion of a public celebration and thousands took part in the attendant exercises.

The Minister of the Interior, of Spain, was present with the Governor of Barcelona, and the roadway was blessed by the Bishop of Urgell, Prince of Andorra. The Mayor of Montada was master of ceremonies. All marched in the procession whose route covered the entire completed stretch of road.

This roadway is built of concrete, the roadbed being 15 feet in width and 8 inches thick. Expansion joints were provided at every 20 meters, gutters were cast at either edge and a raised curbing was supplied.

Much interest is being aroused throughout Spain by the rapid and efficient manner in which such roads can be built and the American methods and machinery are coming in for nation-wide discussion.

The road machinery section of the National Foreign Trade Council Convention at Cleveland, May 4 to 7, will provide an interesting exposition of what is being done with American road machinery in several foreign lands.

THE ENGINEERS DELAY STRIKE

Agree to Another Conference with Ship-Owners.

CONTROVERSY OVER WAGE REDUCTIONS

Marine Engineers Flatly Reject First Offers Made by Merchant Marine Chief.

Washington, April 28.—A final break between the ship-owners and marine workers was narrowly averted at the conference called here, yesterday, by Chairman W. S. Benson, of the shipping board, in an effort to prevent a threatened strike on May 1, when existing wage agreements expire.

A last moment appeal by Andrew Furuseth, president of the International Seamen's union, resulted in an agreement for further conferences Friday.

The delay was sought in order that proposals of Chairman Benson for a fifteen per cent. wage reduction and changes in working conditions afloat might be laid before the unions, but admittedly the outlook for an agreement Friday was not bright.

Admiral Benson told the conference he would not recede from the outline of reductions he had presented as necessary to the merchant marine.

W. S. Brown, for the Marine Engineers' Beneficial association, flatly rejected the proposed wage reduction.

New Wage Scale.

W. A. Thompson, representing the American Steamship Owners association said that unless the unions were prepared to negotiate a new wage scale, further conferences would be useless and that his organization was now prepared to act.

After the meeting Mr. Brown declared that the situation was serious and looked like a strike of the engineers, although they would probably attend the Friday conference. In the event that other unions reached an agreement with the board and the owners, he said, "they can not operate the ships without marine engineers."

Some board officials expressed the belief that while the outlook for an agreement with the engineers was bad, a satisfactory arrangement might be worked out with the other marine unions and a general shipping strike averted.

Chairman Benson, however, said the situation was "very hopeful." The engineers, he said, would probably come around, but if they did not "their blood would be on their own heads."

Following the death of James F. Sloss, president of the road, in 1905, Harris was made vice-president and general manager, and was given a place on the directorate. At that time, J. Henry Meyer was elected president. Mr. Meyer died a short time ago and at the director's meeting Harris was elected to his present position, meanwhile retaining his post as general manager.

PRESIDENT AND CABINET MEET

German Reparations and Railways Are Discussed.

MARINE WORKERS ARE THREATENING

Intervention of President Necessary To Prevent Strike—No Agreement in Sight.

Washington, April 29.—President Harding and his cabinet were in session more than two hours, today. It is understood that the question of German reparations and the railroads occupied the major part of the discussion. No statement as to any action taken by the cabinet was forthcoming.

Intervention.

Washington, April 29.—Only intervention by President Harding now can prevent a strike of marine workers on May 1.

The conference of marine workers, the shipowners and representatives of the shipping board came to an impasse here, this afternoon.

Andrew Furuseth, of the Seamen's union, proposed that the whole matter be put up to the president

Admiral Benson, chairman of the shipping board, and the representatives of the shipowners refused to agree.

Reparations Muddle.

Washington, April 29.—The German reparations muddle will probably necessitate further textual changes in the redrafted Knox peace resolution, Republican senators supporting it declared, today.

Senator Sterling, Republican, South Dakota, indicated his purpose to propose an amendment that would make it clear to Germany and to this country's associates in the World war that congress, in seeking to pave the way for peace between the United States and the Central powers, had no intention of interfering with the administration's policy respecting demands made on Germany for reparations.

Discipline Needed.

Washington, April 29.—A system of discipline for ex-soldiers who are now hospital patients of the war risk insurance bureau, was the first recommendation made by Colonel C. H. Forbes, new director of the bureau, when he appeared before the interstate commerce committee of the house, today, to testify concerning bills aimed to consolidate various war relief bureaus.

"We must have discipline by all means," declared Forbes. He suggested a system of fines and restrictions and added that many of the men "get too much money."

Referring to conditions at the Red Hook hospital, New York, after Representative Parker, of New York, had declared that the patients there must "obey the rules or get out whether they get well or not," Forbes said:

"It's a hard system, but the men there know they are either to obey the rules or get out and there are a large percentage of cures there."

LAYING PLANS FOR BIG MERGER

Directors of Two Telephone Companies Meet.

NEGOTIATING IN THE CAPITAL CITY

Properties Valued at $60,000,000 Are Involved in Deal. Law To Permit Merger.

Columbus, April 29.—Directors of the Ohio State Telephone company, at a special meeting here, this afternoon, expect to discuss the proposed merger of the company with the Ohio Bell Telephone company. If the merger takes place, properties valued at $60,000,000 will be involved.

Legislative activity, both state and national, is on in an effort to facilitate such a merger.

The state legislature has not only passed a bill changing state laws so as to permit the proposed merger, but has adopted a resolution requesting Ohio's senators and congressmen at Washington to support similar action by congress.

United States Senator Willis has just introduced a bill seeking to authorize the interstate commerce commission to exercise power over proposed consolidations of telephone companies similar to that it now exercises over railroad and express companies.

Could Not Be Spared from Commons to Become Chief Justice of England

Because of his value to the British government in the house of commons, Sir Gordon Hewart, reputed the most able attorney general who ever held that post in England, was not able to take the post of lord chief justice of England, vacated recently by the Earl of Reading on his nomination to the vice royalty of India. To Sir Gordon as a matter of unwritten law and tradition, belonged the succession to the lord chief justiceship. The fact that his value to the government prevented his accepting the post constitutes a remarkable tribute to his ability alike as a statesman and a parliamentarian. Sir Alfred Tristan Lawrence, the oldest member of the bench, was nominated to the position of lord chief justice by Premier Lloyd George.

NO MINIMUM WAGE MEASURE

Will Be Passed by Ohio Solons, Is Predicted Today.

SENATE GETS INTO A SERIOUS TANGLE

Women Fighting Chatfield Bill and Demanding Passage of Schrimper Measure.

Columbus, April 29.—Prediction was made in legislative circles today, that no minimum wage legislation will be enacted during the present session of the state legislature.

After a three-hour debate, the senate, by a vote of twenty-nine to eight, turned down the proposal of Senator Reynolds, Cuyahoga county, Democrat, that the senate place in the calendar for passage the original Schrimper minimum-wage bill as it passed the house.

In voting down Senator Reynolds' motion, the senate accepted the majority report of the committee on manufactures and commerce, which reported out Senator Chatfield's—Hamilton county—substitute for the Schrimper bill.

Republicans Senators Burke, Elyria; Davis, Butler; Sparks, Montgomery; Jones, Trumbull and Bender, Day and Rowe, Cuyahoga, joined Senator Reynolds in supporting the original Schimper bill.

It is claimed that if the senate passes the Chatfield substitute, which is not considered likely, the house will turn it down. However, if it should pass the bone, Governor Davis is expected to comply with the request of the women leaders that he veto it. These women want the Schimper bill to become a law as it passed the house.

The Chatfield bill provides for a minimum wage commission consisting of the lieutenant governor, secretary of state, attorney general, treasurer and auditor, empowered only to publish its findings and the names of employers refusing to comply with its orders.

Schrimper Bill

The Schrimper bill authorized the governor to appoint a commission empowered to investigate and establish minimum wages for women and children and providing penalties for enforcement of decrees.

Replying to the charge made on the floor of the senate by Senator Brand, Champaign county, that Governor Davis threatened to attack the senator in newspapers if the senator failed to support the original Schrimper bill, the governor declared that Senator Brand's statements constitute a case, "pure and simple, of cheap politics designed to defeat the Schrimper bill."

The governor said that the senator's statements were "made out of whole cloth" and were "inspired by persons opposed to me politically."

Governor Davis again declared his desire that the Schrimper bill be passed and said he believed that the senate will pass it.

PEGGY JOYCE IS NOW IN SECLUSION

Goes to Chicago To Avoid New York Detectives.

Chicago, April 29.—Peggy Hopkins Joyce has given the slip to the detectives which she declared were spying on her contantly in New York and is in seclusion in Chicago, preparing to fight the divorce proceedings instituted by J. Stanley Joyce, her millionaire husband, it was learned today. The former Follies girl said she had to flee an espionage system established about her by her husband. She pretended he was going to the country for the week-end, slipped away from the sleuths and hastened to Chicago.

For many weeks, she said, her every movement has been spied upon. Peggy's purpose in coming here, it was declared, was to "fight it out" with her husband. The chief bone of contention between them, it is asserted, was the jewels and property lavished upon her by Joyce. The property, said to be worth more than $500,000, Peggy claims is hers while Joyce, it is understood, will seek to establish legal claims to it.

IRISH MODERATES TO PUBLISH PLAN

Favor Extended Dominion Rule for Ireland.

London, April 29.—A new Irish peace plan, embodying a scheme for extended dominion rule for Ireland, shortly will be published by the Irish moderates, it was learned from an authoritative source, this afternoon.

A despatch from Dublin quoted Cardinal Logue, Primate of Ireland, as saying in addition at Clonfert:

"I know for a fact that the people of Ireland plainly prefer that they can obtain a full measure of self government with control of their own taxes."

Cardinal Logue apparently referred to an address by Premier Lloyd George [illegible]

Rome, April 29.—The Italian Fascisti [illegible] seized the government at Fiume in defiance of the Italian and Jugo-Slav governments, has promised to relinquish its power tonight to an international commission headed by Mayor Pallaveri according to information received from Fiume today.

The Italian government and all the Fiuman parties have agreed to support the commission [illegible] reported from Trieste to have fired on leave Fiume, Friday night. Violent clashes between Fascisti and Fascisti occurred in Fiume before the latter refused to give up their arms.

HOBO HARKENS CALL OF ROAD

But He Works To Support Himself, Defender Says.

HOBO MIGRATORY, BUT NO LOAFER

Unemployment Situation Discussed at Meeting of Brotherhood Welfare Association.

Chicago, April 29.—The American "hobo" harkens to the call of the open road but he works to support himself that person commonly called the "bum" never works and also he stays in one place just as long as the police will let him.

These essential differences between America's migratory workers and just plain loafers, were dwelt upon at length today, at the opening of a three day emergency meeting of the International Brotherhood Welfare association on the unemployment situation, with more than thirty officials of the organization from all over the country, including James Eads How, "millionaire hobo" of St. Louis in attendance. Mrs. Lillian Lebova, of Toledo, Ohio came to the defense of the American hobo as the first speaker of the day.

"The fact that they never get a steady job," Mrs. Lebova said "is simply the fault of nature. They're [illegible] When the [illegible] of spring are heard in the air, they must [illegible] for the open road. They're [illegible] by nature, and they will work [illegible] they can get a job."

The meeting [illegible] to adopt a resolution calling upon President Harding and congress to consider unemployment.

YOUNGSTOWN MAN THOUGHT FEUD VICTIM

Is Shot Twice by an Unknown Assailant Last Night.

Youngstown, April 29.—While he was standing in the door of his cigar store on Front street, last night, James Falconi, known to the local underworld as "Big Jim" was shot twice in the right side by an unknown assailant, who escaped. Hospital authorities believe he will recover.

Police believe an Italian feud involving persons prominent in the underworld, was the cause of the shooting. Mrs. Falconi, who was sitting in an automobile a few feet away when the shooting occurred, his former bartender and three bystanders are held as material witnesses.

Falconi came to Youngstown nine years ago, from New York. He had recently been convicted of violation of the federal prohibition law and sentenced to four months in the workhouse, but was out on bond, pending an appeal.

A British Classic.

Newmarket, England, April 29.—The "Two Thousand Guineas," one of the classics of the British turf, was won here, today, by Craig An Eran. Lemonora finished second and Humorist, third.

CROWN PRINCE UNDER CHARGES

Claimed Carol, of Roumania Is a Bigamist.

MARRIES DAUGHTER OF KING CONSTANTINE

Charged That Prince Has Divorced Wife and a Child Living in Roumania.

Paris, April 29.—That the crown prince, Carol, of Roumania, [illegible] ted bigamy when he married princess, Helene, daughter of King Constantine of Greece, is the sensational charge made by the Gazette de Lausanne.

The Swiss newspaper declares it can prove that the heir to the Roumanian throne never annulled his marriage to his former sweetheart Jeanne Marie Valentine Lambrino before he married the Greek princess and that the previous marriage was legal in every way. Furthermore, adds the newspaper, the Roumanian crown prince is the father of a son born to his first wife.

The love affair of Carol and Miss Lambrino, daughter of a Roumanian general, received but scant attention in the newspapers because it passed through a period when the war was engrossing public attention. By court order, the Roumanian censor ruthlessly eliminated from all despatches nearly all references to Miss Lambrino. One Roumanian newspaper which had hinted at some of the facts was suppressed.

The Lambrino family is one of the best known in Roumania and enjoyed the intimacy of the court. The intimacy increased when the Germans invaded Roumania and the royal family sought refuge in Jassy, where the seat of government was installed.

Quietly Married.

Prince Carol visited Mlle. Lambrino nearly every evening at Jassy, until his regiment was sent to the Moldavian mountains for the express purpose of breaking up the courtship. But Carol was determined to marry the general's daughter and by a private courier sent her a letter urging her to elope with him to Odessa. He promised that under no circumstances would he ever marry another woman and that if his father persisted in his opposition he would renounce his right to the Roumanian throne.

Mlle. Lambrino slipped away to Odessa incognito and alone. There, according to the Gazette de Lausanne, the marriage was legally celebrated in the Petrowska cathedral. The prince wore his uniform and all his decorations. Two Russian officers were witnesses and the Roumanian consul at Odessa sent his felicitations to the newly-wedded pair.

STRANGE WAR BOOK MAKES APPEARANCE

Composed of Letters Written by World War Victims.

Paris, April 29.—The strangest war book yet published is about to make its appearance in France. It was written by scores of men, not one of whom is now alive. The idea was conceived by the Union of French Fathers and Mothers, an organization of parents who lost sons in the war. The book is composed entirely of letters written from the front, published in chronological order and reciting episodes of the big battles of the war. It concludes with two letters written by young Frenchmen who were killed the morning the armistice was signed.

May Be Witness.

Washington, April 29.—Charles G. Dawes, Chicago banker and exponent of strong language, may be one of the witnesses called to tell the house interstate commerce committee about soldier relief, it was indicated today. The committee will start hearings, today, on the Sweet bill, providing for construction of soldier-relief agencies, as recommended in Dawes' report.

To Waste Little Time.

Washington, April 29.—Asserting that beers and wines are intoxicating, Chairman Volstead, of the house judiciary committee, announced, today, that the committee would "waste little time" on consideration of arguments against his bill prohibiting use of beer as medicine and restricting use of wine.

Officers Elected.

New York, April 29.—All officers of the American Newspaper Publishers' association, with the exception of treasurer, were reelected at a meeting of the association here today. Howard Davis, of the New York Tribune, was elected treasurer. T. R. Williams, of the Pittsburg Press, was reelected president.

To Begin Operation.

Mansfield, April 29.—Officials of the Mansfield Sheet & Tin Plate company announced the resumption of the entire plant on a two-per-cent production basis, by next Tuesday.

Hope is the mother of disappointment.

A Poultry Demonstration.

At a poultry demonstration Thursday afternoon at the farm of G. E. Waddell in Pleasant township Mrs. Waddell told how she successfully raised 470 out of a flock of 500 chicks. These birds, now six weeks old, average about a pound each in weight. Mrs. Waddell's record is considered remarkable in view of reports from poultry raisers to the effect that some have lost half of their flocks. E. L. Dakin of Ohio State university gave a demonstration on the selection of male birds and how to feed cockerel to make broilers.

Marion and Delaware county commissioners held a joint meeting this morning at 10 o'clock and inspected the joint county bridge one mile east of North, with a view to making need of repairs on it.

ERIE RESTAURANT CHANGES ITS MANAGER IN MARION

J. G. Hughes, of Elmira, New York, Succeeds Harry Tushek, Who Is Transferred.

[illegible] was received here this morning that [illegible] of the Erie [illegible] to the [illegible] and [illegible] to [illegible].

William Wilson, a veteran conductor of the Erie, is rapidly recovering from his operation for appendicitis at Ingham, and will be able to take the hospital in a few days.

[illegible] and J. J. Kane, of Cleveland, one of the Erie [illegible] are [illegible] here [illegible] railroad [illegible] today.

Orders were issued Thursday for the closing of all repair shops of the Erie railroad between New York and Chicago for an indefinite period, beginning next Monday. At general headquarters at Hornell, New York, it was said that more than 5,000 men would be thrown out of work. Officials said that the suspension was necessary because revenues of the railroad were not sufficient to meet present operating expenses. General reductions in yard and road forces were also ordered effective at once.

A change has been made in the management of the Erie restaurant, conducted by the Murphy system, in this city. Harry Tushek, who has been manager of the restaurant for several years, has been promoted to the management of the restaurant at the B. & O. station in Baltimore, Maryland.

Mr. and Mrs. Tushek left today for Baltimore. Mr. Tushek has been succeeded here by J. G. Hughes, who arrived with his wife and son from Elmira, New York. Mr. Hughes has been with the Murphy interests for fifteen years.

Little Land Left Fit for Subdivision Between Marion and the New Country Club.

A "looker" at the Avondale lots south of Sawyers said he had just walked in from the country club called our attention to the small amount of desirable locations left on the west side of the traction line.

The way people are enquiring for our Avondale lots bears out the above statement and in a way shows us up in not "getting" that fact ourselves.

The payments on our lots are made through the Citizens Building and Loan which assures our patrons of quick, cordial and efficient treatment in the handling of their accounts. We have many buyers who are ready to build but are not able to get the money just at present. The sale of these lots officially opens tomorrow and if the weather permits will nearly close out Saturday and Sunday. All who are interested in a future home or investment should inspect these choice lots at once. They sell on weekly terms without interest at any time.

ALLIES ACTING IN FULL ACCORD

"But in occupying the Ruhr, we will only execute a police operation. We do not intend to harm anyone or destroy any property. It follows that we must employ many more troops than would be necessary for a real invasion, in order to guard against guerilla warfare or surprise attack by small groups of disconsolated Germans.

"That is not all. Even though only two classes of 1918 and 1919, with about 700,000 men, are mobilized, it will involve a serious economic disturbance for these young workers, whose families will be deprived of their earnings. The government should grant them extra pay and better terms than French soldiers receive in time of war. Provision must also be provided for the care of their families while they are here and all this should be charged against Germany."

France Willing.

Paris, April 29.—France is willing to discuss new indemnity proposals from Germany, but "France must have firm guarantees and securities that Germany will meet her just obligations," it was announced at the foreign office, today.

Is Confident.

Paris, April 29.—"I go to London in full confidence of an allied agreement and that we are finally going to settle, once and for all, the difficult matter of reparations," declared Premier Briand, to the International News service, just before he left Paris, at noon today, to attend the meeting of the supreme council.

Among the last conferences held here by the premier was one with Minister of War Barthou. They talked together earnestly a short time before the premier's train departed.

It is expected that the supreme council meeting will end, Tuesday night.

What we are asking from the various chancelleries of the world, we feel to be absolutely right. But during the pendency of these matters and in their solution no individual can foretell what is going to happen. I, for one, believe we can afford to be prepared for any possible emergency."

Following the announcement that he would try to amend the bill, Kahn said that "Japan and China, in Asia, both have infinitely larger armies than this country at present."

"I am not an alarmist. I am not afraid of war, but we all know that world conditions are unsettled," he added. Thousands believe that a reduction in our army will be followed by international disarmament, he said, then continued.

"Some months have elapsed since we reduced our forces. I have seen no indication anywhere that any other nation in the world is making any efforts to follow our footsteps.

FATHER LOSES LEGS, SON NOW LIMB MAKER

Lucius T. Johnston Does Big Work During War.

Lucius T. Johnston of Cincinnati is in this city today in the interest of persons who have suffered amputation of limbs Mr. Johnston was formerly an artificial limb maker and is well known to the crippled public.

During the war Mr Johnston was employed in Washington, New York and Chicago. He says that all told there were about 3,700 soldiers in the United States army who had lost a limb but declared that the soldier learned quickly to walk on artificial legs requiring only from several days to two months

Mr. Johnston takes more than ordinary interest in persons using artificial limbs, as his father, W. A Johnston, had both legs amputated as the result of a railroad accident when the son was five years old About twelve years after the accident Mr Johnston made a pair of artificial limbs with which his father was able to walk and run.

Mr Johnston declares that the average cripple appreciates commonsense conversation and prefers to be shown a way to a job instead of sympathy.

Three by Judge Close, One by Judge Mouser.

ALL OF THOSE GETTING DECREES ARE WOMEN

Suit To Foreclose Brought by Susanna F. Wiley Against C. C. and Bernice M. Keil.

Divorces were granted to four women in the common pleas court today. Three of the cases were heard by Judge Charles F. Close, of Upper Sandusky, and the other was heard by Judge Grant E. Mouser

Mary L. Rogers was granted a divorce from Frank L. Rogers by Judge Mouser on the ground of gross neglect Custody of the two minor children was awarded to the plaintiff and the plaintiff given the right of reasonable visitation and ordered to pay $25 a month toward the support of the children, the first payment to be made June 1. Costs were adjudged against the defendant and the decree was withheld for sixty days

Caroline Smithson was granted a divorce from Arthur L. Smithson by Judge Close on the ground of gross neglect Settlement of property rights was approved and ordered made a part of the entry.

Judge Close granted the defendant a divorce in the case of Harry W. Beck against Elsie Beck. The petition of the plaintiff was withdrawn and the case heard on the defendant's cross-petition charging gross neglect and extreme cruelty. The decree was ordered withheld for ninety days.

Effie D. Riser was granted a divorce from Albert L. Riser by Judge Close on the ground of extreme cruelty. The decree was ordered withheld for sixty days Suit in Foreclosure.

Susanna F. Wiley, through Attorney L. E. Myers, this morning filed in the common pleas court a foreclosure suit against Grover C. Keil, Bernice M. Keil, Christian Allmendinger, the Fahey Baking company and L. B. Roseberry

The plaintiff states Grover C. and Bernice M. Keil executed a note in her favor September 1, 1920 for $2,000, that the note matured April 1, 1921 and nothing has been paid on it. The petition states the note was secured by mortages on 27 54 acres of land in Montgomery township and part of a lot in Marion

The plaintiff also represents that Christian Allmendinger holds a mortgage for $2,000 and the Fahey banking company a note for $1,400 on the Montgomery township property and states these two liens are in excess of the value of the property. It is also represented that the property was rented to L. B. Roseberry for a year or more at cash rental and none of the rent has been paid.

Judgment for $3,105 is asked by the plaintiff. She also prays that the court take account of the amount due her, that the defendants be required to set up any claim they may have in the premises, the mortgage be foreclosed, the premises sold and a receiver be appointed for rents and proceeds from the sale.

HUGHES HEALTH CODE UNDER FIRE

Measure Attacked in State Supreme Court Today.

Columbus, April 29 — Alleging unconstitutionality of the Hughes health code, which provides for municipal and special health districts and the Griswold act, amending and repealing certain sections of the Hughes act, officials of the village of Cuyahoga county, today, filed a petition in mandamus in the state supreme court

The court is asked to compel John A Zangerle, auditor of Cuyahoga county, to issue a warrant in favor of the village for $1,216, representing taxes collected for public health purposes in 1919 and 1920. Auditor Zangerle it is claimed, has refused to turn the money over to the village because of provisions of the Hughes and Griswold acts stating that the village, operating under a charter form of government, has a health commissioner possessing the powers of a health board the village authorities insist that the Hughes and Griswold acts are unconstitutional

SOME NEW FORM OF CITY GOVERNMENT IN MARION

First Steps to That End Taken Last Night.

WHEN COMMITTEE ELECTS J. E. PHILLIPS CHAIRMAN

Form of Government Similar to City Manager Favored—An Exhaustive Study.

First steps toward the recommendation of some form of city government similar to the city manager form for adoption in Marion were taken Thursday evening at an organization meeting of the committee recently appointed by the chamber of commerce. The session was held in the offices of Crissinger, Guthery & Streitz

James F. Phillips was named chairman of the committee and J. Malcolm Streitz was elected secretary. Others members of the committee are J. W. Jacobs, Grant E. Mouser, Jr., and F. J. Schenlaub

To Secure Data.

Committeemen expressed the opinion that it will be at least two years before a plan can be completed, adopted and put in full operation It is the intention of the committee to begin at once to secure data on all the different plans of managerial and commission forms of government

This information will be placed on file with the secretary of the committee and the best ideas of all of them will be recommended and submitted to the people for adoption.

Members of the committee state that it is the intention to push the work to completion as rapidly as possible. They have pointed out that, from the few inquiries already made, cities which are at present under commission forms of government are showing extensive savings by the method of centering all the city expenditures in one business executive.

Mr. Phillips is considered especially well fitted for the post of chairman of this committee, having had five years' experience as a member of the city council during the time when the greatest public improvements were made. Mr Streitz has made a special study on municipal government which it is expected, will aid materially in his post as secretary of the committee.

CREDIT FOR FRAMING DIVORCE REFORM LAW

Claimed by Judge Mouser, L. E. Myers and J. H. Eymon.

Credit for the framing of the divorce reform law unanimously passed by the house of representatives Thursday is being claimed by Judge Grant E. Mouser, J. H. Eymon and L. E. Myers. This bill was introduced in the house two years ago, but was never reported out of committee These local men succeeded in having it reintroduced at this session and dispatches from Columbus predict its passage by the senate early in May As originally framed the bill would require two years residence in the state before a petition could be filed and would require that decree of divorce be withheld for nine months.

CITY IN BRIEF

Mary Caesar—Mrs. Wilford Smiley, who underwent a Caesarian operation at the City hospital Monday, is getting along very well as is also her baby girl, who has been named Mary Caesar.

Stricken by Paralysis—Earl Sargent of east Church street, received word, Wednesday evening, that his brother, Harry Sargent, suffered a stroke of paralysis at his home in Columbus, Wednesday, and was taken to Grant hopital.

Clarence Strine Nabbed—Clarence Strine was arrested Wednesday afternoon on a warrant charging him with depriving Nellie Strine, aged fourteen years, with necessary and proper clothing and with burning her clothing March 16. The affidavit for Strine's arrest was sworn to by C. R. Hartley, who has the keeping of the girl. Strine's hearing was set for 4 o'clock this afternoon.

Will They Do It—Ida Yoakam fined $200 and costs and sentenced to three months in the workhouse for conducting a disorderly house, and her son, Wilbert Yoakam, who was fined $100 and sentenced to three months on a disorderly charge, were released this morning by arranging for the payment of the fines and costs. The workhouse sentences were suspended by the mayor on provision that they leave Marion and remain away.

Five Building Permits — Five building permits were issued at the office of the city clerk, Wednesday the nice weather having a tendency to increase this business. The permits were taken out as follows: G. M. Nichols, residence, north Main street, $2,000; J. A. Larson, residence, Summit street, $1,000; M. Nicolsi, residence addition, Waterloo street, $50; Mrs. William Scofield garage, Bellefontaine avenue, $1,000; J. E. Gibbs, garage, Fairground street, $100.

From Alaska—Gilbert B. Stevens, representing mining men of Fairbanks, Alaska, was in the city today conferring with Marion Steam Shovel company officials in regard to a drag-line scraper for the mining districts near Fairbanks. Mr. Stevens, who was reared near Galion, recenty came to Ohio from the far North to visit relatives and he and his father, A. L. Stevens, of Galion, are calling on old friends here today. Mr. Stevens has been in Alaska since 1897 and is interested in the mining buiness there. This is his first visit home in nine years. GET UP! THEN SPADE UP OR PLOW UP THAT LOT!

Greater Marion Clean-Up Derby To Open Monday.

'TWILL LAST FORTNIGHT, SO BECOME ENTRANT

Afterward, There Wul Be an Inspection—Everybody Had Better Watch Out.

"Clean up in Marion is to be observed for a period of two weeks commencing next Monday. This was decided and plans made at a meeting of the various city officials in the office of the mayor this morning. Marion has boasted of being one of the cleanest cities in the state following the general clean ups and it will be the effort this year to put the city in a class by itself.

The general request to clean up and paint up has been augmented by the request to spade up or plow up. Owners of vacant properties are urged by city officials to have them dug up so as to stop the growth of weeds and the spreading of seed. Converting vacant properties into gardens is suggested and where the owners of lots do not care to follow this plan, they would undoubtedly profit by giving them to some person to use for garden purposes, officials say.

It is the opinion of the city officials that the residents of Marion have enough civic pride to cooperate with them in this drive. There is no reason to prevent starting the work at once now having completed their own yards.

A little paint will work wonders and cleaning properties and painting up unkempt lots enhances their value it is argued.

Orders for rubbish wagons are left by telephoning the police department or city engineer's office. After the expiration of the two weeks clean up period the police chief and fire chief will make the rounds of the city and where the order has not been complied with the property owners will be ordered to comply and failure to obey will result in their arrest.

TO INVESTIGTE CERTAIN PERSONS

Accused of Trying To Unduly Influence Ohio Legislature.

Columbus April 28—The house today, adopted a resolution introduced by Representative Freeman Harding county providing for a committee of five to investigate the conduct of certain persons accused of having attempted to use undue influence in connection with the Emery bush license bill tabled in the house.

The house passed the Snow bill providing that electors need not give their ages when registering for voting. The bill goes to the senate.

Market Steady.

New York April 28—Trading on the stock exchange was less active this morning, but the market was generally steady.

Mayor Disguises Himself As Hobo

The Workers Lodge of Boston, was visited by Mayor Andrew J. Peters, who came disguised as a hobo. He slept there in a room with 40 men and was aroused at 5 A. M. to chop wood for four hours for his breakfast. A young man watching the Mayor's super-human efforts on the wood pile, offered to help him. The Mayor asked him to call at City Hall and struck the man speechless by disclosing himself mayor and offering him a job.

GOVERNOR DAVIS IS CONGRATULATED

On Position Taken Touching Ohio Wage Measures.

Columbus April 28—"I desire to congratulate you on your open position for the minimum wage and, on behalf of the cause, beg you at this time to appeal to the members of the senate to pass the Schlimpert bill as it came to us from the house" declared Senator J. F. Burke Lyrla, in his letter to Governor Davis.

"The reasons for this appeal are almost too obvious to state," said Senator Burke. "Some of the ... to recognize the governor as the ... leader of their party and ... now in possession of the ... office, it will be the duty ... prime force, as has been the case ... other occasions.

"Your open approval of the principles of the minimum wage has helped. Should you openly endorse the Schlimpert bill specifically, it would surely mean its enactment as a law, in all probability."

A report has become widespread that Dr. T. H. McAfee has resigned the pastorate of the Trinity Baptist church on account of his health. This report evidently grew out of the announcement that Dr. George M. Landis who conducted a series of special meetings at the local church this winter had been retained as associate pastor.

Dr. McAfee has not resigned and has sufficiently recovered from his serious illness of last summer and fall to assume some part of the duties of his pastorate. He was up town today and called at the Star office.

OUIJA BOARD LEADS TO DAMAGE SUIT

Ouija, fireside companion in thousands of homes and confidential adviser to hundreds of families, has been dragged in court in a $10,000 suit for slander in the Will county court at Joliet, Illinois. A year ago the family of Mrs. Clara Yost, of Lockport, Illinois, went away from home for a brief visit. On their return they found a quantity of sugar and raisins missing. Mrs. Yost began an investigation and consulted the ouija board. Ouija, it is alleged, stated that Mr. and Mrs. Frank Walters, neighbors and old friends of the Yost family, had taken the missing articles. The story circulated about Lockport and Mr. and Mrs. Walters demanded that Mrs. Yost make a retraction in the local paper This she refused to do and the $10,000 slander suit is the result.

Fair Treatment For the Press.

New York, April 29.—Postmaster General Hays, in an address at the annual luncheon of the American Newspaper Publishers' association, outlined the attitude of his department toward the press. "There are two things in connection with our relation which I would state and re-emphasize. First, it is no part of the primary business of the postoffice department to act as a censor of the press. This should not and will not be. Second: we are going to get along together and do the right thing in all of these matters of classification."

GERMAN OFFER IS INADEQUATE

Three Allied Powers Transmit Views to Hughes.

PROPOSALS ARE HELD WHOLLY IMPOSSIBLE

United States Receives Replies from Great Britain, France and Belgium.

Washington, April 29.—Diplomatic representatives of three of the allied powers—Great Britain, France and Belgium—transmitted to Secretary Hughes the views of their governments with respect to Germany's reparations proposals.

The secretary of state, it is understood, was informed that the German offer in its present form was unacceptable. Whether any suggestions were made that Germany be asked to put forward new and more liberal terms was not disclosed. It was emphasized officially, however, that the chief question at issue was not whether the proposals as such were acceptable to the allied governments, but whether they could be regarded as the basis for renewed discussions from which satisfactory terms might eventuate.

Administration officers still maintained silence as to the form of reply that would be made to the German communication. Secretary Hughes had not yet heard from the Italian and Japanese governments, whose envoys he received Tuesday after the German proposals reached Washington.

Since the German offer is to be considered at the meeting of the allied supreme council tomorrow, there were suggestions in some quarters that the American reply might be held up, pending further decision by the premiers. While admittedly without official information, others believed that the messages delivered to Mr. Hughes have been of such a nature as to enable the American government to proceed with the next step in the exchanges with Berlin.

Statements by Premiers Lloyd George of Great Britain and Briand of France that the German offer was unacceptable were received by officials here with manifest interest, but apparently no surprise. Comment regarding them, however, as well as the semi-official announcement at Berlin that Germany was prepared to modify its proposals, if requested to do so by the United States, was refused.

THE J-CYCLE IS NEWEST FORM OF THE BICYCLE

...cals Bicycle bicycle, which its inventor calls the "J-cycle," makes this popular means of transportation more adaptable for use by folks of all ages. The rider does not have to lean over, but sits up straight as in a chair and keeps his entire body in normal position. This is accomplished by high handle bars that do not require any bending of the body, and a comfortable seat-chair instead of the ordinary three-cornered affair. The feet can be placed on the ground at any time and the "J-cycle" can be operated by one foot while the other is resting.

Holding A Husband

BY ADELE GARRISON.

As I backed the car out of the garage and swung it toward the road I was more distressed than I cared to admit to myself—partly that I "hated leaving my own side of town before I came back from my trip to the North, remember the rain of which I had just received a downpour—but as I sped along through the brazen, wooded, cool spring air my feminine mind persisted in[illegible]

Finding myself in the middle of the afternoon, I drew over to the curb and stopped to eat the lunch I had brought with me. The food, packed with a thoughtful hand, was delicious and the drive had given me a wholesome appetite, so I enjoyed every bite of it. The property, such I believe is a fairly comprehensive survey, was set at least thirty automobile lengths back from the highway, and the[illegible]

I received an answer to my question in the first place, for I met no one. Perhaps the place was deserted, I thought, as I walked up the path toward the house. Perhaps the owners had gone away for the summer. Perhaps—

I saw something else, too, as the door opened—or rather my nose told me first, as I caught a whiff of her breath. Her look of stupid surprise was explained. She had been drinking, and that rather heavily. If my brain had not issued a peremptory command to my feet to stay where they were I am afraid they would have carried me precipitately down the steps. I dread, instinctively, the proximity of a drunken person.

"What do you want?" she asked, with the slow, resistant articulation of the person who knows that speech is unsteady and betraying.

"I am afraid I have the wrong house," I said, glad of any excuse to get away. "I am Mrs. Richard Graham, of Marvin, and some one telephoned me an hour ago that a certain property was for sale here—"

"Oh!" She surveyed me owlishly after the exclamation. "Thash all right. A girl was here—somewhere—she looked about vacantly—"and she did telephone, and she told me you'd be here, and that I was to—what did she tell me I was to do—" she demanded, gimleting her eyes into mine.

"Perhaps to show the house," I ventured, beginning to see that there was nothing to fear, much to pity, in the ridiculous but pathetic figure before me.

"Thash it," she exclaimed, evidently relieved. "Well, come along. I'll show it to you."

"Do you live here?" I asked.

She turned a suspicious look upon me.

"Where else should I live?" she demanded, irritably, then fell again into her heaviness of manner. "Yes, I live here, me—and my little dogs, and my husband," she added, evidently as an afterthought.

That she was a breeder and fancier of thoroughbred dogs I saw before we had proceeded a few steps from the room I had entered. Tiny woolen dogs were everywhere, some in baskets, mothers with litters of puppies on soft pads in boxes, groups of others in improvised kennels in the kitchen, while from the upper regions proceeded the yapping of others. And yet, to her credit, she had managed her kennels so well that one had not spoiled the house, as I at once decided she must have done.

I followed her from room to room, now deciding that the house would never do, again admiring some feature of it, wondering if we could not make it do. I put some judicious questions to her. She stopped and leaned against a window, regarding me with the owlish look I had found so ludicrous.

"Now, I'm not trying to knock the house y'understand," she said, solemnly, "but I've taken a fancy to you, dearie, and I'm not goin' to let the agent put anything over on you. In the first place, don't you think if the house was any good we'd have bought it? Had the money to pay cash for it. But the plumbing is awful, all old and falling to pieces, and we've burned twenty tons of coal so far, and it's a mild winter, too, and the neighbor on one side is going to turn her place into a piggery this summer, hundreds of pigs, and the man on the other side is a truck gardener, and he piles loads of fertilizer next the fence—brings loads of flies—"

I interrupted her with a little shudder of disgust.

"Thank you so much for telling me these things," I said. "Of course I shall not want the house. And I must not keep you longer."

"There was something else I was to tell you," she said honestly. "But I can't think what it was."

"Never mind about it now, Linda," a voice that I recognized said behind me. "I'll tell Mrs. Graham the rest."

I wheeled, to look into the face of Grace Draper.

Bad Luck and the Devil Pursued Him

"I don't think any one boy had more bad luck and sickness than I have. In 1915 I had two ribs, an arm and collar bone broken in a railroad accident. Then I had pneumonia. After recovering I crossed a pasture when a bull chased me, tossed me over the fence and broke my right leg. In 1919 I had typhoid fever; since then severe stomach and liver trouble, which no medicine or doctor touched until two years ago I got a bottle of Mayr's Wonderful Remedy, which proved the first ray of light in thirteen years." It is a simple harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded. For sale by all druggists. —Adv.

HE OFTEN HAD DIZZY SPELLS

Marion man has been a patient sufferer from dizzy spells, bad taste in his mouth, constipation, headaches, gas on his stomach, and a general weakened, rundown condition. Dreco restored his health. Now sells at old price.

Thousands of men and women have stomach trouble and don't know it. They pay little or no attention to the little warnings sent out by Nature in the way of heavy, uneasy feeling after eating, gas formation, acid risings, lumps in the throat, water brash and other signals, which gradually grow worse instead of better, as time wears on until the victim soon finds himself with a genuine case of stomach trouble. This, even with the best of care, is liable to develop into kidney complaint, constipation, rheumatism, liver complaint and serious ills.

Take the case of Fred Barker, a well known merchant of W. Center St., Marion, A. He says: "I often had headaches, bad taste in my mouth, dizzy spells, gas on my stomach, pains in my back, was constipated all the time and I thought I couldn't get anything that would go deep enough to reach my trouble, but I tried the new root and herb medicine, Dreco, and I began to feel better right away, and now I am better than for a long time, and go about my work with a vim. All these troubles are past and it is a pleasure to endorse this great medicine, which did me so much good."

Dreco, the new medicine that is causing so much favorable comment in this section, is made from the juices and extracts of many different roots, herbs, barks and leaves and acts right on the vital organs. It strengthens weak kidneys, rouses a lazy liver, relieves constipation and purifies the blood.

All good druggists now sell Dreco and it is highly recommended in Marion by the Rexall Store, and in Prospect, O., by Osborn & Son. Adv.

The bondsmen of Haywood will soon be able to appreciate the fellow assigned to the job of holding the bag in the snipe hunt.

"My idea of nothing worth worrying about," observed the restaurant philosopher at luncheon today, "is the fact that dangerous counterfeit hundred-dollar bills are in circulation."

Our memory goes back to a time when, once or twice a year, two weeks in succession would pass unmarked by any special drive.

In the interests of morality, the Newark American Tribune suggests that women wear trousers. We would like to see that paragrapher run for office, just to see how he wouldn't run.

If the frosts didn't do any greater damage to the fruits than was suffered by the spring flowers, the profiteers will have to find some other excuse for keeping up prices.

It must have called for a lot of self-repression on the part of Colonel Harvey to have refrained from telling Senator Pat. Harrison to go and get a reputation before trying to get out of his class.

And now comes the announcement that we are to have a municipal clean-up. One thing we always like about her—Marion is never premature.

Well, here we are with but a few hours between us and May day, and we fail to see the slightest indication of that revolution which, a few months ago was going to break with the advent of May.

Accepting the story that Haywood is in Moscow at its face value, it may be said that Leavenworth prison has suffered no loss and Moscow no gain.

There's one respect in which the average paragrapher labors under a handicap. Nobody would ever think of giving him a chance to manifest his absolute probity by offering him a $100,000,000 bribe.

What gets us is that Mr. Daniels as good as admits that great discrimination was shown in selecting him for secretary of the navy. Wouldn't you think he would be the last to mention it?

But with dry officers over in Canada on the alert and more of them on this side watching for rum-runners, isn't the cost of liquid delight liable to become prohibitive?

Mexico has been the target for a lot of slam in type during the last year or two, but it may be noted that she is endeavoring to pay at least the interest on her debts, and that's a lot more than some governments are doing.

NO TAX REDUCTION PROMISED.

A prominent Democrat paper remarked recently, with an attempt at facetiousness, that the Republican national administration will talk about reducing taxes, but will accomplish nothing soon in that direction. That paper also intimated that the Republicans promised reduction of taxes. As a matter of fact, neither party pledged tax reductions. In the Republican platform adopted at Chicago the section relating to taxation began as follows:

"The burden of taxation imposed upon the American people is staggering; but in presenting a true statement of the situation we must face the fact that, while the character of the taxes can and should be changed, an early reduction of the amount of revenue to be raised is not to be expected. The next Republican administration will inherit from its Democratic predecessor a floating indebtedness of over $[illegible],000,000, the prompt liquidation of which is demanded by sound financial considerations."

The platform also set forth [illegible] the floating indebtedness of $[illegible] is an early maturing bond [illegible] 000,000. As everybody knows, [illegible] interest burden at the present time [illegible] equal to the entire government [illegible] all purposes prior to the w[illegible] party dealt frankly and honestly [illegible] of the country by expressly asserting that there is no hope of early reduction of taxes. The Democratic platform was not quite so frank, for, although not promising reduction, the Democrats did not admit the impossibility of reduction. They hoped to gain a few votes by leaving the inference that they might reduce the tax burden.

As to the nature of the changes in taxation, the two parties were in accord. The Republicans promised "tax laws which do not for tax laws which do, excessively mulct the consumer or needlessly repress enterprise and thrift." This was aimed at the excess profits tax which has discouraged enterprise and is charged with increasing prices to the extent of twenty-three per cent. The Democratic platform pledged a revision of the tax laws "to fit peace conditions so that the wealth of the nation may not be withdrawn from productive enterprise and diverted to wasteful or unproductive expenditure." This was apparently a pledge to repeal the excess profits tax for that is the tax which has been charged with withdrawing money from productive enterprise.

As indicated by President Harding in his address to congress, it is the desire of Republicans to reduce the tax burden if possible, and their efforts will be best in that direction, but it should be distinctly understood that there was no campaign or pre-election promise that such a result would be attained.

Any attempt of the Democrats at this stage of developments to create the impression that Republicans are guilty of breaking promises if they fail to reduce tax burdens, is dishonest. The Republicans openly declared in their platform that they had no hope of reducing the amount of the burden in the near future. They did promise to substitute a better form of tax—one that would not repress enterprise or needlessly mulct the consumer. This pledge they will keep.

LEPROSY IS BEING CURED.

Close upon the announcement that a vaccine has been discovered to prevent tuberculosis in cattle comes the report that the miracle of the cleansing of lepers has been wrought by modern science and that thus the most stubborn disease in the world has been conquered, even in advanced cases.

The dispatch from Honolulu describes the dramatic departure from the leper colony of those who have been cured. In simple grandeur the notes and words of the Doxology arose from half a thousand throats; a stalwart, white-haired Hawaiian senator and pastor spoke a solemn benediction and sixty-four men and women—once lepers—filed between the lava pillars of Kahili's gates to freedom, back to a world from which they had been outcasts, back to the homes which some at least had believed they never would see again. Science had won a great battle with the scourge of the ages.

The sixty four patients who were released on parole from Kahili hospital after treatment with refined chaulmoogra oil constituted the third division so returned to their homes. In all, 142 have been paroled during the last two years and not a single one has been sent back owing to a recurrence of the disease.

Officially, the institution is known as Kahili hospital, but its inmates call it by another name, a strange name, unless one has the cheerfulness born of hope that pervades the air there. It is "Mount Happy."

On the day the sixty and four were paroled, friends and relatives gathered from far and near in the Islands to greet those who came out of the vale of shadow. The clear voice of a Hawaiian woman started singing the Doxology, others swelled the volume and, to the accompaniment of rustling palms and the hum of a warm trade wind in the trees, the air of thankfulness and praise carried through to its last grand note. Stephen De La, minister of the gospel and territorial senator, more than six feet tall, stalwart and white-headed, pronounced a benediction in the Hawaiian tongue. The sixty four turned to the right and marched out between the lava pillars of the gate to the arms of their waiting relatives and friends.

It is a touching and appropriate picture. Leprosy has been conquered. The most loathsome disease of the human race has succumbed to the application of modern scientific discovery. Now [illegible] come tuberculosis, and [illegible] step toward [illegible]

LOOKING HIM OVER VERY CAREFULLY

LIFE'S VAUDEVILLE.

[By James Hall Naylor]

THE COST OF THE WORLD WAR.

According to figures carefully compiled by Senator Spencer, the great World war cost the allies the stupendous sum of $177,000,000,000.

The credit indemnity amounts to $35,000,000,000.

This leaves a final loss of $135,000,000,000—distributed among the allied nations.

This compilation submitted to the United States senate by Senator Spencer, obtained from various authentic sources, he assures us, brings the World war account up to January 1, 1921. It includes the total military and naval cost of the great conflict, the civilian cost and damage, relief contributions, loans and credits extended, estimated pensions and insurance to be paid. It also includes indemnity paid, and to be paid, by Germany, under provisions of the treaty, and the net financial loss of each nation, with credit for indemnity allowed and, as matters now stand, with inter-loans and interest unpaid.

Here is Senator Spencer's table of gross cost for each nation, indemnity to be received by each nation, and final loss of each nation:

Great Britain—$51,052,634,000—$9,850,000,000—$41,202,634,000.

France —$54,272,915,000 — $16,000,000,000—$38,272,915,000.

Italy —$18,680,847,000 — $3,500,000,000 — $15,180,847,000.

Belgium —$8,174,731,000—$5,700,000,000—$2,474,731,000.

China —$565,376,000—$100,000,000— $465,376,000.

Japan —$481,618,000—$250,000,000—$231,618,000.

So the United States is to lose, finally, more than any other nation engaged in the war, on the side of the allies.

Yet she is gravely asked graciously to cancel and forgive the debts owed to her by her associates in the war!

What gratitude—what magnanimity!

America is to get indemnities amounting to less than one-twentieth of the cost of the war to her; Great Britain is to get indemnities aggregating more than one-sixth of her total war debt; France is to be remunerated to the extent of more than one-fourth of her losses; Italy is to receive one-sixth of her war debt in indemnities; Belgium is to get back five-eighths of her losses; China is to be awarded almost one-fifth of her losses; and Japan is to be restored more than half of hers.

Still the United States is asked to cancel all the loans she has made to her associates.

Japan gets the Shantung peninsula—maybe the island of Yap.

America doesn't get a foot of land.

Britain gets territory.

America gets none.

France gains domain.

America does not.

Italy profits in the way of additional realm.

America knows no such profit.

Yet America is courteously requested to forgive her debtors—but not to forget to feed the peoples of her debtors!

America has been the goat.

America is the goat.

But it's time she stopped her baaing — and went to butting!

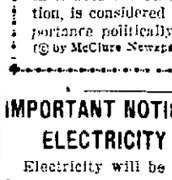
The Story of Our States

By JONATHAN BRACE.

XIX.—INDIANA



IT WAS the French flag which first floated over Indiana. In the middle of the seventeenth century La Salle's explorations brought him through the wooded wilderness of Indiana. Shortly there followed Jesuit missionaries from Quebec and in their trail came adventurous rangers and fur traders. French forts and trading posts were soon established. In 1763 the British took possession of this territory after the French and Indian wars, and remained in possession until the Revolution.

One of the boldest campaigns of the Revolution was that of Clark's little army, whose indomitable courage and audacity finally defeated the large British garrison at Vincennes and won the Northwest territory for Virginia. Pioneers from the East and from Kentucky made their way into this new territory, and among these was Abraham Lincoln's family. It was in 1816, the year that Indiana became the nineteenth state, that Lincoln attained citizenship in Indiana. With the increase in population by 1800 Indiana Territory was formed, extending from the Ohio border west to the Mississippi and north to Canada. Vincennes was selected as the first capital. In 1804, when the Louisiana Purchase was made, the government of Louisiana was placed in the hands of the Indiana Territory officials, so that for one year the capital of Louisiana was also at Vincennes in Indiana.

Although nicknamed the Hoosier State, from the old southern slang for rough backwoodsmen, Indiana, with its 36,354 square miles, its fifteen Presidential electors, and containing as it does the center of population, is considered of utmost importance politically.

RAILWAY UNIONS PRESENT THEIR CASE

Contend That Wage Reductions Are Not Justified.

Chicago, April 29—Reduction of railroad wages would impair the standard of American living and would have no justification in ethics, economic reason or the cold, concrete facts of present day industrial life, it was declared by B. M. Jewell, head of the railway unions, who opened the employes' fight to retain present wage scales before the railroad labor board.

Contentions of the railroads that the cost of living had declined since the wage award of July, 1920, were met with the reply that the award was based on the prices of December, 1919, and not on those of July, 1920, the peak of high prices. Mr. Jewell declared that it would require three years for railway employes at their present wages, to recoup the losses sustained during the war period "by the failure of their earnings to keep pace with the increased cost of living."

"Coal mining and the steel industries are the only basic industries that may be compared to the railroad industry," Mr. Jewell continued, "and it is well known that there have been no wage cuts for the miners or for the steel workers."

HOOVER PROPOSES NEW FOOD SCHEME

Creation of National Food Marketing Board Is Urged.

Washington, April 29—Creation of a national food marketing board under the chairmanship of the secretary of agriculture and with the existing bureau of markets as its executive arm, was suggested by Secretary Hoover as a means of relief to farmers and consumers.

In a letter to Senator Capper the commerce secretary outlined as one of the functions of such a board "the formation of regulations or voluntary agreements with the produce exchanges in such manner as not to undermine the very necessary process of hedging, but at the same time to control that type of speculation which was able to throw a powerful drive upon the market to crush the weak holder of grain and force him upon

...e Market

Other services to be performed by the proposed board, Secretary Hoover said, would be the determination and publication of facts as to distribution and prices of vegetable and fruit and the development of warehousing practices with respect to grain and other agricultural products. Secretary Hoover also emphasized the necessity of freight rate readjustments.

BASEBALL

Tagging the Bases.

Ralph Miller and Lee Meadows, of the Phillies, hit homers with the bases full, giving Philadelphia an overwhelming victory at the expense of the Braves. Cy Williams added a lone homer to the Philly total.

The Indians set a season's record for hits and runs, against Detroit, with twenty-three hits and eighteen runs. Uhle pitched for the winners and made a home run with the bases full.

Dutch Reuther's pitching was too much for the Giants and though the Dodgers made but four hits, they managed to make it four straight over New York. George Kelly added a double and a triple to his season's total.

The pitching of Joe Bush and Elmer Byers, of the Red Sox, was too strong for the Athletics, though Frank Walker contributed a home run to Philadelphia's total.

A triple steal by Rice, Lewis and Harris featured the Yankee-Senator game, but the Yankees broke a losing streak with Piercy pitching.

Keep Your Blood in Good Condition and You Throw Off Disease.

PAY ATTESTION TO YOUR HEALTH

No Need To Take Chances with It. Pepto-Mangan Makes Rich, Red Blood.

When you first feel a tired, all-gone feeling and look pale, your blood is losing in quality. Weak, impoverished blood has no power to fight disease. It takes red blood to keep you well.

If you keep your blood in good condition it will fight off disease. You will not be such an easy prey to long and expensive sickness. With thin blood you take chances every day.

There's no need doing that. You can take Pepto-Mangan and build up rich, red blood. With red blood you are able to win in the fight against prevailing disease. Try Pepto-Mangan. It comes in tablet or liquid form. Take either kind. The tablet has the same medicinal value as the liquid. But be sure you get the genuine Pepto-Mangan. Ask for "Gude's" and be sure that the name, "Gude's Pepto-Mangan," is on the package.—Advertisement.

GERMANS ARE STANDING PAT

Adhere to Indemnity Proposals in Washington Note.

A WAITING POLICY IS BEING FOLLOWED

No Indication of Resignation of Ministry.

Majority and Independent Socialist Leaders Are Urging Capitulation by Cabinet. Simons Is Attacked.

Paris, April 30.—Germany again defied the allies on indemnity, today. The allied reparations commission received a note from Berlin, in which Germany made final refusal to pay 1,000,000,000 gold marks which the allies had demanded by March 23. The 1,000,000,000 gold marks are part of the 12,000,000,000 gold marks the allies alleged were due May 1.

Standing Pat.

Berlin, April 30.—With the inter-allied supreme council assembled in London to discuss further military penalties upon Germany, the German government was still standing pat, today, upon the indemnity proposals contained in the note to Washington.

There were persistent rumors in Wilhelmstrasse that the United States had replied formally to the German note, but this was denied by Ellis Loring Dresel, the United States commissioner. The decision to stand on the latest offer and to maintain a "waiting policy" for the time being, was adopted at a four-hour session of the German cabinet, last night. This contradicted the expectation in Socialist quarters that the ministry would resign at the last moment, making way for a new cabinet committed to complete capitulation to the allied demands.

The only rift in the clouds of gloom was a vague and unconfirmed report from Paris that the reparations commission has decided that the question involving Germany's payment of 20,000,000,000 gold marks, by May 1, does not justify further military invasion.

Majority and Independent Socialist leaders, anxious over the outlook, are urging capitulation by the cabinet.

Vorwaerts, organ of the Majority Socialists, taunts the ministers with charges of cowardice because they threatened to resign "leaving the country in the lurch at this critical hour."

The Bavarian leader, Herr Selm, made a bitter attack upon Foreign Minister Simons, although generally speaking the hostility against the foreign minister seems to be dying down.

"Any minister who was knave enough to engage an American lawyer is impossible and must go," declared the Bavarian leader.

Price Reduction.

Akron, April 30.—Reduction in the cost of raw materials is said to be responsible for the twenty-per-cent. reduction in prices of tires, announced today by the B. F. Goodrich company. The reduction becomes effective May 2, said Manager Rutherford.

ITALY EXPECTS AMERICAN VETO

London Conference Decision May Be Denied Approval.

ROME TRIBUNA TALKS OF ALLIED COUNCIL

French Influence Expected To Dominate Meeting.

France Has an Imposing Diplomatic and Military Delegation in London—America Not To Be Represented.

London, April 30.—Although there is absolute unity and accord among the allies, French influence is expected to dominate the meeting of the supreme council, which is to determine definitly whether or not the German Ruhr district is to be occupied to compel Germany to meet her indemnity obligations and other military penalties are to be put into effect by Marshal Foch."

The present meeting of the supreme council is a momentous event not only for Germany, but for the allies as well. The first session of the council was scheduled to open at 4 o'clock this afternoon, but it was believed that the all-important subject of indemnity would not be taken up until Sunday.

As the allied representatives assembled, no further word had come from Berlin that Germany was amplifying her indemnity offer, but reports persisted that Dr. Walter Simons, the German foreign minister, probably would send a note to Great Britain.

The Daily News was authority for the statement that if Germany failed to make an amended offer, Premier Lloyd George was expected to acquiesce formally in the military occupation of the Ruhr district and also to send British troops to assist in extending the zone of occupation in Germany.

The United States will not participate actively in the supreme council meeting, but Washington will follow closely the developments.

An Exchange Telegraph despatch from Rome quoted the Rome Tribuna as saying:

American Veto.

"Italy would not be surprised if America vetoes the allies' decision at the London conference."

France has an imposing diplomatic and military delegation in London. It includes Premier Briand, who arrived last night; Marshal Foch, generalissimo of the allied armies; Marshal Joffre; General Weygand, who directed the Polish counter offensive against the Russian armies, last summer; M. Berthelot, of the French foreign office, and M. Loucheur, minister for liberated regions in the French cabinet. In addition, there are numerous experts and secretaries.

Count Sforza, the Italian foreign minister, delayed his arrival in London. To some extent, he is the "unknown quantity," although it was expected that he would agree with the decisions of the majority in the council.

The experts who have been studying the German indemnity proposals have drawn up a report for submission to the council. The suggestion has been made that a new commission of reparations experts be created, including a representative from the United States.

ATTORNEY GENERAL RAPS PROFITEERS

Shoe Dealers Still Hanging to War-Time Business Methods.

Washington, April 30.—Attorney General Daugherty rapped the shoe profiteers today. With producers selling hides and calf skins at starvation figures, shoe dealers keep rolling up war-time profits, he said.

"It's time for them to stop this profiteering," said Daugherty.

"I paid $12 for shoes that formerly sold at $16 and yet that same dealer raked off a greater margin of profit than during the fat war years."

"It's time to call a halt to this sort of thing, not only in shoes but in other extortions in sales of foods and clothing of all kinds."

Attacks Landlord.

Middletown, April 30.—Angered because he was notified to seek another boarding house, Garfield Wheeler attacked his landlord, Randolph Wilder, cutting him about the face and head with a razor. Forty-six stitches were required on Wilder's face. He is expected to die.

FRANCE MARSHALS A POWERFUL ARMY

Paris, April 30.—Not since the days of Napoleon has France's military strength in peace time been so powerful as it is today. Marshal Foch has at his call the greatest army in Europe. It is estimated that France has nearly 1,000,000 men under arms.

GERMANY SENDS FRANCE NOTICE

Berlin, April 30.—Germany today notified France that she would immediately begin payment of the 1,000,000,000 gold marks which the allies claim is more than a month overdue on the indemnity obligation maturing May 1, it was announced this afternoon.

BLACK HANDERS MAKE MISTAKE

Believed They Kill Wrong Woman in New Jersey.

DELIBERATELY CUT THROAT OF VICTIM

Jewelry and Money Taken and Quartet of Murderers Make an Easy Escape.

South Orange, New Jersey, April 30.—While being driven to her home, early today, from a visit to a sick woman she had been treating, Mrs. Celeste Casses, a "faith healer" of Orange, was attacked and killed by four men, who held up the automobile in which she was riding. The four men bound Michael Sellto, son of the woman Mrs. Casses had been treating and who was driving her home, to the steering wheel of the machine. One of the men is said to have shouted to Mrs. Casses:

"Did you pay attention to the letters?"

Mrs. Casses screamed when she heard this and one of the men leaped into the back seat where she was sitting and plunged a knife into her throat. Then he and one of the other men stripped six rings from her fingers and took her pocketbook, containing about $200. Sellto's valuables were not taken. After the robbers had fled, Sellto summoned aid by pressing his head against the button of his electric horn.

Mrs. Casses was dead when a physician arrived. She was fifty-nine and the wife of Alphonse Casses. After an investigation, the police announced their belief that Mrs. Casses had been mistaken for Mrs. Sellto, the woman whom she was treating. Mr. Sellto received a threatening letter from "Black Hand" some time ago, warning him to place $2,000 at the Brooklyn bridge in New York. He turned the letter over to the police.

Relieved of Blame.

Akron, April 30.—Herbert Shelley was released from the county jail, last night, and freed of any blame in connection with the running down and killing of Thomas Allison, eight-year-old lad who was crushed to death under the wheels of Shelley's automobile. The coroner's inquiry developed the fact that the lad was chasing butterflies and in his endeavor to catch one, dashed in front of the automobile.

TWENTY-FIVE ARE HELD TO ANSWER

Toledo, April 30.—Twenty-five persons were indicted by the United States grand jury late last night, in connection with the million-dollar post-office robbery, February 27. Two counts were returned against each of the defendants. All the indicted persons are Toledo residents. Frank Urbaytis, and his sister, Wanda Urbaytis, who was arrested in Chicago, were not included in the list of those indicted. Trial of the cases has been set for June 6.

MOTOR-SPEED BOAT WINNER

Beats Fastest Time of the Rail Flyers.

BOAT FINISHES RUN FROM MIAMI, FLORIDA

Reaches New York Twenty-Four Hours Ahead of the Time Scheduled for Trains.

New York, April 30.—The motor speed boat, Gar, II, Jr., today, finisher her long run from Miami, Florida, to this city and the actual running time of the boat was just twenty-four minutes faster than the time made by the fastest train.

Gar Wood, of Detroit, the boat's owner, was at the wheel as the little craft shot up to the pier of the Columbia Yacht club.

The Gar's actual running time was seventeen hours and twenty-six minutes from Miami to Savannah, the first leg; eleven hours and twelve minutes from Savannah to Morehead City, the second leg; six hours from Morehead City to Hampton, Virginia, the third leg and on the last leg, which was to have carried the boat to the finish, a shaft was broken, and the vessel had to lay up overnight at Sandy Hook. The shaft was repaired and the boat finished its run, today, in spite of the heavy fog that hung over the harbor.

The distance, by rail, to Miami, is 1,093 miles. The distance, by boat, is only 1,260 miles.

COMMUNISTS ARE IN CUSTODY

Anti-"Red" Raids Made in New York City.

BOMB SQUAD HELPS SECRET SERVICE MEN

Effort To Prevent Agitation for May Day.

Red Literature Is Scattered in Dayton and Other Cities During Night—Destruction of Government Demanded.

Washington, April 30.—May-day plans of Communist organizations, thus far, have failed to reveal bomb plots, or other moves to commit violence, tomorrow, the department of justice announced today. The day is expected by the department to pass without serious disorders.

Attorney General Daugherty, however, was advised, today, in reports of investigations of wide circulation of Communist propaganda in cities in the East and Middle-West. Distribution of propaganda which led to important arrests in New York, last night and today, is to be followed by other arrests in New York and possibly other cities, officials declared.

Department operatives reported that the character of the propaganda scattered by Communist leaders, during the last twenty-four hours, is strikingly similar to the circulars sent out a year ago, throughout the country, all of them urging the overthrow of the government by force.

"There is nothing tangible in the proof discovered in the latest raids to disclose plans for violence," John T. Suter, assistant chief of the bureau of investigation, said.

Arrests Made.

New York, April 30.—Arrest of Communists and Communist sympathizers throughout the United States was predicted, today, by agents of the department of justice, as the result of information secured in anti-"Red" raids in this city during the night.

The roundup, it was explained, was undertaken to prevent Communists leaders from taking an active part in revolutionary agitations on May Day.

Arrests were made which were characterized by Charles J. Scully, head of the radical squad of the department of justice, as the most important since the organization of the American wing of the Communist party. The secret service men were assisted by detectives from the New York City bomb squad.

"Red" Literature.

Dayton, April 30.—Police, early today, were running down clues to an automobile without any lights, which toured the city after midnight, passing May-day literature. The circulars bear the name of the United Communist party of America and American Freedom Foundation. The one signed by the former calls for the destruction of the government. Police have collected thousands of the leaflets and taken them to police stations.

Red Posters Reappear.

Athens, O., April 30.—Half a dozen towns in the Hocking valley coal region were posted with radical literature a second time, calling for a May day revolt by workers. Officers and citizens who had destroyed many of the posters found that more had been posted by unknown radicals.

In Pittsburgh.

Pittsburgh, April 30.—Radical literature, urging the workers of Pittsburgh to unite in a great May-day demonstration, to go out and demonstrate their strength and manifest their solidarity, is flooding the industrial sections of the city today. Industrial towns near here are also being deluged with "Red" literature.

Pamphlets are being distributed to workers as they leave their places of employment.

"The hour for the struggle has struck," is one of the striking phrases of the booklets.

Federal authorities are cooperating with the police, but are non-communicative at this time.

To Have Convention.

Dayton, April 30. — Granville gets the 1922 convention of the Ohio State Music Teachers' association, whose convention closed here, today, by electing Karl Eschman, Denison university, president; Bradford Mills, Toledo, first vice president; Mrs. W. Crebs, Dayton, second vice president; C. W. Morrison, Oberlin; Clara Williams, Delaware and H. W. Proctor, Dayton, board of directors.

THIS AMERICAN FLIER ESCAPES FROM RUSSIA

Captain Merian C. Cooper, of Jacksonville, Florida, former member of the Kosciusko squadron of the Polish army air service, who has arrived in Riga, Russia, after escaping from a Bolshevik prison camp near Moscow. Captain Cooper was shot down and made a prisoner last July. He escaped from the prison camp with two Polish officers and all arrived ragged and shoeless in Riga after a nine-day journey. Captain Cooper reports that another American, Captain Emmet Kilpatrick, of the Red Cross, is being held prisoner in the same camp from which he escaped.

WASHINGTON IS WAITING TODAY

Watching Momentous Session of Allied Council.

DEVELOPMENTS ARE EXPECTED QUICKLY

Believed Uncertainty in German Affairs Nears End.

French Occupation of German Soil Will Not Necessarily Mean That All Hope of a Compromise Is Lost.

Washington, April 30.—With a momentous session of the allied supreme council beginning in London, today, and with French regiments on the verge of penetrating still farther into Germany's rich industrial regions, developments are expected, within the next forty-eight hours, that will clear up the whole reparations situation.

One way or another, it is the expectations of officials here that action will be taken soon which will end the present critical uncertainty that hovers over all of Europe and has extended to the United States.

Little or no doubt was felt here, today, that France intends to go through with her military maneuver against Germany. It was officially stated that the United States has not asked her to delay this step and France has given no intimation that she will delay it. It is the French attitude that the reparations question can be threshed out with poilus in Ruhr as well as it can with the poilus sitting along the Rhine.

The French occupation of the rich German territory will not necessarily mean that all hope of mediation and compromise has flown. While officials of this government held out little hope, today, of anything halting the French march, they were still decidedly hopeful that the reparations discussions can be resumed on a basis acceptable to all concerned.

Not Represented.

Washington, April 30.—The United States government is not represented at the momentous session of the allied supreme council in London, today, it was officially announced at the state department here. No one, it was said, has been authorized to present the views of the United States, either officially or unofficially, nor are there any American observers present.

There were no overnight developments in the reparations situation, it was said at the state department. France has not intimated to this government that she has any intention of delaying her advance into Germany, which is scheduled to begin tomorrow.

Secretary of State Hughes held a long conference with President Harding during the forenoon. Following his usual custom, however, he would not discuss his visit to the White House.

SUBMARINE IN TROUBLE TODAY

Goes Ashore Off Montauk Point This Morning.

IS RETURNING FROM BIG FLEET REVIEW

Undersea Craft Is Floated This This Afternoon.

Passengers Are Taken from a Stranded Portuguese Steamship and Then Transferred to Government Vessels.

Napeague Beach, Long Island, April 30.—The United States submarine, O-10, which went aground near here, early today, was floated again this afternoon. The undersea boat was not damaged and proceeded to her base at New London, Connecticut.

Goes Ashore.

New London, Conn., April 30.—The American submarine, O-10, went ashore off Montauk point, early today, according to advices reaching here. The crew is still aboard the undersea craft. With other submarines of the same class, the O-10 was returning to the naval base here from the fleet review by President Harding at Hampton roads, when it grounded.

All Are Safe.

Napeague Beach, Long Island, April 30.—The submarine O-10 went ashore a mile and a half east of the coast guard station here, shortly after 3 o'clock this morning. The vessel has not sprung a leak and all on board are safe. The submarine is in no danger and probably can be floated at high tide.

Coast-guard cutters reached the submarine early this morning. It is said the members of the crew deeply chagrined over allowing their boat to be grounded. The vessel got off its course in a heavy fog. The first warning the officers of the submarine had was when its keel scraped on the bar, which is a considerable distance from shore. Calls for assistance were sent out and the coast-guard cutters were sent to the scene.

Reaching Port.

New Bedford, Massachusetts, April 30.—Through a slight rift in one of the thickest fogs in this section of the coast in years, the United States destroyer, McCalla, with 160 of the women and children passengers transferred from the Portugese liner, Mormugao, which struck off Block Island, yesterday morning, picked her way into port shortly before 10 o'clock.

The McCalla reported that the mine sweeper, Grebe, with 140 other passengers, mostly women and children, was proceeding more carefully and unless the heavy blanket of fog dropped again, would dock within an hour.

Although given the best care possible by their rescuers, the newcomers to America presented a pitiful sight when the destroyer docked at the immigration pier. Separated from husbands and fathers at the command of "women and children first," when it was decided that safety demanded the transfer of the weaker members of the passengers, the huddled groups made a woeful appearance.

An ordinary run of less than two hours from Block Island had been lengthened into fifteen, because of the dense fog.

Attempts Fail.

Block Island, Rhode Island, April 30.—Attempts to float the Portuguese steamer, Mormugao, stranded on the rocks off this island, failed today.

Two hundred passengers from the leaking liner were taken off, last night and 168 were transferred to government vessels, today. All were taken to New Bedford, Massachusetts. Work of removing the cargo was under way and another attempt will be made to float the steamship at the next high tide.

One hundred and sixty passengers transferred to the United States destroyer, McCalla, were fog bound off the coast all night.

Snow and Rain.

Columbus, April 30.—Snow reinforced rain here, today, in making this the sixteenth wet Saturday out of the eighteen Saturdays so far this year. For several minutes, large flakes of snow fell about 4 o'clock, this morning.

Market Opening.

New York, April 30.—The stock market opened with irregular changes, today, and generally trading was not extensive.

A MINIMUM WAGE MEASURE

Delayed in Ohio Senate While Women Lobby for It.

AN APPEAL MADE TO GOVERNOR DAVIS

Women Ask Governor To Come Out Squarely for Schrimper Bill Passed by House.

Columbus, April 28—[illegible] up in a conference committee of the two houses of the general assembly to work out a basis on amendments that will be acceptable to administration and opponents of the [illegible]

When the Wadsworth minimum wage substitution proposal adopted by the senate came to the house, same to the house, the latter was [illegible] by Pfahl, republican, providing for limited classification.

The senate approved the bond debt limitation bill in the form it was passed by the house more than two months ago.

Municipal ownership advocates beat their fight for a provision permitting issuance of general credit bonds by municipalities for operation of any public utilities [illegible] an amendment, offered by Gifford of Toledo, was voted down 24 to 12.

The house passed the Robinson bill directing county auditors to seize as a penalty 10 per cent of all property not listed for taxation. It next goes to the senate.

Action on minimum wage legislation was held up while women lobbyists for and against the Schrimper bill kept constantly on the trail of senators. Governor Davis also was appealed to by the women to come out squarely for the Schrimper bill, previously passed by the house, and against the substitute recommended by the senate committee on manufactures and commerce. Senator Bender, secretary of the committee, said he would report the substitute with the request that it be killed.

The senate judiciary committee killed the Culbert bill, which sought to permit liability insurance companies to write workmen's compensation in competition with the state compensation fund.

Intimidation Alleged.

The anglers license bill was buried by the house after charges of black mail and intimidation had been made on the floor.

Schrimper of Cincinnati moved that the vote by which the house recently tabled the bill after it had been concurred in by the senate, be reconsidered.

A motion to table Schrimper's motion was defeated, 17 to 73. After a few speeches charging unfair tactics on the part of a lobbyist for the measure, the motion was killed, 96 to 7.

Pointing to Tiffin Gilmore in the gallery, House Leader Crabbe said: "There stands a man who told me yesterday that unless I would withdraw my opposition to the bill he would swing the votes of several hundred thousand sportsmen against me if ever I would run for a state office. I don't know that I have any political aspirations, but I leave it to you if such tactics are fair? He also threatened circulation of statements attacking my character. The statements have been sent out, making false, scandalous and malicious charges against me. Copies of these letters now are in the hands of the governor."

Democratic Floor Leader Atkinson, who said he had received one of the circulars attacking Crabbe, joined in condemnation of such methods.

Without a dissenting vote the house passed the Gorrell bill abolishing the present state board of clemency and substituting a superintendent of pardons and paroles, with two assistants, under the state board of administration, or its successor under the reorganization law. It now goes to the senate.

A Celebration.

Pittsburgh, April 28.—The [illegible] seventy-fifth anniversary of the birth of General U. S. Grant was celebrated here tonight with a banquet by the American Republican club. United States Senator Joseph S. Frelinghuysen and Congressman William A. Rodenberg were the principal speakers.

KNOX MEASURE BEFORE SENATE

Resolution To End Technical State of War.

ENEMIES OF BILL MAKE STIFF FIGHT

Declare It Gives Germans Too Much Encouragement.

Senator Lodge Finds President Harding in Accord with the Move To Get United States Away from War Status.

Washington, April 30.—The sole object of the Knox peace resolution is to end the "abnormal and anomalous" technical state of war in which this country has remained with the Central powers since the armistice was signed, Senator Lodge, Republican leader, stated in the senate, today, in urging the passage of the measure.

"Instead of invading the prerogative or rights of the executive, as has been asserted by some of its opponents, the resolution is in direct compliance with the president's expressed wishes," Senator Lodge said.

"There is no thought of our abandoning our associates in the World war," Senator Lodge added. "This resolution merely unties our hands and gives that freedom of action our associates, themselves, possess. They, themselves, have made peace with Germany and Austria and their regularly accredited representatives are doing business at Berlin and Vienna in the regular, recognized way."

"I challenge any senator to show how any advantage whatever is to accrue to the United States by this resolution," Senator Walsh, Democrat, Montana said. "It should be entitled, 'a measure for the relief of the German people.' That title is peculiarly appropriate at this time, for the moral effect of its passage at this particular juncture will be to afford no small measure of support to Germany in the pending controversy with the allies over the obligation she undertook under the terms of the trat of Versailles."

Tariff Bill Reported.

Washington, April 30.—With its anti-dumping and currency revaluation provisions much altered from the form in which they were adopted by the house, the emergency-tariff bill was reported to the senate, today, by the senate finance committee. It will be taken up in the senate, next week.

Weeks Gives View.

Washington, April 30.—A standing army of 175,000 men, under the plan now proposed in congress, would not be satisfactory Secretary of War Weeks said, today. The congressional plan, allowing for discharges, would allow the strength of the army to slip down to 130,000, the secretary said.

Secretary Weeks said the department is desirous of maintaining an army of minimum strength of 168,000 men, with an average strength of around 190,000.

AUTHORITIES PROBE MISSOURI LYNCHING

Negro Taken from Officers at Bowling Green and Hanged.

Jefferson City, Mo., April 30.—A sweeping investigation of the lynching at Bowling Green, Pike county, last night, of Roy Hammond, negro, was begun, today, by Attorney General Barrett under orders of Governor Hyde.

Hammond was hanged to a tree a mile west of Bowling Green by a mob of about 100 white men who overpowered Sheriff Charles P. Moore, and six deputies and seized the negro, who was in custody at the railroad station enroute to the penitentiary.

Hammond pleaded guilty in circuit court here, late yesterday, to attempted criminal assault upon a fourteen-year-old white girl. He was sentenced to ten years' imprisonment.

While Hammond's body dangled from a tree, a "knight of the road" weary and footsore, came along and helped himself to the shoes worn by the black man.

QUARREL OVER THE DIVISION OF LIQUOR

Ends in Killing of Deputy Sheriff and Dry Agent.

Knoxville, Tennessee, April 30.—Robert Fuller, deputy sheriff, was shot and instantly killed and I. T. Scruggs, federal prohibition-enforcement agent, was shot and wounded so seriously that he died shortly afterwards, in a gun battle at Vestal, a suburb, early today. A quarrel over the division of approximately 100 gallons of moonshine whisky which had been seized, is said to have caused the fight.

According to reports, the deputy sheriff insisted on keeping half the confiscated liquor and the federal prohibition officer wanted to take it all to the custom house.

ARE EXPECTED TO TAKE RECESS

House Leaders Seeking Agreement with Senate Chiefs

IMPORTANT MEASURES WILL BE DELAYED

Taxation and Appropriation Bills To Be Considered When Solons Return May 12.

Columbus, April 30.—The controversy over taxation reached the joint conference committee stage today, when Lieutenant Governor Brown and Speaker Beetham announced their selection of members of the committee, including Senator Whittemore, Akron, and Representative Fouts, Morgan county, authors of the joint resolution, each of which was adopted in one legislative branch but was turned down in the other.

The house passed the Fouts resolution, which divided tangible and intangible property and fixed a five-mill minimum tax limit for intangibles. The senate passed the Whittemore resolution, which provides for classification of property and fixed an eighteen-mill tax limit in municipalities and a fifteen-mill limit outside municipalities, to be exceeded only upon vote of the electors.

Governor Davis, today, asked the senate to confirm his appointment of C. A. Horn, Lorain, as Republican member of the state tax commission for the term ending on the second Monday in February, 1927, succeeding former Secretary of State Daniel J. Ryan, Columbus, also Republican, whose term expired; Frank E. McKim, Jr., Washington county, as member of the state dental board for the term ending April 6, 1922, and Jacob Lustic, Cuyahoga county, as member of the state board of pharmacy for the term ending March 31, 1926.

The governor's appointments were referred to the senate rules committee.

The house, today, passed the bill by Representative Jones, Licking county, providing safeguards for initiative and referendum petitions in municipalities, a bill by Representative Robinson, Lawrence county, making it a felony to harbor or conceal, a felon, knowing him to be such; and the Atwood bill requiring a bill of sale to be given when an automobile is sold.

Expected To Recess.

Columbus April 30.—The senate and house, at midnight tonight, are expected to recess until May 12.

House leaders are seeking agreement with senate leaders that only taxation and appropriation measures will be considered when the legislators return, next month.

It is not believed the house will concur in the action of the senate, which passed the Chappelear bill over Governor Davis' veto. The bill provides state aid in constructing municipal bridges in inter-county and farm market highways. The house referred the bill to its committee on highways, where it is expected to die.

The Kumler resolution providing for submission of a proposed amendment to the state constitution authorizing use of voting machines was defeated in the senate.

The house passed the bill by Senator Dewoese, Miami county, providing for a municipal court at Piqua.

The Gerrell bill, requiring reading of at least ten verses of the Bible, daily in the public schools, passed the house. It will go to the senate. Passage of the Silver bill, appropriating $350,000 for the purchase of forty-five acres of land to be added to the state fairgrounds, has been recommended by the house finance committee.

The senate will be asked to concur in the action of the house which passed the Gerrell bill requiring prison-made brick, used on highways, to be of the same standard as brick purchased from private concerns.

The Kumler bill seeking to repeal the law permitting nurses to administer anaesthetics, passed the senate.

CONDITION OF CROPS CONTINUE SATISFACTORY

Growth of Wheat Is Rapid During the Week.

Columbus, April 30.—The growth of wheat has been rapid during the week. The condition of both pasture and clover is better than usual except for some damage to clover in various parts of the state from freezing. Farm work is generally well advanced for this time of the year in the face of adverse weather conditions. Tractor farming continues about as last year. Farmers are beginning to feel they should have a greater interest in horse breeding, but present conditions do not favor the raising of colts.

Wheat is very forward in all sections of the state. Some damage from yellowing is reported. The condition of pasture is somewhat better than usual throughout the state. The present condition of clover is about ten per cent less than usual. Oats sowing is uniform throughout the state, about eighty per cent. being completed. Taking the state as a whole spring plowing is from sixty-five per cent. to seventy per cent completed.

In the central section the wheat plant is in good condition. Pasture and young clover are better than usual this time of the year, with only slight damage to young clover from freezing. About eighty per cent. of oat sowing is completed and about sixty-five per cent of spring plowing is done. Interest in tractors and horses remains about the same as last year.

Coming Strike.

ONE TELEPHONE SYSTEM IN OHIO

Tentative Agreement Is Reached on Merger.

DIRECTORS OF TWO COMPANIES IN ACCORD

Will Consolidate Interests If the State Commission and Stockholders Are Favorable.

Columbus, April 30.—Whether there is to be a single telephone system throughout Ohio, depends upon action to be taken by the state utilities commission and by stockholders of the telephone companies.

Directors of the Ohio Bell Telephone company, which control most of the phone plants throughout Ohio, have reached a tentative agreement providing for consolidation of these companies.

The deal will be completed if the stockholders and the utilities commission approve the plans for amalgamating the two companies.

"We believe these conditions will be complied with in the near future and the unification of the service will be brought about as rapidly as can be done, consistent with the interests of the public and the owners of the property," declared President C. Y. McVey, of the Ohio State Telephone company.

It is expected that a new company, probably known as the Ohio State Bell Telephone company, will be incorporated, with $100,000,000 capitalization, half of the stock being common and the rest, seven-per-cent preferred.

Denver Man Finds Sum Safe in Hands of Chambermaid.

Boston, April 30.—Joseph Baker, of Denver, Colorado, forgot that he left his pocketbook, containing $25,000 in $1,000 bills, tucked away in the blanket of a hotel room here. Anna Gill, the chambermaid did not notice the wallet fall from the blanket when she shook it. A while later, however, when she was making the bed, her foot kicked the pocketbook on the floor. Anna, being an honest chambermaid, just peeked into it, saw the money and placed it carefully under the pillow. Several hours later, Baker rushed back to the hotel. When he found his missing $25,000 safe and sound, he rewarded Anna with $25.

STRIKE MENACE BEING LIFTED

President Takes Hand in Merchant Marine Trouble.

HOOVER AND DAVIS AT WHITE HOUSE

Are Delegated To Plan Settlement Designed To Satisfy the Unions.

Washington, April 30.—The threatened strike of marine workers set for midnight tonight, seemed to be in a fair way to be averted here, this afternoon, following a number of developments in which the president himself, took a hand.

The upshot of the day's storm being between the union leaders and those seeking to avert the strike was that Secretary of Commerce Hoover and Secretary of Labor Davis were delegated by the president to work out a plan of settlement designed to satisfy the unions to the extent, at least, that the workers would not go out, tonight, as planned.

The president summoned to the White House, shortly after 11 o'clock, Secretary of Commerce Hoover and Secretary of Labor Davis, two members of his cabinet who have been successful before in finding satisfactory solutions of difficult labor problems.

Heads of the marine unions declared, today, they would accept "a commission of three fair-minded men appointed by the president," to settle the dispute. They so informed Secretary of Labor Davis and requested him to convey this suggestion to the president.

Strike Ordered.

New York, April 30.—Telegraphic orders were this afternoon sent by union headquarters to union leaders at all Atlantic, gulf and Pacific ports to call a strike of marine workers at midnight, tonight. This action followed receipt of word from Washington that President Harding had failed to appoint a committee to settle the wage dispute between the men and the shipowners. Approximately 239,000 men will be affected by the strike order.

DOMESTIC PROBLEM OF AKRON ITALIAN

Man Finds Himself the Head of Two Families.

Akron, April 30.—Guiseppa Sarniola told police officials today he would keep both his wives and their offspring and see that they were properly cared for.

This promise by Sarniola brought out the astounding fact that the two women with him claimed him as their husband. Wife No. 1 he married in Italy, ten years ago. She has one son, aged eight. Wife No. 2 led a small son into police headquarters.

"I love them both," said Sarniola, as he pleaded for the right to care for them.

In explanation of his matrimonial tangle, Sarniola told police he sent for his wife, four years ago, but because of the war she was denied admission to the United States. Then he heard she was lost in the path of war. He took wife No. 2.

Last week a letter came telling him his wife had sailed for America. Police told him to solve his own marital puzzle.

If you intend to drown yourself always remove your clothing. It may fit your wife's second husband.

BLOODHOUNDS USED IN CHASE

Two Bandits Run Down After Kentucky Robbery.

LOOT IS RECOVERED BY THE OFFICERS

Men Rob Bank at Auburn, Kentucky—Secure $101,000—No Resistance to Arrest.

Russellville, Ky., April 30.—Caught as they were attempting to cross Mud river, in Muhlenberg county, in a canoe, to which point they had been trailed by bloodhounds, two men alleged to be the bandits who robbed the bank at Auburn, Kentucky, last Tuesday, were taken into custody, yesterday morning, by a posse and were lodged in the jail here, yesterday afternoon.

The men are Boyd Thomason, a native of Bald Knob, Logan county, and a man who gave the name of Smith, who, is alleged to be a convict from Oklahoma.

Capture of the men was effected at a boat landing south of Browder, a small mining town in the southern section of Muhlenberg county.

Their arrest came after $101,000 in loot taken from the bank had been recovered at the home of Vivian Thomason, a brother of Boyd, who also lives at Bald Knob. The money was in bonds and currency was wrapped in a blue overall shirt and buried near by.

Revolvers Halt Escape.

Pursuing officers who brought the two fugitives to bay confronted them with drawn revolvers as they started to shove their canoe from the bank. Floyd Mills, Marshal of Russellville, Louis Kiess, jailer of Logan county, and Edward Pugh, owner of the bloodhounds that followed the trail to the scene of capture, were the men who made the arrest.

When searched the men had no weapons. Both were surly and refused to talk. Each had on overalls. In an inside pocket in Thomason's coat, $2,200 in bills was found.

The men were taken to Browder station and placed on the Russellville train. It was packed with passengers and a crowd of at least 2,000 persons met the train at the depot. No effort was made to molest the prisoners as they were led through the streets to jail.

"As soon as you give us something to eat we have say something, but we desire to see a lawyer first," Smith said to the jailer. They had declined to make any comment concerning the robbery until that time. Bond was fixed for each in the sum of $25,000.

Chase Filled With Thrills.

All of the elements of a film "thriller" attended the "man hunt" that led through some of the wildest sections of southern Muhlenberg and northern Logan counties. The entire section in which the fugitives were known to be hiding was surrounded by hundreds of armed men, who advanced with rifles and pistols drawn.

Pinkerton detectives hastily called to the scene, natives who had been startled by the daring raid on the bank, bloodhounds and officers of the Ocean Guaranty company that had bonded the bank were those to take part in the pursuit. Members of the posse were hard on the heels of the bandits for several hours before they were taken.

Early yesterday morning the officers received the tip that the bandits had taken breakfast at a farmhouse in Butler county, a short distance from the Muhlenberg line. They took the trail down Mud river and soon after 9 o'clock they caught sight of the two men fording across a field and making toward a schoolhouse.

Posse Hides in Bushes.

Lying in wait, the pursuers saw the men look around and then go toward the river bank. As they climbed aboard a canoe the pursuers closed in upon them and called to them to throw up their hands. Neither of the fugitives made an effort to fight.

Recovery of the loot near the home of Vivian Thomason was brought about by a ruse adopted by officers. Suspicion pointing to Thomason's knowledge of the recovery he and his son Hubert were arrested and lodged here in jail.

ACCUSES STEEL CORPORATION

Federal Trade Board Charges Unfair Competition.

COMMISSION MAKES FORMAL COMPLAINT

Attacks Device Known as the Pittsburgh-Plus-Price System—Big Fight Opened.

Washington, April 30.—Formal complaint against the United States Steel corporation and 11 subsidiary companies, alleging unfair competition in interstate commerce, was issued by the federal trade commission.

Decision was reached by the commission that it has sufficient jurisdiction to take up the long standing complaints by various users of steel products and others against the alleged use by the corporation of the device known as "the Pittsburgh plus price."

The steel corporation and its subsidiaries are given until May 31 to make formal answer to the complaint, after which the case will proceed to trial on its merits.

The complaint was issued under the Clayton anti trust act and the law establishing the commission, and the commission's announcement said the case was "an outgrowth of conditions complained of by more than 2,700 manufacturers of steel in the Chicago, Duluth and Birmingham districts, by legislatures of three states, by several municipalities, and by chambers of commerce and many business organizations throughout the United States."

The Pittsburgh plus price is described at length in the commission's announcement, which says that under it "all steel, except rails, wherever made, and whether made in the United States Steel corporation's plants or by its independents, is sold at the f. o. b. Pittsburgh price, plus an amount equivalent to the freight to points of destination."

As an illustration it says that "this means that the Gary steel fabricator who runs his truck to the Gary, Ind., steel mill and purchases steel manufactured at that plant must pay the price charged in Pittsburgh, plus an amount equaling the freight rate from Pittsburgh to Gary."

The complaint charges specifically that the steel corporation "owns and controls the ultimate iron ore supply in the United States," and that its consequent potential power to embarrass or destroy its competitors by unduly lowering its price schedules is "tantamount to the naming by the steel corporation of prices that are to be charged by all the steel manufacturers in the United States."

Many Indictments.

Chicago April 30.—One hundred and ten individuals and building firms were indicted by the federal grand jury here, today, on charges of unlawful combination to maintain high prices of building materials. Violations of the Sherman anti-trust act are charged against sheet metal workers and contractors, steam fitters and jobbers in plumbing material in their trade business alleging conspiracy.

IN SUPPORT OF UNITED STATES

Italy Is with America in the Yap Dispute.

ITALIANS OUTLINE POSITION IN NOTE

In Full Accord with Note on Mandates Sent to Various Powers by Secretary Hughes.

Washington, April 30.—Italy has come to the support of the United States in the controversy with Japan and the other allied powers over allocation of the important Yap cable center and other former German islands to Japan without American consent.

This was revealed, yesterday, coincidently with the disclosure that the allied conference on foreign relations had devoted two sessions this week to discussion of the attitude of Japan. At one of these meetings at which tended by President Harding, it was decided that on account of the situation in the Pacific, steps toward a reduction of naval armament should be postponed.

"Completely Agrees."

The indorsement by Italy of the American position in the Yap controversy was communicated to Secretary of State Hughes this afternoon by Vittorio Rolandi Ricci, the Italian ambassador. He stated that Italy "completely agrees" with the Hughes note, which called on the powers to reconsider the mandate assignment under which Yap was turned over to Japan, instead of being internationalized, with equal cable and radio rights guaranteed all nations.

France already has notified the United States of its intention of bringing the matter before the supreme council and the statement of the Italian ambassador indicates that Great Britian joined France in the proposal. Japan has not replied to the Hughes note and has not indicated its attitude thereto.

Text of Italian Note.

The Italian ambassadors communication to the secretary of state follows:

"Italy is fully convinced that the United States is not asking for any privilege in the island of Yap which is not equally granted to every other nation, including Japan. Italy is also convinced that the United States intends to protect its interests in the island of Yap with full consideration for the interests of other nations. Italy, therefore, has not hesitated to express herself in a way which completely agrees with the text of the American note of the 5th of April last, concerning the quality of rights among mandatories in the exercise of their mandates.

"Italy wishes and trusts that the just rights of everybody concerned be recognized always and everywhere in the island of Yap as well as in every other place and circumstance with perfect equality and justice.

Expects Conference To Act.

"Italy seconded the Anglo-French proposal which confided the study of the Yap question to the judicial committee and the conference of the ambassadors in Paris and she now expects that the conference will pronounce itself with equanimity in such a way as to eliminate every possibility of disagreement and to conciliate all conflicting interests.

"Italy is particularly glad whenever the moral policies of the two governments and the material interests of the two nations agree to such way as to put Italy and the United States in a position to cooperate toward the attainment of the common end, which consists in the realization of an era of serene peace and prosperity for the civilized world."

President Harding met the Republican members of the foreign relations committee at a dinner given by Senator Lodge in honor of George Harvey, the new ambassador to Great Britain. Relations with Japan were discussed as well as the whole question of reduction of armament.

There was general agreement that there should be no curtailment of the 1916 navy building program and that all moves to have the United States set the example of armament reduction in advance of an international agreement should be discontinued. As to initiating negotiations with Great Britain and Japan for a navy curtailment understanding, it was decided to make no move pending developments in the Pacific.

At a meeting of the committee today the situation in China was chiefly discussed. By some members it was suggested that Japan is getting ready to resume control of China to yield to those demands of Japanese suzerainty which was eliminated from the original twenty-one in 1915. It was thought this might be the reason for the recent action of the Tokio government in calling home all Japanese of military age in the Philippines and East Indies.

TINY PRINCIPALITY OF MONACO AND PRINCE

Interest in Both Accentuated by Visit of Latter.

SECRET OF MONACO'S WEALTH NO SECRET

For It Is There That World-Famous Casino of Monte Carlo Is Located.

Washington, April 30.—Because interest in Monaco is increased by the visit to this country of the Prince of Monaco, famous for his oceanographic researches, the National Geographic society has issued the following bulletin concerning the principality:

"It is fitting that the tiny principality of Monaco should have an imposing museum of oceanography for it is from the sea that Monaco derives its wealth.

"Fishing is not carried on as a business, nor do vast argosies such as those belonging to the Genoese founders of the principality now sail the seas, and carry on the tradition for sea-borne commerce established by the Phoenicians who founded on the high headland upon which the great museum now stands a temple to Heracles, which, when the Greeks took it over, gave its name to the region. Yet the entire revenue of the eight square miles of paradise which is left to the present prince is derived from the 'Sea Bathing society.'

"Sea bathing is still enjoyed in the realm of the prince-oceanographer but there are few bathers who know that they are not really bathing in the municipality of Monaco or of Monte Carlo, but in the commune of Condamine, which is much the largest of the three towns in the petty state.

Condamine may suggest bathing to a few but Monte Carlo and Monaco suggest something quite different to nine men, or women, out of ten.

Secret of State's Prosperity.

"The secret of Monaco's ability to derive so good a living from the sea is due to the fact that the 'Societe des Bains de Mer' owns and operates the famous casino, the Mecca of more would be bank breakers than any safety vault in Manhattan. In the gaming rooms of this notorious place, one can play roulette or trente-et-quarente under the most distinguished auspices and have the satisfaction of feeling that the income tax of Monaco is less a matter of forms, than of formalities, one of the most interesting of which is the signing of an agreement that in case the enthusiast, having spent a few days or many francs in this tiny paradise, decided to leave it for another larger one, his heirs or executors can not hold the principality responsible for his apathy toward earthly existence.

"The principality of Monaco has its own flag, its own postage stamps, which are very popular with the visitors, and its own currency. Although a player can place a five franc bet in roulette, it was never worth while for Monaco to issue any currency except 100 franc pieces, even before the days when European currency was heavily discounted.

Casino and Cathedral.

"Aside from the casino and the oceanographical museum, the principal building of Monaco is the cathedral of St. Nicholas.

"The palace in which the Prince of Monaco lives when he returns to his home was once a Genoese castle, but was greatly enlarged in the seventeenth century in what has later come to be known as the Renaissance style.

"Until 1911, the prince was an absolute ruler, but on January 7 of that year, a constitution was provided and there is a national council, which is elected by universal suffrage, including women. There are limitations to the rights of the inhabitants since none of them is accorded the privilege of playing at the gaming tables

Land Surface Is Hilly.

"Monaco is situated along a beautiful strip of coast between Nice and Mentone and has a small harbor in which water festivals are held and the motor boat races of Monaco are famous throughout Europe. The land surface is hilly and picturesque and a hairpin road leads up to La Turbie, situated between Deg's Head hill and the Hill of Justice. It was here that Augustus, lacking a corps of technical experts, delimited a boundary between Gaul and Italy.

"Monaco imports coal and wine and exports olive-oil and perfume. Trade and industry are unimportant, but as long as the world's distribution of wealth is a source of dissatisfaction to war profiteers, heirs and tourists, Monaco will probably be able to collect its tidy little annual revenue of 10,000 pounds a square mile until 1927, when the rate automatically increases by one-eighth."

BASEBALL

Work Progressing Rapidly.

Work on the grandstand and ball grounds at Lincoln park is progressing rapidly and the place will present a new and inviting appearance when the season opens one week from tomorrow. The necessity of cancelling the game with Fostoria for tomorrow, on account of circumstances seems to be a bit of fortune inasmuch as the temperature has taken such a drop.

Besides the improvements to the grandstand, the park concession is enclosing the grounds, while the playground association will have the ball field graded and in excellent shape for the opening game with the Columbus Mendel team. Manager Fetter will take his players to the ball park, Sunday afternoon, and an effort will be made to have a practice game with some picked team.

AIR MAIL PILOT IS KILLED IN CLEVELAND

Crashes to Death While Seeking a Landing Place.

Cleveland, April 30.—Preparations are being made, today to return to his home in Chicago the remains of Air Mail Pilot J. T. Christensen, who late, yesterday, crashed with his aeroplane to the Erie railroad tracks at Scranton and Union street roads, dying instantly. His aeroplane was reduced to a mass of wreckage. When the aeroplane hit the tracks, the gasolene tank exploded and the body of the mail pilot was badly burned as a result.

Christensen's engine was missing and he was forced to seek a landing. A dense fog obscured his vision and his efforts to find the river or a vacant lot proved unavailing. Suddenly his engine failed and he dropped to the tracks.

Christensen's right for life and safety was watched by hundreds. He was thirty-one years of age. He was well known in Cleveland and other Ohio towns, having flown in the first aerial tournament held in Cleveland in August 1919. He was married two years ago, to Miss Lea Davis of Cleveland, and the couple took a flying honeymoon trip from Cleveland to Akron and other Ohio cities.

SECOND-HAND WAR MATERIAL IS BLAMED

For Reverses Suffered by Greek Army in Asia Minor.

New York, April 30.—Old second-hand war material dumped into Greece after the armistice, upon which profiteers made a fortune, is the cause of the reverses lately suffered by the Greek army in Asia Minor, according to Dr. Barton W. Brush of Elmhurst, L. I., who has just returned from service behind the Greek front with the near east relief.

"All the left over war supplies for which the European countries had no further use after 1918 seem to have been sold to the Greeks in the past three years, and that is all the Greek army has to fight with," Dr. Brush declared. "In the past three years vast fortunes have been made in Greece out of army supplies, and now the Greek soldiers are paying for it. There are no hospitals, no hospital equipment, no ambulances, worthy the name, and the wounded have little chance except for such care as the American near east relief can give them."

The jury took but two ballots. Five women were members of the jury.

McCaffery was indicted for perjury when it was found that testimony he had given in the first McGannon trial contradicted his testimony given when a witness in another case. He had testified, in the McGannon trial, that he drove Mary E. Neely around East Cleveland at an hour when she testified she saw the shooting of Harold C. Kagy at east Ninth and Hamilton.

MOVING AND RENTS AGE-OLD WORRIES

Landlords Fought in Babylonian Days.

A CONTRACT DATED 2098 B. C. TURNS UP

Methods and Gains of 4,000 Years Ago Are Similar to Those of Today.

[illegible]

Terminal Agencies in Babylon.

"The very earliest records of definite transactions that have been found, the clay tablets on which were written the law contracts of Babylonia from 4,000 years ago, show that the renting of stores was a fortunate business among the landlords of Babylon and Nippur.

"The activities of enterprising merchants and labor agencies places little doubt that real estate and rental agencies also existed much as they do today. One can almost picture the frantic house-hunting engaged in by one Sinidinnam, perhaps accompanied by Mrs. S. and doubtless led by a bright young man from the Nippur rental agency, while preceding the execution of the following lease dated the 'fourth month, first day' in the year 2092 B. C.:

"'The house of Dama-ilum, from Dama-ilum, Sin-idinnam the merchant, has rented as a dwelling and convenience at a yearly rental of 5-6 of a shekel of silver.'

"The ordinary dwellings of Nippur were probably mere shacks of sun-dried brick with dirt roofs. Even for such poor accommodations the rental was cheap from a modern point of view. At most a shekel is believed to have had little more purchasing power than five dollars has today, so Sinidinnam had the use of a house for less than two dollars a year. The highest rentals set out in the clay leases of Babylonia were six shekels or about $12 a year, a striking contrast to rentals in even more pretentious modern apartment houses where the charges exceed $1,000 a month.

Quite 1,000 Years Ago.

"Babylonian procedure in regard to real estate was little different from our own. Formal contracts and deeds had to be attested by a notary, and in swearing the person taking the oath raised his right hand. An official copy of the transaction on a clay tablet, with the notary's attestation was deposited in the temple, the court house of those days.

"There was an excellent reason for paying one's rent promptly. In Babylon, creditors could seize [illegible]

Gibbons Is Winner.

Terre Haute, Ind., April 27.—Kimmy Gibbons, the St. Paul lightweight, had another easy time in the ring today. Gibbons put Mike Walker, of Kansas City, to sleep in the first round of their bout last night.

Fight Opportunities.

Jersey City, New Jersey, April 30.—The first opposition to booking the Dempsey-Carpentier fight here came today from the ministers of fifty Protestant churches. Following a meeting at which a resolution was adopted calling upon all high officials to join with us to protest against this shameful exhibition of our city." The ministers began a campaign to have the permit for the fight revoked.

Meet Postponed.

Cleveland, April 30.—With 200 horses waiting and ready to go, officials in charge of the Chagrin Falls Racing association met this morning and voted to postpone the opening of the meet, scheduled for this afternoon, until Tuesday, owing to the unsatisfactory weather. The Chagrin Falls council last night met and instructed the mayor to employ 100 deputy marshals at one dollar a day each, to prevent betting at the track when the meet begins. Meanwhile, race track officials assert that betting on the Pari mutuels will go on and say that they are advised that there is nothing in the Ohio law that can prevent wagering upon these machines.

SPORTING NOTES

Bill Brennan is to take on Sailor Jack Carroll for twelve rounds at Columbus, May 9.

The schedule of tennis tournaments for the season now opened calls for more than 200 state and district championship meets.

Babe Ruth is far ahead of his 1920 record, as this time last year he had but three home runs to his credit.

Pitcher Sam Jones, of the Boston Red Sox, has started the season like a winner, both in the box and at bat.

Acting as manager of the Detroit Tigers doesn't seem to affect Ty Cobb's playing. The "Georgia Peach" is going like a whirlwind.

Attendance figures to date indicate that the big leagues have started what bids fair to be the greatest season in the history of the pastime.

From the foe way Babe Adams started the season it looks as if the Pirates' veteran pitcher still has many winning games in his wing.

Dutch Leonard, the old Red Sox-Yanks outfielder is putting up a fine brand of ball for the Washington Senators.

Bill Gleason, the White Sox pilot, appears to have quite a job to his hands in working out his rotation pastimers.

Unless the St. Louis Cardinals show some winning stuff pretty soon they are likely to find it hard going in the pennant chase.

George Smith, of the Giants, has started batting as if he intended to give Babe Ruth a run for the circuit honors.

The failure of the Cincinnati Reds to win their first in the games thus far may be due to the absence from the Reds' ranks of Eddie Roush and Heinie Groh.

Manager McGraw says the New York baseball public can always depend upon Frankie Frisch to make the Giants' infield a hot one.

Art Lewis, calling himself the featherweight champ of New Zealand, has been a busy scrapper in his native land, it appears. He was last reported to the first round by Mike Nolan, a Glasgow boxer with a record not greatly below the top-notchers of the game.

BASEBALL

The Tigers used Satterlund, a recruit, in relief for the Browns. The youngster fanned Baker twice.

Baker was best in a pitcher's duel against Bagby, of the champion Indians, the White Sox taking the game, one to nothing.

The Senators and Athletics staged a thrilling game to a 9-9 draw, when darkness interfered.

Rain prevented games between the Giants-Boston and Phillies-Brooklyn.

Roger Hornsby was presented with an automobile, but the Cardinals lost to the Reds when Sherdell weakened in the ninth, yielding four runs.

The year's Kentucky derby, to be run at Churchill Downs on May 7, will bring to the winning owner almost double the amount of the purse offered for the same event last year.

FOSTER'S WEATHER

Washington April 30—High barometers bring low temperatures and low barometers bring high temperatures. It is the rule to leave out the word barometer, but always use the word temperature with the words high and low. The high is also the cool or cold wave and the low is the storm center. To say high temperature is equal to saying low barometer, but the last cumbersome word is usually left out.

Calculations indicate that the lows or centers of the storms, for May, as they move southeastward will cross meridian 90 near, or not far north of St. Louis. This suggests that May temperatures will generally average near normal. The first warm wave center, coming from the extreme northwest and moving southeastward will cross meridian 90 near May 1 move to a point halfway between Chicago and New Orleans and then by way of Ottawa to Newfoundland, reaching the latter near May 4, storm wave and cool wave following as usual.

No very high temperatures. Storms will be more severe than the average near May 3. Rains will be about normal, probably a little excessive. Eastward of ranges high hills mountain ranges and in valleys extending and whose river flow southeastward. Probably less than normal rains in localities encompassing severe localities.

These crop weather conditions only apply to May. Important changes are expected for every month on account of the changing positions of the sun moon and planets. Official science admits that the tides change every moon month and that the sun moon and planets are the causes. Our atmosphere has many of the qualities of water and why not tides in the atmosphere? June crop weather is not expected to be the same as that of May.

RAIN AND SNOW; GAS PRESSURE LOW

Close to Inch of Water Falls Friday.

Almost an inch of rain, ninety-five hundredths to be exact fell here yesterday afternoon and last night, according to Dr. E. H. Raffensberger official weather observer. Late last evening the rain turned to snow and those unfortunate enough to be abroad were out of luck when it came to making much headway through the heavy downfall.

Gas pressure was low in all parts of the city probably due to the sudden cold snap.

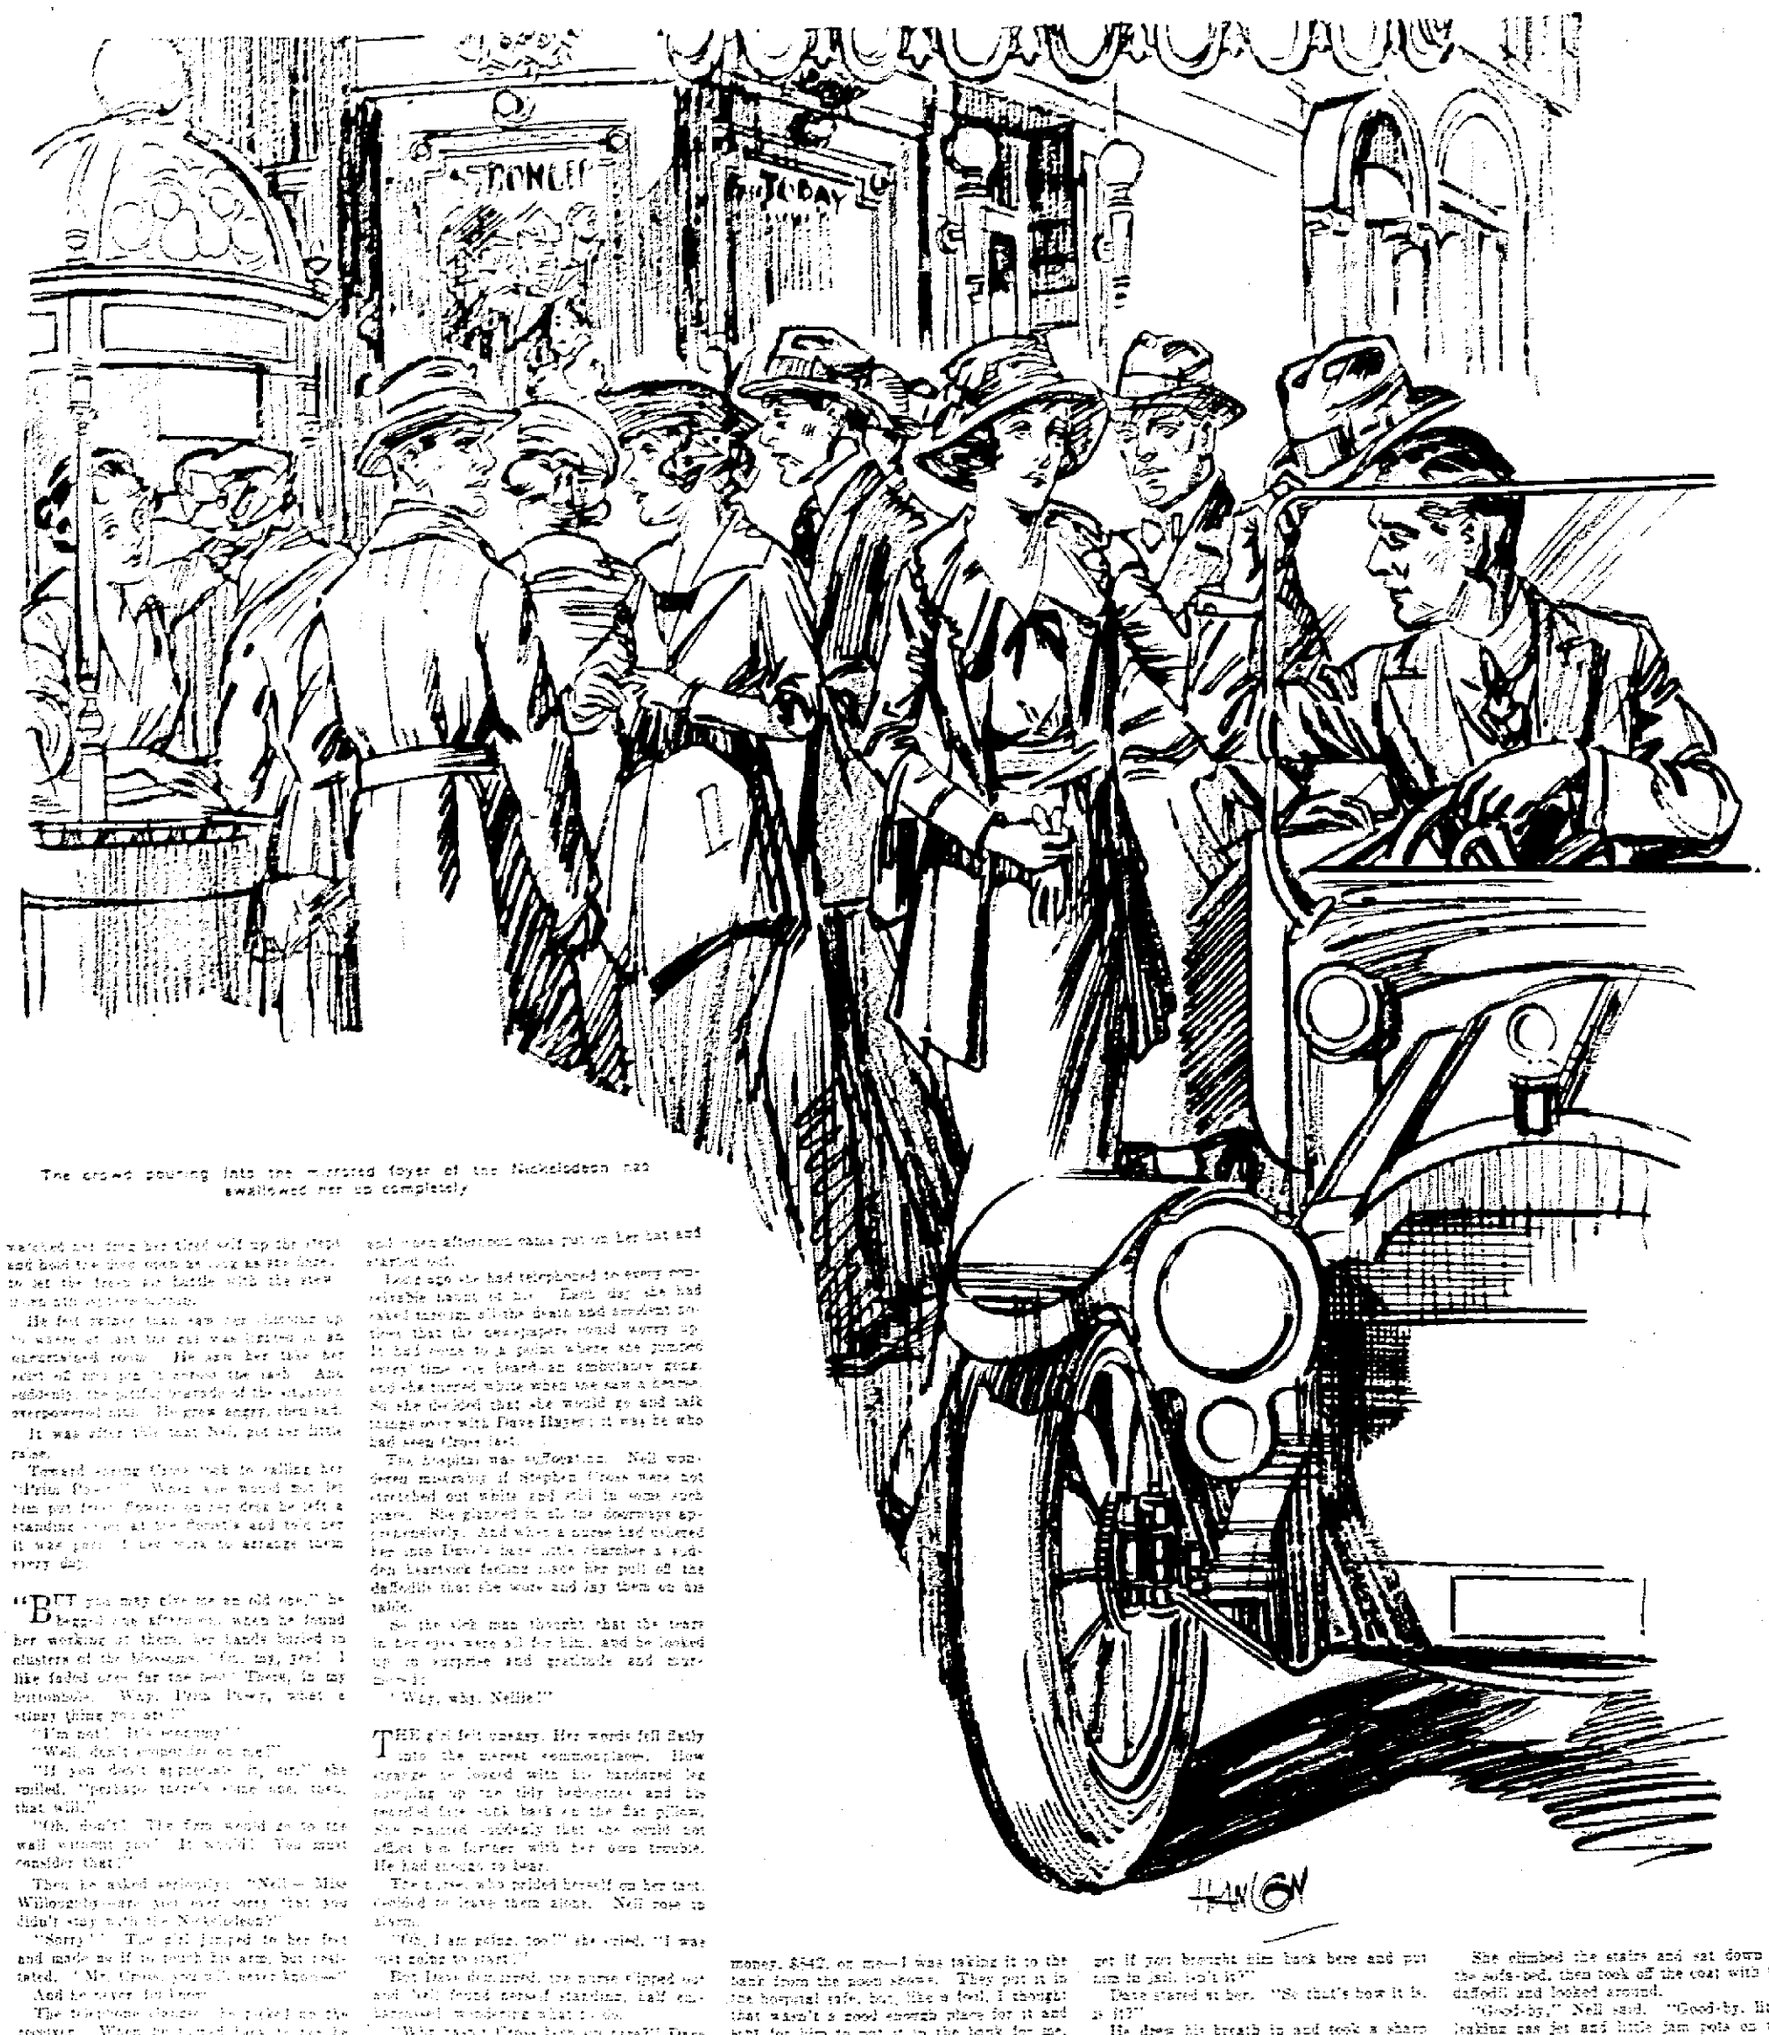
THE GIRL IN THE OFFICE : : : : :

By Avery Gaul

A Chance Meeting With a Man Who Befriends Her and Whom She Saves From a Term in Prison and a Life of Exile



The crowd pouring into the mirrored foyer of the Nickelodeon had swallowed her up completely

THE story is told of a man who planned to stand at his window, for an entertainment with that after-dinner relish which follows like an echo on a moment of exercise that he had seen him take his hat as the girl had disappeared.

"Hah! She's got pluck. The girl knew what to say during the second it took to overpass. Then—"

"Why, why!" he ejaculated. "Didn't you, Stacy Crane, marry for love? I used to know—"

"Dave Hayes!"

The two young men stood looking into each other's transformed features.

"I'm massacred here," explained Dave, with an embarrassing gesture. "Just like yesterday."

"Well, you've got me!" ejaculated Crane. "Just worked me for a ride home, did she?"

Dave recovered his watch. Then grinned.

"She probably didn't get back supper before I was up in time." She told me she was doing light housekeeping. She isn't a regular pianist, you know." All this with one eye on the platform doorway.

"What is she, then?"

The necklace mower showed his bristles.

"Say, I've known that girl a long time! She's a stunner, that's what she is! I knew her all the time she was going to night school. After her father cut his head out of it on the mangle and the mother ran off with one of the boys on the wagon, and her a little skeiner working in the packing rooms! And then going to night school! Learning to play the piano off an old Russian on Presbery's organ behind the cafe. She's a stunner, that's what she is! Do you get me—and she's a blamed good one, too," he growled.

"I'll take your word for it," muttered Crane. "I'll take your word for it. You know." Lighting a cigarette and speaking with it between his teeth. "I wasn't trying to kidnap the girl. If she wants a job—at shorter hours—we'd be up to my office tomorrow morning." And handing his old friend a business card, he drove away.

DAVE HAYES whistled. That he fell back to his most pastime of betting with himself which of the crowd would turn in at his gilded door.

"That makes forty," he muttered. "That I'm going to the house!"

Nevertheless the next morning, much to the interest and surprise of the three persons concerned, Neil Willoughby called at the real estate office of S. Crane & Co. and was ushered to a floor correspondence at 10 per week.

"For such a girl the kind of girl that makes home worth while!" S. Crane informed the office staff. And the office staff smiled cynically. It had not found Neil, then looking.

Neil proved, as had been vouched for, a great stenographer. His hearty, manly, unaffected ways made friends for him. He was always thinking of others, and his kindly, considerate nature, of which he was himself unaware, made him popular with all. Even the office boy, who had never before had a kind word from anyone, became devoted to him. Only one person disliked him, and that was Miss Willoughby's employer, Mr. Crane. It was not that Neil was not perfect in his stenographic duties. It was not that he was not prompt and attentive. It was not that he was not—in every way—a model employee. It was because Neil was a man and Mr. Crane disliked men. Especially young men. Especially young men who were handsome and who had a way with them. Especially young men who were handsome and who had a way with them and who were employed by him. Especially young men who were handsome and who had a way with them and who were employed by him and who were related to Miss Willoughby. Especially young men who were handsome and who had a way with them and who were employed by him and who were related to Miss Willoughby and who were not afraid of him.

Neil was not afraid of Mr. Crane. He was not afraid of anybody. He was not afraid of anything. He was not afraid of anything because he was not afraid of himself. He was not afraid of himself because he

THE FUNNIEST YOUNGSTER EVER SEEN ON THE SCREEN

A Comedy That Took A Year To Make — A Comedy That's Worth Every Dollar and Minute That Went Into It — Six Reels of Joy — Enough Laughs For A Year!

WRITTEN AND DIRECTED BY CHARLES CHAPLIN

The daylight trials of motherhood, the midnight trails of paternity are all for Chaplin in this super-comedy. He was a good mother to the Kid, and when that Kid grew up he sure became a good son; for Charlie is a wandering glazier, and while the Kid went ahead breaking windows Charlie was always at hand to get the job of mending them. And yet there's a sob now and then. Never expected that of Charlie, did you? Well, here's where you get something more than laughs!

NOTE—In the history of motion pictures in Marion there have been only two pictures which have shown for one solid week—"Mickey" and "The Miracle Man." Now comes the third, "The Kid." The public, press and critics proclaim "The Kid" the super-picture of pictures. Don't you miss it.

WILLED OVER $100,000 BY MRS. ELVIRA TUCKER

Mrs. Hugh A. McKinnon, Niece, Shares Heavily.

WILL IS PROBATED AT MT. GILEAD THIS WEEK

Decedent Widow of Dr. Nathan Tucker, Millioinaire Morrow County Resident.

That Mrs. Jane McKinnon, of Bucyrus, wife of Hugh A. McKinnon, manager of the Bucyrus Copper Kettle works, will inherit between $125,000 and $150,000 under the will of Elvira Tucker, of Mt. Gilead, who died recently, is indicated by a news item in the Mt. Gilead Sentinel of this week, regarding the probating of the will of the wife of the late Dr. Nathan Tucker, also deceased, who was Morrow county's wealthiest citizen. Mrs. McKinnon was a niece of the late Mrs. Tucker and she and A. J. Jago, of Mt. Gilead, a nephew, who has friends and acquaintances here, are to share the residue of the estate valued at between $300,000 and $400,000, after special bequests approximating $100,000 are paid. The estimate of Mrs. McKinnon's share considerably exceeds previously given figures.

The McKinnons have lived in Bucyrus a number of years. Mr. McKinnon, who went to Bucyrus originally years ago as an instructor in the Bucyrus Business college, returning with his family after a lapse of a number of years, to reestablish a home in that city.

The Sentinel publishes the following in regard to the disposition in the will of the estate of Mrs. Tucker:

Jewels Specially Bestowed.

The will of Elvira Tucker has been admitted to probate and A. J. Jago appointed executor. William F. Bruce, C. W. Schaaf and H. J. Smith appointed appraisers. The estate was among the larger ones in Mt. Gilead. In addition to the larger bequests there were personal effects consisting of jewels that were bequeated to near relatives. To Mrs. Jane McKinnon, a niece, was given a diamond pin, a ring set with two large diamonds and six smaller ones, a diamond bracelet and sea skin jacket; to A. J. Jago, a nephew, was given a large diamond stud. Silverware and cut glass was left to A. J. Dago and Jane McKinnon, and to his nephew and niece all the balance of the estate was bequeathed, after making special bequests amounting to between $90,000 and $100,000. The estate has a value of between $350,000 and $400,000.

To Willis Cooper, son of Mrs. Tucker's brother, James, $8,000, and $5,000 each was given to the sons and daughters of her brother, the late Frank Cooper, these being Mrs. Flora Pollett, Mrs. Clarence Cooper, Mrs. May Cooper Hester, Mrs. Daisy Preston and Carl Cooper; to Ruth Cooper, widow of Otho Cooper, $5,000.

To Eleves and a nephew, daughters and son of her brother, Calvin Cooper, $6,000 each was given. These beneficiaries are Maude, Linnie, Mrs. Anna Shaw, Bessie, Helen and Bruce. To Maude and Linnie items such as gold jewelry were also given.

To Jennie McCurdy Nelson, Will McCurdy and Lucious McCurdy, daughter and sons of Mr. Tucker's sister, the late Mary McCurdy, $6,000 each was given.

Mrs. Clara Allison, a friend, was bequeathed $500 and $1,500 was bequeathed to Riverside cemetery to be invested in securities, the income from it to be used in keeping her burial plats in permanent good order.

Go into the most magnificent and beautiful homes and notice the wall finishes — solid colors, soft tints, dull flat shades. Then notice how effectively the hangings — pictures, draperies, ornaments, — stand out against such backgrounds.

JOHNSTON'S DULL KOTE PAINT

is the favorite wall finish because it produces the most effective, artistic background known. More than this, the surface is hard and durable — can be washed like tile and is always fresh and clean. Then it's absolutely sanitary, it can't harbor disease germs like wall paper, does not crack, flake or peel like kalsomine.

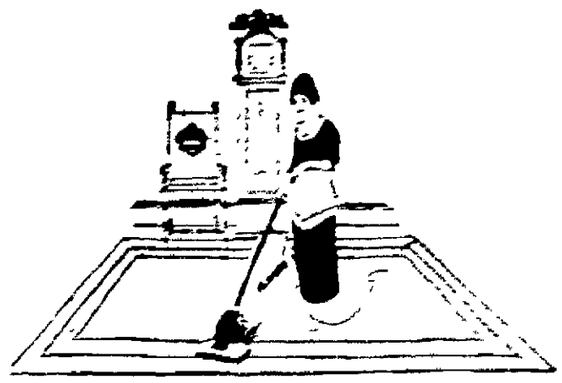
The Hoover



Not only does the Hoover bear our guarantee to prolong the life and beauty of all floor coverings, but it is recommended by leading Rug Importers by makers of fine carpets and by owners of costly rugs.

The largest rug and carpet merchants frankly tell their patrons that the use of this efficient cleaner is essential to prevent wear.

Legions of people who have used their Hoover for five, ten or more years, point proudly to the beauty of their veteran rugs. More emphatically than any guarantee, such facts as these testify to the ability of the Hoover repeatedly to pay for itself by its exclusive process of beating out nap-wearing, embedded grit as it electrically sweeps and cleans by air.

LEGION HARD TO UNDERSTAND

Japs Can Not Comprehend Organization Purpose.

AMERICAN LEGION UNDER SUSPICION

Japanese Think Members Are a Reserve Force Ready for Arms at Any Moment.

Tokyo, April 30.—The American legion member in Tokyo, the morning after a legion meeting, feels somewhat like the hero in a Sherlock Holmes detective story. Referred to in aside by the Japanese clerk in the office as an "American lieutenant," looked upon with some suspicion by his servants, who, perhaps know, too, that he is connected with the organization of "American soldiers," as they are known, he is in a peculiar position.

It is a fact that one American who holds a responsible position in Tokyo, a position which carries with it the impression that he may know something of the plans of Uncle Sam in the Far East, was recently away from his office for a few hours when a Japanese employed in the firm asked a comrade of this American, also identified actively with the Tokyo-Yokohama post of the American legion, "how many Germans did he kill in France?"

Japanese, despite continued attempts at explanations, are unable to get the Americans' real meaning of the American legion. Translated into Japanese the expression American legion means "Gungin Dan," or legion of military men." Going on this translation the Japanese who sees a legion member immediately takes him for an American military reservist, and, despite the fact that Americans here frequently take the trouble to explain this fact, there seems to be no way of sufficiently convincing the Japanese that the "Gungin dan" is not a body of men with concealed arms and ammunition, ready for an attack on their hosts.

Japs in Hawaii

"The American Legion," said an old American resident of Tokyo, recently, "is misunderstood in Japan much the same way that Japanese living in Hawaii is misunderstood. It is a fact that many Americans think that the Japanese in Hawaii is really a military man of Japan; that he is ready at any minute to go to war with America, and is always active in serving the cause of Japan. The Japanese suspect the Americans in the American legion somewhat the same way, and insist on believing them military reservists."

An American legion man, interviewed on the subject in Tokyo recently, said: "The difference between the American legion man and the Japanese citizen is a marked one, and while that is one reason why the ignorant Japanese thinks the legion is a 'reservist' organization, it does not excuse the educated Japanese, who pretends to look upon us with so much supicion. An American can not be a 'reservist' by being in the legion, and it is known that America does not have the system that Japan has, and which compels the Japanese to be a real 'reservist.' Because the Japanese must be a reservist, due to the militaristic laws of the country, he feels that the American legion is just a bit of camouflage to conceal a group of American reservists in Japan."

DULL TIMES FOR GALLERY GODS

Congress Is Dull Compared with Former Days.

LITTLE AMUSEMENT IN SENATE AND HOUSE

Real Battles of Oratory, Wit and Sarcasm Are Few—Business Orderly.

Washington, April 30.—Congress is getting back to normalcy—and worse.

After two war congresses, replete with fireworks, the sixty-seventh congress now in session gives promise of being a pretty tame sort of an affair.

Already the sharp-nosed women and the long-haired men, who are daily "gallery birds" in the senate and house, are compaining that it isn't like the old days, when one had a three-ringed circus and a vaudeville show all rolled into one in a session of congress.

The control of this congress rests entirely in the hands of the Republican party, and the Democratic membership still seems to be dazed by the November disaster, for it has not shown any fight and appears disposed to let the Republicans run the congress without obstruction.

"Pat" Harrison, the virile young senator from Mississippi, breaks loose in the senate occasionally and cuts a few oratorical "didoes," giving Henry Cabot Lodge, Republican leader, no little annoyance. But Harrison's attacks appear entirely unsupported by his colleagues. The Democrats just wander off into the cloak room and let Harrison fight all alone. John Sharp Williams, of Mississippi, who was always counted upon to lay down a barrage against the Republicans at 4:30 each afternoon during the war congresses, is very irregular in his offensives this session. Oscar Underwood, Democratic leader, and Senator Hitchcock, have to be forced into the fray. Altogether the senate is an apathetic body. Nobody seems to care but Henry Cabot Lodge, and he gets everything he wants, anyway.

Vituperations Missed.

Of course there are little flurries, but nothing to compare to the verbal battles of the old days, when George Chamberlain of Oregon appeared before a "packed house" in his "undertaker's clothes" and delivered himself of a stinging rebuke to Woodrow Wilson; when the late Ollie James of Kentucky, boomed in reply that "the president is walking a tight rope over a chasm of blood—don't shake the rope;" when Henry Cabot Lodge in his cold austerity bisected the league of nations; when Hiram Johnson, of California, shook his fist and denounced the peace pact; when wee Robert LaFollette, of Wisconsin, walked over to Joe Robinson, of Arkansas, and snapped his fingers in the blood-red face of the irate Arkansan; when Jim Reed, of Missouri, launched a wave of sarcasm against Herbert Hoover; when the late Ben Tillman pounded his fists in defense of the United States navy; when Joe Frelinghuysen, of New Jersey, shouted denunciation of A. Mitchell Palmer; when the late "Bill" Stone, of Missouri, shifted his tobacco and delivered himself of some caustic remarks on foreign affairs. These were the happy days for the senate gallery gods.

In the house the membership is sufficiently large so that any belligerent may always find an opponent, but mass attacks seem to be a thing of the past. It is true that there are skirmishes, but they are merely ver-

FINGER-PRINT RECORDS MADE

Thousands Available Through War Department.

GATHERED DURING THE WORLD CONFLICT

Are Ready Means of Establishing Innocense or Guilt of Many Accused Persons.

Washington, April 30.—In the identification section of the war department in the old Ford theater, where Abraham Lincoln was shot, there has been collected a mass of evidence which is expected during the years to come to play an important part in the conviction of thousands of criminals, and likewise to aid in the exoneration of perhaps other thousands of innocent men who through force of circumstances become the objects of suspicion.

The evidence in question is the finger-print records of more than 5,000,000 men whose imprints were taken when they came in contact with the machinery of the selective service organization of the war department during the war. Scarcely a day passes that the war department is not called upon by the police of various cities and towns throughout the country to try to identify the finger prints of some one who has been involved in a crime or fatal accident.

Helped Solve Wanderer Case.

A recent inquiry from Chicago in connection with the notorious Carl Wanderer murder case is perhaps typical. "The Ragged Stranger," who is alleged to have been shot by Lieutenant Wanderer while the stranger was staging a fake hold-up for which Wanderer had paid him a small sum of money, had never been satisfactorily identified. The police believed him to be Earl Keessee, of Milwaukee, and that he had served in the army either under the name of Keessee or that of Edward Morgan, of Texas.

Knowing that the finger-print records of every man who had served in the army since the indentification system was installed were on file with the war department, they sent the imprints of the "Ragged Stranger's" fingers to Washington for comparison. Investigation showed that a man named Earl Keessee had enlisted in the army from Milwaukee, but the finger prints of Keessee were different from those of the "Ragged Stranger." It was found that no less than six Edward Morgans had served in the army and that two of them were from Texas, but the finger prints of the man slain in Chicago did not tally with those of any of the Edward Morgans who had served in the army.

Handy for Sheriffs.

So prolific has the identification section of the army become as a means of capturing criminals, that every now and then the army has to squelch some ambitious sheriff who tries to make the service pay him dividends. The method ordinarily used is simple. A sheriff makes a collection of notices of reward offered for the capture of criminals. Then he arrests every tramp that comes his way, takes his finger prints and sends them to the war department in Washington for identification. As the war department has the finger print records of practically every able-bodied young man in the United States, it often happens the war department is able to tell the sheriff the name of the man he has in custody.

Thereupon the sheriff checks over his list of rewards offered and if he finds the captive's name among them he immediately notifies the persons offering the reward and then proceeds to collect.

The identification section of the war department is in charge of Walter S. Kaye, who was the organizer of the first "identity section" in the in the war department. The main purpose of the identity section is to identify unknown dead in time of war, and to keep undesirable ex-service men from re-enlisting under assumed names. Later it has been supplying identification records to soldiers, necessary in securing discharges and in addition has been a source of great assistance to the police in identifying criminals among discharged ex-service men.

DEAD FLYER LEAVES REPORT

Tell of Beauties of Great Moonlit Wastes.

LIEUTENANT CONEY'S VALUABLE RECORD

Story of Search in Night for Paths Through Rocky Mountains—Falls to His Death.

Washington, April 30.—The strange beauties and the weirdly incalculable hazards encountered in flying at night were never more strikingly illustrated than in the posthumous official report of Lieutenant W. D. Coney, the daring transcontinental pilot, just made public by the army air service.

Lieutenant Coney made a record flight from California to Florida with but two stops, each being necessitated by accident to his plane. He crashed and was killed on his return trip. The report which is now made public was written by Lieutenant upon his arrival at Jacksonville.

Had it been written thirty years ago—twenty years ago—it would have been put down as an excellent piece of imaginative writing and the action it chronicles wholly impossible of accomplishment. Into the stiff stilted form of an official army report Coney managed to weave some of the beauties of those moonlit wastes that lay miles above the earth, and also some of the dangers—such as coming out of a cloud thousands of feet up and finding a snow-capped mountain peak only 100 feet below.

Pall of Clouds Marred Start.

Scores of pilots have been killed in just such a way—running full tilt into a mountain peak shrouded perhaps in mist while hurtling through the air anywhere from 100 to 150 miles an hour.

The report shows that Coney's start on his ill-fated trip was not auspicious.

"It was raining and very stormy," he wrote, "the clouds black and very low. The last minute adjustments and a rechecking of compasses were accomplished in a downpour of rain. It was decided that as soon as the clouds broke to the west I would take off and climb through the hole and then turn on my course.

Full Moon Above Rain Clouds.

"Shortly before 7 o'clock a hole became visible in the west and I took the air. The ship was a little loggy and tail heavy from excess weight, but handled fairly well. I circled once over the crowd on the field, picking up their location by the numerous automobile lights then began picking my way through the rain clouds. At 7:35 I had climbed above the clouds and was greeted by a bright full moon. The coast range of mountains was directly below, although entirely invisible from my position.

"The weather from Yuma east looked very bad, the clouds extending from the mountains up to at least 14,000 feet. Flying at 8,000 feet, I started to climb, as I had to have at least 12,000 feet to clear the mountain range northwest of Tucson, Arizona. The motor was working beautifully at 1,500 revolutions a minute; the oil was steady at thirty pounds. The clouds were all around me, the ground being visible only in small patches through the clouds. The moon rays touched my plane only at intervals. I believed that 1,500 more feet would put me above the clouds and I continued to slow climb to reach the top.

"Small lights began to appear through the broken clouds. Those I took to be towns along the Southern Pacific. I was flying now at 15,000 feet and the air was getting very rough and the clouds were thicker and heavier.

Sandwiched in the Clouds.

"At 16,000 feet I ran into a heavy snowstorm. Hoping to fly through it in a short time I continued on my course rather than lose time trying to go around. Shortly after 11:30 my compass began to act queerly. It inclined to the left—I corrected on my controls without result—then it made a number of revolutions, became quiet and remained inclined to the left.

"The air was very rough and on account of the extra weight I found it difficult to keep my balance. In fact, I did make two complete turns before I realized it.

"A few minutes later I put the plane in a glide towards the southeast, as I remembered seeing thin white clouds in that direction prior to entering the snowstorm. Soon I was out of the snow but sandwiched between clouds at 16,000 feet.

Landscape Sheet of Snow.

"The mountains ahead of my course were almost touching the upper layer of clouds, while their base was enveloped in clouds that appeared to contain rain. Just before reaching the ridge I flew into a

JAZZ STRAINS THRILL AND DISGUST ANIMALS

"Music hath charms to soothe the savage breast, to soften rocks or bend a knotted oak." Although these immortal lines were penned back in the Elizabethan period, it wasn't until recently that the effects of music were tried on the wild animals in the Central park, New York, Zoo. The experiment was witnessed by professors from Columbia university and zoologists from the Museum of Natural History, in the interest of scientific research. Lions, tigers, leopards, hippopotami, monkeys, elephants, bears and other captives were treated to the strains of jazz, but after the experiment the learned scientists shook their heads. For some of the animals seemed to like the music, while others plainly showed they didn't care a whoop for it and loudly voiced their protests. Of all the animals at the Zoo, Jim, the polar bear, and the two elephants appeared to be the only ones to enjoy the music. Jim actually did the "shimmy" to the jazzy strains, wriggling and shuffling about until he finally rolled about in high glee. The illustration shows Betsy, one of the big elephants of the Zoo, who stepped about lively as the jazz artists rendered a lively tune.

WORLD CRISIS BEING FACED

Railways of Every Country In Bad Shape.

EUROPE REPORTS SERIOUS SITUATION

Economic Condition of World Is Held To Blame—Deficits Are Growing.

Washington, April 30.—The world's railroads are facing a crisis.

Reports and statistics gathered by the Association of Railway Executives here show that not only are the railroads of the United States facing serious difficulties, but that the railroads of Europe are facing even more critical conditions.

Post-war business depression and readjustment has brought the railroads of the world face to face with a struggle for existence under private ownership, according to the reports received here.

The situation that confronts the American railroads is well known.

"The financial position of the railways in the United States may be bad, but they are apparently as badly off, if not worse, in England," says a statement of the situation prepared by the Association of Railway Executives.

"The railways in France are suffering from the same malady," says the statement.

The railroads of Russia and Germany are known to be in a deplorable condition, and the same holds true of the railroad systems in many of the smaller countries.

The railroad systems of England on December 31, 1920, showed a deficit of $169,549,557 to be met from the public treasury, according to the reports received here.

The latest statistics available show that the French railroads suffered a deficit of $259,878,100 in 1919, as compared with a deficit of $15,188,900 in 1913.

The total deficit of the railways operated by the Canadian government in 1920 is reported as $70,221,731.

United States Deficit.

During January the American railroads suffered a deficit of $558,399, and in February there was a deficit of $7,205,000.

As evidence that the present depression which is affecting the railroads is similar to that which has come during every period of business depression, the Association of Railway Executives declares that at present "the percentage of idle cars is slightly less than it was during the business slump that followed the signing of the Armistice, or the financial depression of 1908."

In defense of increased rates the association presents a statistical study by Julius H. Parmalee which concludes that "prices have been declining ever since the increased rates went into effect, so that the effect of the higher rates has not been in the direction of boosting prices."

Economics Blamed.

MILLIONAIRES ARE DESIRABLE

France Welcomes Newly-Rich from America.

MONEY EXCHANGED FOR RUSTY TITLES

French Writer Urges American Money Is Good Thing in Any Country.

Paris, April 30.—"The first man to be king was a poet, and the last man to rule upon this earth will, without doubt, be an American multi-millionaire, who will buy a crown and a nation."

Clement Vautel, French humorist, thus sums up the conclusions of a host of French writers who have been having a lot of fun at the expense of American millionaires whose money is bolstering up ruined monarchies in Europe.

Official announcement of the engagement of young Princess Xenia, niece of the king of Greece, has brought out all the time-worn jokes about Chicago pork-packers, who kidnapped daughters of bankrupt dukes, much to the delight of the dukes. The French papers recount all the adventures of Anne Gould with her count-husband, the marriage of Helen Zimmerman, of Cincinnati to the Duke of Manchester and numerous other matrimonial alliances between American money and European titles.

Title Hunters Scorn.

"We must admit that the Yankee millionaires are gaining ground rapidly," says Le Petit Bleu. "In the past they were content to marry daughters of dukes, barons or counts whose coats-of-arms had lost their gilt edges ages ago. But since the war the American millionaire has become a valuable article of importation.

"Now we learn that one of President Harding's 'subjects' has announced his engagement with a princess—not a contraband princess, not a princess of recent nobility, not one of the kind of princesses that frequent our night dancing clubs—but a real princess born in the shadow of a throne. They say that King Constantine first opposed the alliance, but that his hesitation was of short duration when he learned how much money young Leeds was bringing into the royal family."

Needed His Crown Repaired.

Vautel's version is slightly different. King Constantine pondered a moment, says Vautel, and frankly remarked:

"All right—my crown needs to be remodeled."

But, adds Vautel, there should be no objection to such alliances, providing one of the last "American kings" doesn't let his ambition run away with him and disturb Europe.

"After all," he writes, "one of these American kings of steel, or of pork, or of celluloid collars is the equal either of a small or a great princess. Furthermore, it is only just to say that William Leeds is a fine boy and just, despite the money he is taking into the adventure, it was also a love affair. Europe may expect to see others of the same kind."

CRIMINALS OF CLEVER SORT

Engaged in Beating Insurance Companies by Fires.

SOME THINGS FOUND BY AN INVESTIGATOR

Schemes Worked by Experts in Arson, Who Frequenty Trade on Dupes.

New York, April 30.—Declaring that the present period of industrial depression and the great wave of social crime which has been sweeping the country has also been accompanied by an increase of what is commonly called commercial crime, C. D. West, manager of the investigation and prosecution department, National Association of Credit Men, has exposed some of the schemes devised to defraud creditors.

"During the period of prosperity which was enjoyed for some years past, the professional commercial swindler was not engaged in his usual vocation because it was easier to make money honestly. Now that business conditions have changed the trade crooks have returned to their old games," said Mr. West, who is one of the best known investigators in the country. He has several nicknames, among them being "Zephon," "Deacon West," "Dean West" and "Sherlock Holmes." Mr. West has been responsible for sending more commercial crooks to jail than any other man in America.

"While the numerous forms of social crime are well known to the public, the workings of the commercial criminals are not familiar to most persons," said West.

"The latter class deal principally with fraudulent bankruptcies, the mulcting of creditors, and often, even, the ruining of honest merchants, as well as the defeating of the workings of the law.

Not Ordinary Pickpockets.

"The commercial criminals would not pick a man's pockets, they would not do a person bodily harm. Ah, no! They are far too lever for that. They are polished gentlemen, well educated and extremely smart in devising schemes for gaining their ends.

"The man who seeks to defraud the firms with which he is dealing on credit does his work carefully. He secures small loans, paying the bills usually in full, then gradually increases the amount of his orders until the sum reaches a high mark. Then in the anticipated time for the fraudulent bankruptcy or other scheme.

"There are a great many ways in which these criminals operate. In bankruptcy frauds the most common method of beating the law are the concealment of assets, transfer of stock with the aid of a false burglary or fire and the dishonest claims of debts, contracted and paid, usually to relatives.

"Sometimes dishonest lawyers advise and point out methods of working fraudulent bankruptcy; in some cases dishonest referees and attorneys loot bankrupt estates, occasionally corrupt politics enters into the game and sometimes even credit men themselves apparently stung by the crooks, are in reality working with the scoundrels to put the fraud across.

"Often it is necessary to contend with an organized gang operating in several cities throughout the country and controlling arson and burglary gangs, shippers, receivers, lawyers and others.

"It is the 'man higher up,' the 'master mind,' that we are most concerned in getting. Many of their workers are merely dupes.

"Sixteen men, 'higher up' in Chicago were responsible for three failures aggregating $300,000, of which $15,000 has already been recovered.

"In another case twenty-eight failures have been traced to one Philadelphia wholesale house.

Sherlock on the Job.

"While investigating a case in Paterson, New Jersey, not long ago I became interested in the disappearance of a dozen satchels used for transporting animals and I decided to trace them. I found that they had been shipped to Philadelphia and then to Chester, Pennsylvania. To Chester I went, to the home of the man's father, whom I found to be apparently interested in cats.

"But upon further search I discovered the reason. The cats were being trained to fight lamps and when their training was completed they were sold for $250 each.

"Thus when a man wanted a fire in his store all that was necessary was for him to purchase one of these animals and leave it in his store with a lighted lamp, then go home and go to bed, assured that while he slept

Holding A Husband

BY ADELE GARRISON.

If I had followed my first impulse I should have fled shrieking down the stairs at the sudden appearance of Grace Draper in the house I was inspecting with a view to its purchase. All my old aversion to the girl, my very real terror of her, swept over me until I found myself as near utter panic as I ever had been in my life.

But pride, that most potent of all people in the world this woman was the one person whom I could least afford to show any sign of white feather. Unthinkable that I should see me quail even for an instant! I summoned every bit of will power I possessed, and spoke to her coolly, steadily.

"Ah! Miss Draper, is it not? I barely recognized you at first. But your voice hasn't changed."

I had spoken only the simple truth, but with any other woman than the one before me I would have instinctively refrained from comment upon the marked alteration in her appearance. But there was no room in my heart for truth toward Grace Draper, and I am afraid there was meanness enough in my soul at that instant to rejoice at the change which had come to her.

For she was no longer the vision of beauty which Dicky had so admired in the first year of our marriage when she had been the model for so many of his illustrations. At that time her beauty had been faultless, and I had always felt myself at a marked disadvantage beside her. But even the few years since then, though they had touched me hardly enough, had decidedly aged her, probably because of the combination with them of a code of life far removed from mine and of the penalties which she had suffered for her crimes.

She was still attractive, her figure was still lissome, but it and her features were far too thin, while the brilliant coloring which of old was one of her chief attractions had been replaced by rouge. I guessed that beneath it was an unbecoming pallor, materially detracting from her old charm. There was a hardness, a touch of cheap vulgarity about her also, which made her only a caricature of the woman she once had been. But her lustrous dark eyes were still beautiful, full of unquenchable fire and spirit. But despite them, however, my old jealousy of the girl slipped from me forever. I no doubt had cause to fear her, but in this moment's concentrated gaze at her I knew that never could I Dicky be attracted by her again. I knew also, without vanity that the tables had turned, and that now I had the advantage of her in personal appearance.

That she realized the same truth as she looked at me—nay, more, knew that I had seen it also—was evident in the sudden curling of her lips back over her teeth, while into her eyes for a fleeting second there came the expression of something cutlike preparing to spring.

How I ever held my ground before that look I do not know, but stand motionless I did, looking calmly into her eyes. But when the savage look faded and was replaced by something inscrutable, I knew that nothing in my action had changed her intention. She had forced herself into passivity.

"It is hardly to be expected that I should be unaltered, is it?" she asked with a little smile which in spite of my aversion to her, I had to admit was full of genuine pathos. "Prison life is not generally conducive to the preservation of one's attractiveness."

I turned involuntarily toward the woman who had admitted me into the house, wondering that Grace Draper should speak of this chapter in her life before her. But she was no longer to be seen, and the woman opposite me laughed lightly at my gesture.

"Oh, Linda is a good scout!" she said. "She won't listen to anything not intended for her ears. Besides, she knows all about me. I knew her years ago before she was married, and we've kept up a sort of friendship ever since, enough so that I was able to use her to get you here. I knew you wouldn't want the house, but it seemed a very plausible way of seeing you. I must admit that the various guardians of your welfare are very devoted and strictly on the job."

There was a distinct sneer in her voice, but I gained the impression that it was almost subconscious, that she was striving to appear friendly, whether or not with some sinister purpose I couldn't ascertain. But I resolved to be wary.

"What have you finally decided about the letter I sent you?"

I had expected the question, but I knew that I was not yet ready to answer it. I glanced quickly, furtively around the hall in which we were standing. She was between me and the stairway, but I spoke as nonchalantly as though the knowledge of that fact had not sent a little apprehensive thrill through me.

"I am rather tired," I said, "and you do not look strong. Suppose we sit down in some place where we can talk more comfortably."

THIS WOMAN'S EXPERIENCE

Brings a Ray of Hope to Childless Women

Lowell, Mass.—"I had anemia from the time I was sixteen years old and was very irregular. If I did any housecleaning or washing I would faint and have to be put to bed, my husband thinking every minute was my last. After reading your text-book for women I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and used the Sanative Wash, and have never felt better than I have the last two years. I can work, eat, sleep, and feel as strong as can be. Doctors told me I could never have children—I was too weak—but after taking Vegetable Compound it strengthened me so I gave birth to an eight pound boy. I was well all the time, did all my work up to the last day, and had a natural birth. Everybody who knew me was surprised, and when they ask me what made me strong I tell them with great pleasure, 'I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and never felt better in my life.' Use this testimonial at any time."—Mrs. ELIZABETH SMART, 142 W. Sixth St., Lowell, Mass. This experience of Mrs. Smart is surely a strong recommendation for Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It is only one of a great many similar cases.

DRINK MORE WATER IF KIDNEYS BOTHER

Eat less meat and take Salts for Backache or Bladder trouble.

Uric acid in meat excites the kidneys, they become overworked; get sluggish, ache, and feel like lumps of lead. The urine becomes cloudy; the bladder is irritated, and you may be obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night. When the kidneys clog you must help them flush off the body's urinous waste or you'll be a real sick person shortly. At first you feel a dull misery in the kidney region, you suffer from a backache, sick headache, dizziness, stomach gets sour, tongue coated and you feel rheumatic twinges when the weather is bad.

Eat less meat, drink lots of water; also get from any pharmacist four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity, also to neutralize the acids in urine so it no longer is a source of irritation, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, can not injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to keep the kidneys clean and active. Druggists here say they sell lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in overcoming kidney trouble while it is only trouble.—Adv.

COMB SAGE TEA IN FADED OR GRAY HAIR

If Mixed with Sulphur It Darkens so Naturally Nobody can Tell.

Grandmother kept her hair beautifully darkened, glossy and attractive with a brew of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Whenever her hair took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect. Brushing at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get a large bottle of this old-time recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, all ready to use at very little cost. This simple mixture can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair.

A well-known downtown druggist says everybody uses Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound now because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied—it's so easy to use, too. You simply dampen a comb or soft brush and draw it through your hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; after another application or two, it is restored to its natural color and looks glossy, soft and beautiful.—Advt.

THE HUB OF COMMERCE.

Daily Proverb—"Let every man practice the trade he best understands."

The discovery of the man responsible for the Wall street explosion seems to be a sort of a twin brother to a continuous performance.

A stray item says the women of Abyssinia have the privilege of abusing and bossing their husbands. Well, what's so peculiar about that?

New York City has had many a scare thrown into her, but apparently none equal to the possibility that she may have to drink water.

Michigan doctors will prescribe whisky only to patients sick in bed. If this rule should prevail, what could it possibly profit a man to become sick.

It's just a bit odd, but it's an acknowledged fact that neither the woman best qualified to raise children nor the man best qualified to raise chickens ever raised any.

No matter what the mother country may think of his medicine for what's ailing her, it is manifest that Ontario believes that Dr. "Tussyfoot" Johnson's prescription is just the thing.

We are told that miracles are things of the past, but it's worth noting at this particular time that the silence of Captain Richmond Pearson Hobson is unbroken.

The man driving about the country will have to be shown that the farmer is curtailing his crop acreage this year. So far as the farmer is concerned, there isn't going to be any throwing down of the public.

We see that 500 of the thousands of Indians who fought Custer are soon to take part in a coming motion picture. It is evident that age is no more of a bar to the movies than to the chorus.

It's odd how luck breaks, at times. Here comes the report that Germany is the most prosperous nation in Europe just at the time she is seeking a discount of the reparations she will have to make.

The paragrapher who talks about the merchant paying a sales tax and not passing it along to the purchaser evidently figures that the millennium is much nearer at hand than generally credited.

One sees a lot in type about the movies being on probation, but nothing of the kind is reflected in the attendance. There's apparently the same big house for the first show, night after night, with people standing and patiently waiting for the second.

A writer in a current magazine says the initiative and referendum show the low opinion Americans have of their state legislatures. The next thing, we suppose, will be to find something that will show their low opinion of the I. and R.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Considering that they elect their legislatures, do they not also show the poor esteem in which the people hold their own judgment?

The style of dress for the past three or four years has been decidedly frank and revealing but up to a late hour this afternoon Marguerite Clark, so far as we have been able to discern, is the only entrant in the dimpled elbow class.

It's just possible that the tens of thousands of dollars' worth of publicity Bebe Daniels has secured will in a great measure compensate her for the ten days she spent in jail for auto speeding.

It has developed that the Ohio State Journal man was taking a vacation down in Atlantic City and wasn't visiting up at Cleveland Heights as we supposed, so we may just as well count all the sympathy we felt for "wife's relatives" utterly wasted.

California has the largest olive grove in the world and the most up-to-date and sanitary plants extant for preserving olives and rending them into oil, yet the man who puts "up" on olive oil will usually wind up in the bankrupt variety under the delusion that he specializes in the domestic.

MORE FARM HELP THIS YEAR.

There will be no such dearth of farm help in American farms this summer as confronted the farmers last year, according to the bureau of crop estimates. More than 6,000,000 men will be available for agricultural work when the harvesting season arrives, he says, and they will accept wages from twenty to twenty-five per cent lower than those they received in 1920 for a full period. The lack of a large crop and guarantees contained in laws pass on farm products.

The point of view from which it is most desirable to consider this situation is that of the farmers. The drop which has occurred in food prices since the harvesting of the last crop has not been an unalloyed blessing. Consumers have benefitted at the expense of the producers. The farmers were dealt a severe blow when corn, cotton, wheat, tobacco and livestock fell to the current level. Their purchasing power was seriously curtailed. There would have been no such result if the cost of other products had been reduced in like proportion; but it has been only in the last month or two that some of the things needed by farmers—agricultural machinery, for example—have receded from the peak prices of the war, and as to comparatively few have come down to the same extent that farm products declined.

The further reduction in the price of the latter, which it is predicted will result from the increased acreage made possible by the abundance of labor, may not, therefore, be as conducive to the general welfare as at first though it would appear to be. One might suppose that a big crop at low prices would be just as profitable as a small one at high prices; but this is not always the case. A glutted market sometimes makes it impossible for the producer to obtain for his product even the cost of production.

The cut in farm hands' wages will help the agriculturalists; but to insure their prosperity, it is essential that there should be improved methods of distribution, so that it will be unnecessary for them to dispose of their crops at ruinous prices—prices which are not always passed on to the consumers, because the middlemen sometimes hold the grain, meat, cotton, wool and tobacco until an artificial shortage has been created, and thus are enabled to make the consumers pay a stiff price.

The country as a whole will not prosper unless the farmers are prosperous.

There's this to be said for the league of nations; there's absolutely nothing niggardly about the salaries it pays.

AREN'T LEAVING US ANYTHING.

It is hazardous almost to the point of fascination to be a scientist these days. Politically, of course, the stability of the world during the last six or seven years has been nothing to brag about. But after all, in this field we are merely changing boundaries and fixing indemnities. And after we get through with this game, at least geologically and geographically, the world will be much the same as it is now. There will still be mountains, and rivers will flow to the sea.

But scientifically speaking, everything seems to be upset so that the worst may come at any time. Hardly has Einstein demolished beyond all repair our old standbys, time and space, and distorted the Newtonian theory of gravitation to suit his destructive purposes, when along comes another set of scientists to cast out Mr. Einstein's relativity theory and what little there was left of Newton's law.

To make matters worse these innovators tell us that their substitute is more "revolutionary than the Russian soviet." One of the scientific revolutionists says by way of burial ceremony over Mr. Einstein's contribution: "From Newton to Einstein it has always been supposed that mass as measured by gravitation is the same as mass measured by its inertia." Now, never having known any better, and along with most citizens never even having understood this, we may be charged with always having supposed this to be true. Whatever it is.

But for all that we have been afraid to walk under a ladder, particularly when said ladder was being ascended by a hod-carrier with a hod full of bricks. And, on the whole, even though some scientific worthies have now cast aspersions on the gravitation theory as being inexact about walking under ladders ascended by brick-laden hod carriers, we shall continue to be cautious in the future. Nothing short of a practical demonstration by one of the theory-destroying scientists will ever render the ordinary man less shy of an impact with a falling brick.

OUR DISAPPEARING FORESTS.

Idle land is the cause of America's growing timber shortage—idle land that should be utilized for growing trees to replace those cut for the industries. The chief forester of the federal government estimates these idle acres at 81,000,000, an area increased by 8,000,000 acres each year. This is not land adapted to agriculture. It would serve the nation best by growing timber. It is idle and unproductive because Americans continue to pursue wasteful policies in forestry.

In spite of modern substitutes for wood in construction, more wood is used now than ever before in this country. Concrete and other fire-resisting materials, admirable as they are, are not saving our disappearing timber. More wood is used in building railway cars, for instance, than before the steel car was devised. Similar increases in many branches of industry are inevitably listening the day when America's magnificent forest heritage will become exhausted. Already three-fifths of our primeval forests are gone and of the remaining portions sixty-one per cent lies west of the Great Plains.

LOANING OUR MONEY.

Long a bankers have won in a contest with American bankers for a loan to the Brazilian state of Sao Paulo. The sum of $6,000,000 has been offered to the South American community. Meanwhile Great Britain owes the United States treasury about $4,200,000,000, with interest there on all but the last two years, as we are treated to the spectacle of a from British finance officials that the debt should be cancelled out of sentiment for the French peace situation. In plain words, the money loaned to Brazil belongs to American taxpayers, which will [illegible] the British to make it even that much cheaper [illegible] competition with us. Meanwhile American taxpayers are groaning under a tax [illegible] over $24,000,000,000.

LIFE'S VAUDEVILLE.

[By James Hall Naylor]

ARE THEY DULY REWARDED?

Miss Mulock, who was the author of that glowing old-time novel, "John Halifax, Gentleman," once remarked:

"Unless a woman has a decided pleasure and facility in teaching, an honest knowledge of everything she professes to impart, liking for children, and, above all, a strong moral sense of her responsibility towards them, for her to attempt to enroll herself in the scholastic order is absolute profanation."

Miss Mulock set a high standard, as to natural aptitudes and acquired qualifications, for teachers.

Who can say that she set it too high?

We desire—and wherever we can, we require—that our teachers be mental and moral prodigies.

We expect them to do good work—almost perfect work.

Teachers of today must be high-school graduates. We prefer that they be college graduates. Too, they must have more or less normal training. Also, we desire that they possess all the additional culture possible.

The woman teacher—the mental and moral drudge of the community!

She must like teaching—must take pleasure in teaching. We ask it. She must have a facility for teaching. We demand it. She must have extensive and exact text-book knowledge. We require it. She must love children—must have the mother instinct strongly developed. We expect it. She must appreciate her responsibility—and have a keen sense of her moral obligations. We exact it.

Otherwise, for her to presume to teach is "absolute profanation," we hold.

But how do we reward her?

She must be able to inspire, to control, to guide; she must be qualified to advise, instruct, encourage, aid and comfort. She must receive the whining schoolboy, with his satchel and shining morning face, as he creeps unwillingly into the school-room—and, by means of womanly tact and God-given grace, make something of him. She must take the fretful, dissatisfied school-girl—embodying all the irritations of a contentious home, maybe—and make something of her.

But for all this—how do we reward the woman teacher?

The editor of the Ohio State Journal pays a deserved tribute to Miss Margaret Sutherland, who has retired from the Columbus schools. Miss Sutherland has spent a lifetime in teaching. Grant was president when she first entered the school-room, as teacher—and the city of Columbus had only 31,000 inhabitants.

Fifty years in the school-room—as teacher!
Fifty years of mental stress and strife!
Fifty years of moral toil and moil!
Fifty years of physical effort and nervous strain!
Seasons passed—like shuffling footsteps.
Months flitted by—like fireflies in the dusk.
Miss Sutherland toiled on.
And her reward?

I don't know, of course, what it has been; but I do know it hasn't been great enough—hasn't been at all commensurate with the services she has rendered.

All honor to you, Miss Margaret Sutherland!

THE SUM OF LIFE.

You ask me, son, what is life—
This brief little breathing-spell rife
With truths that are fictions,
And queer contradictions,
And purposeless peace and strife?

It's taking a stand—and defending it,
And starting a project—and ending it,
And doing it all with a smile;
It's hitting the highway—and liking it,
And meeting misfortune—and liking it,
And laughing at fate all the while!

The Ohio State Journal contains an editorial which says:

"A recent number of the National Geographic magazine, which is one of the best worth-while publications on the news stand, has a remarkable article on Long Life, by Dr. Alexander Graham Bell. In this the author advances a theory which is new to those of us who have not been making a special study of the matter, namely: That people who have lived the longest are those who have had the most children. It is rather more than a theory, for as a result of wide-spread investigation it has been discovered that the cause of longevity are also those of large families. Also, that the children of longlived parents are usually more vigorous than those of others."

All true, without a doubt. But why? What is the natural law governing such things? The law of compensation—working in an adverse manner, it seems. Muscle and mind grow and strengthen with proper exercise. All the organs of the body perform their functions better when they are made to perform their functions regularly. Bind up an arm and leave it motionless—and it withers away; refuse or neglect to exercise the mind—and it weakens and deteriorates.

We gain by giving.
We grow and strengthen by doing.
We cast our bread upon the waters—and it returns to us.
It is more blessed to give than to receive—spiritually and actually.
A light hid under a bushel—will smoke and go out.
A coin wrapped in a napkin and laid away—will draw no interest.
Labor is life.
Service is profitable.
Sacrifice is salvation.

Those who beget and rear large families must exercise all the functions of body, mind and soul. They must labor; and their labor is love. They must serve; and their service is sacred. They must sacrifice; and their sacrifice is sanctified. Therefore, they profit—physically, mentally, morally. They live longer; and live better and happier.

What is the sum of life?
It's having and holding—and borrowing,
And wasting and slaving—and sorrowing;
Forever it's peace or strife!
It's living and helping and giving, son—
And having the proof that you're living, son:
And this is the sum of life!

The Story of Our States

By JONATHAN BRACE

XX.—MISSISSIPPI

THE State of Mississippi derives its name from the river which forms its western boundary. The word itself comes from the Algonquin missi-sepe which means "great river." It is popularly supposed to mean "Father of the Waters" but this interpretation is incorrect. The state is also known as the Bayou State from the many bayous which are formed by the shifting river. In this connection it is interesting to note the uneven course of the Mississippi river. Though the extreme length of the state from the Gulf to Tennessee is 330 miles, the western border, due to the winding of the Mississippi river, extends for nearly 500 miles.

The rivers play an important part in this state. They are so numerous and the country so subject to flood that the river bottoms cover nearly one fifth of the area of the entire state.

The early history of Mississippi is yoked up with that of Louisiana of which it originally formed a part. Discovered by De Soto in 1539, it was not until La Salle sailed down the river and claimed this territory, which he named in honor of his French king, Louis XIV, that a permanent settlement was established.

In 1763 the territory east of the Mississippi was ceded by the French to the English. For a while the lower portion of the present state was called West Florida. After being captured by the Spanish and later returned to the United States, the Territory of Mississippi was extended to its present size of 46,865 square miles and in 1817 it was admitted as the twentieth state of the Union. At the time of the Mexican war, although called upon to supply one regiment of volunteers, Mississippi responded with enough men for two. One of these regiments was commanded by Jefferson Davis, who later was the president of the Confederate states. Since its readmittance to the Union in 1870 Mississippi in national elections has been a Democratic state except in 1872, when it voted for Grant.

Nobody knows, better than the banker, the broad laws of compensating currents, balanced forces, adjustments and readjustments, that prevail in the business world.

At Storm Center.

But, because he is very certain to be at the precise storm center when the trouble starts, the banker also gets the same acute apprehension of the discomforts that attend temporary suspension of the rules.

We all know that the war and the subsequent interregnum that was neither war nor peace, but decidedly suspend the normal laws of trade, finance, exchange. These have not yet resumed their sway. We have had overproduction of credits and of printed money, under-production of pretty nearly everything else and along with these has gone an interruption of physical transport and financial exchanges that has depressed the capacity to consume and thus left the appearance of excess production even in lines in which there was nothing of the sort.

This persicely is what has caused the crisis in American agriculture. We confront demands for relief from every quarter. Middle Europe, the Near East, China, Ireland—all stand in need of the staples that we possess but can not sell because those who most urgently need them can not pay. They have neither money that is worthy of that name in international transactions, nor credit, nor goods to send in barter. Even in our own country, whose vast market must always be our main reliance, there has been something like a consumers' strike against high prices. So, facing all these depressing influences, the producer who turned out goods and staples in a time when price were high and war-time's feverish demand seemed unlimited, finds himself unable to sell; credits are frozen, and their process of thawing is going to be slow, depending on the rise of the sun of peace, and the warmth with which it shall shine on a shivering world. Men's minds still run too much to war, too little to work. The fear of further conflict causes the continuance of barriers against those long-established and easy exchanges.

International Trade.

On these great communities they have come to be dependent; even, in any cases, the strengthening of old or the erection of new barriers.

There are features in connection with the entire business of international trade, that are entirely changed by reason of the war. It may be doubted whether we Americans have given enough attention to this re-shaping of the commercial map and business methods of the world. During the war it became encessary for governments to effect great consolidation of business and to place government credit, shipping, fiscal and even diplomatic authority to a great extent at the disposal of business. Governments created buying and selling agencies that dealt in the necessaries of both the government and the private industry of the country. This was necessitated in order, somewhat to prevent the excessive inflation of prices. The buyer who went into a world market with authority to purchase a particular line on a huge scale of a great nation's demand, and with the financial responsibility of that nation at its back, was in position to insist upon terms, and to evade payment of the excessive prices that competition might have imposed. At a later stage, these buying organizations were even internationalized. A Single buying authority was sent out to survey the markets of the world, and to buy on behalf of governments, and then to allocate to the different national partners in the enterprise their respective shares. This concentration of purchasing power made it possible to play off one against another, so that, although prices increased rapidly, their inflation was not nearly so great as it might have been if there had been complete freedom of competition. A familiar example may be found in the iron and steel industry.

Bidding Against One Another.

In the early stages, different departments of a single government, as the army, the navy, the shipbuilding authority, and the munitions organizations, found themselves bidding against each other for supplies of iron and steel. Later, when it came to be realized that the war was likely to be won by the side which most effectively mobilized the industrial capacity of the world, means were devised to prevent this expensive competition. Thus came the beginning of price control. At a later state, international buying succeeded national, that is, the allied nations to a considerable degree pooled their requirements and the international agency, representing substantially the consolidated demand of the entire world, succeeded the merely national authority.

This procedure we all recognize as having contributed greatly to the victory of the allies. Under their war powers, governments rigidly restricted the use of materials by private business. The manufacture of luxuries was ruthlessly limited in order that necessary material might be conserved for the war industries or those lines of production which were esteemed necessary to the civil life of the community.

I am firmly convinced that when the economic story of the war can be written in detail, it will be recognized that by its participation in this sort of an organization, the United States made one of the greatest contributions to the allied cause. When our tremendous agricultural and industrial, and raw materials capacity, was once effectively consolidated and then cast into the service of the common cause, the industrial mobilization of the world had been pretty much effected. Not only was the cause of the allies assured that the entire producing capacity of America was available, but it was also assured against the necessity of paying those extreme prices which open competition might have enforced in such an exigency; and finally, it was assured the financial support of the consolidated credit of the richest nation in the world.

All a Mighty Contribution.

All this was a mighty contribution to the winning of the war. But it produced an inevitable reaction. Business men and organizations were irked at realization that they were under powerful restraint; that they were not free, as in other times, to charge all that the traffic would bear, and to earn the highest possible profit. It is true that the system of control was organized on the whole, on a liberal basis. Profits were in many cases unprecedented in volume; but the other side is, that if there had been no such control they would have been still greater. For the purposes of our present survey of world conditions it is not necessary to consider so much the reasonableness or unreasonableness of the profits, as to get our minds firmly fixed on the facts and implications of this system of national and then international control. It is a very big and potent fact, but not always an entirely patent one. Men were entirely willing to endure inconveniences and restrictions so long as the war was going on, and the great supreme business of winning inspired them with willingness to make sacrifices of their independence and their business opportunity. But the very moment the war was over, the victory won, there came the inevitable reaction, the demand that "The government get out of business," and that the old rule be reestablished.

Nowhere was this demand emphasized as in the United States. We had not been in the war so long as our allies. The war had never been so close to us as to them. The supreme necessity to win had never been impressed upon us so tremendously as upon them. Morever, in the first two and a half years of the war, we had not participated, but had been free to earn as great profits as might be possible, from the necessities of those who later became our allies.

Government Restrictions.

All these things united to give particular insistence to the demand that governmental restrictions be removed just as rapidly as possible.

Unprepared for peace as we had been for war, our government listened perhaps, too willingly to these demands. The instrumentalities of integration and centralized control were "scrapped" with altogether unnecessary haste. We might well have stopped, looked and listened; have noted what our allies, and indeed others, were doing in this regard. But we did not; we assumed that we might return to peace methods and basis immediately and without great difficulty. It was only when we had discarded the entire fabric and structure of war-time restrictions, and returned to the rule of Laissez-faire, that we realized that others had been less precipitate. De-control was not esteemed in other countries the instanteous sine qua non to reestablishment of peace. Their more urgent necessities, their comparatively very much greater impoverishment at the end of the struggle, impressed them with the necessity of projecting for an indefinite period into the era of peace, the methods which had proved efficacious in time of war. So it came about that American business found itself presently, decentralized and decontrolled, under the necessity of competing in world markets that continued to be dominated by the same highly organized and centralized forces that had ruled during the war. We found ourselves back on a competitive basis, seeking to sell in markets that had not yet been restored to that basis; and the results for us have not been altogether satisfactory.

Europe's Hand.

Europe is dealing in its highly organized capacity with our competing sellers, was able progressively to depress our price.

Another and perhaps equally important factor in the situation was the release of ships. So long as ships were scarce and requirement imminent, such ships as were available had to be used on the shortest possible routes. During the war, it was not a question of price, but of getting the largest possible tonnage moved in the shortest time. So, the more distant markets were nigh deserted and the United States was called upon to provide everything possible, while other countries piled up great surplus of their staples against the day of peace. When peace came, and it was possible for ships to be sent over the wider seas and longest routes, to get the cheaper goods from more distant parts, the highly organized buying agencies of needy countries quite naturally tended to desert us and to buy elsewhere if they could make better terms or secure lower prices.

The depressing effects of this upon our international trade were not immediately felt because our financial position was so strong. Europe was compelled to buy where she could get credit. We were able to give credit, and we did give it. Our business men extended private credits to the extent of hundreds of millions, then of billions of dollars. But the time inevitably came when this could not go on, and then for the first time we stood on a basis of parity with others who had the goods with which to compete and who could give credit. This climax in the situation was hastened by reason of the disadvantageous exchange rates, which tended to make every country seek to buy from some other country whose money was cheaper. As we had the dearest money in the world, which means the best money, the money next to parity with gold, we became the country with which it was most difficult to do business.

What Europe Is Doing.

The consolidated buying agencies of Europe found themselves in a position to take their trade elsewhere, and to a considerable extent they have done so.

But we would be seriously mistaken if we should conclude that this is a condition that must inevitably continue to our disadvantage. The close integration of Europe's buying and selling organizations has been possible only through the maintenance of a considerable degree of government financial responsibility. More or less indirectly it is true, but none the less effectively, governments have been underwriting the international business of their nationals, in order to bring about the earliest possible rehabilitation of trade, and to provide employment for their people. Raw materials have been provided at very low prices, to be turned into manufactured products for the world's markets. The manufacturer who is privileged to utilize these very cheap materials, may be able to turn out products, for a time, that will undersell ours in the world's market, and yet net him a modest profit. But the other side of the ledger is to be seen in the financial statement of the government budget. When we turn to this, we find deficits which, if we thoroughly understood them, would explain how the national treasury has been losing by the policy of subsidizing industry and expanding trade. This sort of thing can not go on always, there is reason to believe that it can not go on much longer. It is an unhealthy economic condition, from which on the whole we have been immune.

There are some other conditions that have operated to our country's disadvantage.

Prominent Among 'Em.

The long delay in making peace, due to political conditions that are thoroughly familiar and do not require discussion here, has been prominent among them. But we look forward with much confidence to a near future in which peace will be restored to our country and the interference of war laws with the processes of commerce will be ended.

This will, I am confident, react favorably upon the relations among other nations and tend toward the earliest possible resumption of peace conditions. There is the best of reason for believing that the recent announcement of this country's support of the allied powers in enforcing the payment of proper reparations by Germany, will speed up that settlement on which so largely depends the restoration of security, the balancing of budgets, and the establishment of financial assurance in Europe.

But we must recognize the big facts in this matter. One is that European rehabilitation must be slow and its reflection in more favorable business conditions very gradual. The other is that our own country presents to us the market in which we must always do most of our business and on which we shall chiefly depend for establishment of industrial prosperity. There is plenty of consuming capacity here, if we could only make it possible for the potential consumers to buy those things they would be glad to consume. If we can find means to keep our own people working, producing, earning, they will spend their earnings buying the things they have produced, and we will presently see the tides of prosperity running stronger.

I am not among those who greatly fear a so-called unfavorable balance of international trade.

Banking of World's Gold.

I have never been able to understand the reasoning of those who would have us believe that if other peoples send us more goods than we send them, we are being impoverished. It seems to me that we are much of the time rather being further enriched. Neither am I one of those who note with complete satisfaction the tendency of the world's gold to bank itself up on this side the Atlantic. There is a certain sort of reasoning on these subjects that, if carried to its final conclusions, would have us believe that if we never imported anything, but always exported heavily, we should be getting rich at a tremendous rate. Because, they seem to believe, we would compel the outside world to keep on everlastingly sending us its gold in payment for our goods; and that, in this process of reasoning is regarded as the summum bonum.

To me, it has always seemed that if too much of the gold got piled up in one place, there would have to be too little in other places. Gold is not particularly useful as an article of diet or clothing or housing. Its function is to provide a generally accepted basis of the money systems on which exchanges depend, and when one country's system is inflated with too much gold, others must be inflated with paper whose relation to gold will necessarily be vague. So there will be difficulties about exchanges; the dollar, with the largest reserve of gold back of it, will be out of joint with the pound, the franc, the lire, the mark, and thus the very international exchanges that a gold standard was intended to facilitate will be hampered.

Let me make application of these observations to our present business situation. If I am correct in the impression that we need to keep our machinery of production working, then we must do everything possible to enable our farms and mills to keep busy.

Must Help Outside World

We must help our own people to be able to buy their products. We must also help the outside world to maintain a money system in such relation to gold that exchanges will be possible. Therefore, as to the domestic problem, we must extend, through our financial instrumentalities, every encouragement to the producer. The farmer must be assured, right now, that in his effort to buy fertilizers and seed and implements and labor for the next crop, he will be given the fullest support, the broadest credit, that can possibly be extended through the banks, and that the federal government and its banking structure will stand squarely back of individual banks that wisely and in moderation extend necessary credits for these purposes. Credit as a basis of protection there must be, credit as an incentive and means to more unprotective speculation, there must not be. I can say to you bankers, and to the great agricultural community behind you, that this is and will be the policy of those responsible for the supervision of national banks.

Cotton Production.

It would be difficult to name an American industry that so thoroughly deserves or so safely could be extended assistance at a time of temporary stress as that of cotton production. For many decades our exports of cotton have been responsible for keeping us in secure possessions of a favorable trade balance. You people of our South produce, I believe, about sixty per cent of the entire output of the world. Without you, the civilization of the temperate zones would be impossible, because, without you, people would be going naked, and it never has been found feasible to maintain a highly cultured state among folks who chase about in winter time in openwork beads and diaphanous smiles. The world's shelves and warehouses are just about denuded of those goods which represent your great agricultural industry. Consumers have been more or less on an enforced strike, but they must come back into the market and they are already doing so. The continuance of the world's great and increasing demand for cotton and cotton fabrics is just as certain as the continuance of civilization itself. You may take it from me that those who are vested with some measure of authority to guide the broader financial policies of this country have a fairly accurate conception of the vital necessity to encourage and sustain the prodution of our cotton crop and of every other agricultural staple. They are determined that in behalf of American industry there shall be exerted whatever power and influence may be necessary to bring this vital industry back to a basis of assured prosperity.

I do not want to be understood as suggesting that government can be relied upon to do the things that private enterprise, thrift and effort must do, but I am willing that you should very definitely understand me to mean that every possible support and encouragement, consistent with sanity and soundness, based on the consolidated credit and authority of American business an the American government, will be held out in this time of trial and stress.

Useless to Worry.

It is useless to worry now about the grists that might have been ground with water that has already gone over the dam. Not much will be gained by dwelling upon the omissions of the past, the failures to deal in proper time with the great problems that related to the restoration of peace and peace conditions in a disorganized and distorted world. It is enough for the present to say that, although indeed tardily, those problems are going to receive the most prompt and intelligent attention that can be given to them.

Among our American staples, perhaps none is so important in international trade as cotton. There is no continent, there is no insignificant country, that can hold itself independent of America as to its requirements of this American staple. They must all come to us. Our market is as wide as the world. Therefore our ability to sell must largely depend upon the ability of the world at large to buy. In this regard there has already been set on foot a renewed effort through instruments of the government and also through private financial agencies, to aid in extending the larger and longer credits that are needed in order to enable foreign buyers to continue taking our products. These efforts you can be assured will receive every feasible and safe encouragement. I am confident that the readjustment of affairs in Europe and in the world at large gives satisfying promise of moving forward in the near future more rapidly and on safer lines than at any time since the armistice. This is particularly justified in view of the recent demonstration of the solidarity of this nation with its allies on the other side.

A Long Step.

The settlement of problems connection with the indemnities assessed by the peace conference would be a long step toward a proper fiscal and economic adjustment in the old world. With that readjustment there will come a reduction of public burdens in all countries, freeing of industry from those forms of government control that have been holding it, and the resumption of something nearer to what we think are normal conditions. This is absolutely necessary. Governments and armaments have been costing too much. We see ahead the hopeful prospects they will presently begin to cost less and continuingly still less; that the burden of taxation on industry and production will be progressively lessened, that therefore the capacity of the people to buy and consume will increase.

From the best informed sources abroad come assurances that conditions there are improving; that the outlook for increasing trade with the United States is decidedly hopeful; that requirements for our materials are such that their satisfaction can not be much longer postponed, if measures can be devised to enable the business to be carried on. At this point, again, I can give assurance that the utmost support will be given by the government's financial authorities to every effort at extension of credits by which foreign trade may be developed. Of government credits and money we have given all that can safely be permitted. The task must be handled hereafter through the processes of commercial transaction, of those transactions which represent the unceasing flow of supplies and the constant, if at times postponed, liquidation of accounts. There can be no more consideration of vast blocks of credit, to be expended perhaps in purchases which represent the least prospect for early liquidation.

Clarified and Invigorated.

The streams of international exchanges must be clarified and invigorated. Within the limits which prudence dictates, the financial and economic system of this country must and will be encouraged to open new markets, encourage new demands, sustain enterprise wherever it gives satisfactory promise.

The national credit reservoir is still splendidly filled. It is capable of sustaining further drafts, if the streams that flow away from it can be certain of enriching, fructifying, producing—and then returning that which has been withdrawn. That is all we need to make sure that henceforward the withdrawals from it shall be for useful, reproductive, supporting purposes. This is, indeed, true of the whole world, and there is good cheer for us in the fact that the world is realizing the necessity to conserve, to utilize, to save its resources.

If I were to ask one particular service of every banker, every business man, farmer, worker, capitalist—every intelligent person in America—it would be to inculcate the ideals of thrift and prudence and saving. If we would all live on a little less than we earn, and consolidate our savings into a great stock of liquid capital, it would finance a vast and increasingly vastor expansion of production at home and trade abroad. Our help in this regard the whole world distressingly needs. We would not have to meet constant calls for charity—to which as a people we have responded with noble generosity—if we would instead save, and use the capital thus aggregated together, in putting our transactions on a basis of business instead of charity. The rest of the world would rather buy than beg of us.

Needs Encouragement.

At the moment it needs our encouragement and help, in order to buy. We can give it that help, if we will save; as we do so, we will be enabling other lands and peoples to resume their own business of producing and saving and paying. This reciprocal effort means a return to legitimate business bases at a faster rate than we can quite realize.

This is a time in which banks have opportunity to render their supreme service to the community. Through them the small surpluses of capital may be drawn together; bits that in themselves would be of no practical use for financing the country's business and yet that, if heaped together in the form of bank deposits, would represent the difference between ample capital and financial shortage; between tight money and easy money; between business depression and business activity. I have seen a good deal of the advertising matter that banks employ, and it has often occured to me that it makes too little appeal along this line. There never was a better time for banks to engage in educational effort of this kind. Teach the people—all the people—to understand the fundamental character, purpose, aims, services, of the bank. Induce them to keep their money in it. Billions of wasteful expenditure would be avoided every year—I say, I mean it literally, billions—if everybody entitled to a bank account would maintain it and rely on it. Most of the money that is wasted is "loose money" from the people's pockets. It's almost unbelievable how much less in the chance of wasteful expenditure of "chicken feed" sums, if the spender is under the necessity of drawing a check before he can spend.

Satisfaction of Saving.

If we could get all the people to know this, and to realize the satisfaction of saving for the simple expedient of not spending because it's easy to spend we should have gone a long way toward restoring financial assurance.

To other day my attention was called to a letter we often be a govern... ment official that so exactly illustrated my point that I am going to quote it here. The writer said:

"I have for many years been pretty well convinced that saving money is largely a matter of habit, and people who make a good beginning at it presently discover that it is by no means impossible, and it is also rather a good thing to do. Just at this juncture in the world's and our country's affairs it is certainly one of the most useful contributions that people could possibly make to putting the world right. I do not believe there is any other way to straighten out the tangle of financial and economic concerns into which the world has been precipitated by the war, than to produce a good deal more than we consume, which means, to save, and by our savings to reestablish the world's stores of working capital. I have no more earnest hope than that the public may take this lesson to heart and learn to save as, in view of our great national good fortune, they could be able to do."

Who Signed the Letter.

I have not often seen the case for personal saving more cogently put, and therefore I have special pleasure in telling you who signed that letter. It was a man of whom the people of the South have seen a good deal in recent time; for whom the South has given multiplied testimonies of its affection and confidence; a man who for many years has been the earnest and understanding friend of this great section, and who is today particularly anxious to help the South to deal with the problems that are bearing heavily upon it. He is an unfailing advocate of a united America; an eloquent spokesman for a unity that shall know no sections, no ancient prejudices, no old animosities; a very evangel for the conviction that such an America, thus unified and glorified and illuminated, shall move unfalteringly forward to the helpful, unselfish and fraternal leadership of the world. Gentlemen, I have read you a letter that was written by my chief, and yours, and our country's, by President Warren G. Harding.

down current of air and lost 700 or 800 feet altitude. Shoving my throttle full on I tried to regain my altitude, but could not. Turning sharply off my course, I headed north for ten minutes and found a hole in the clouds below me. A few minutes later I was below the clouds at an altitude of 5,000 feet. All charted landmarks had been wiped out, as my flying above and through the snow had made it useless for me to check the country as I passed over.

Soloing Through a Canyon.

"Getting under the clouds, near the ground, I felt more comfortable. Picking the largest pass or canyon in sight I started through it, still to the east. Here I ran into a heavy rain storm and was forced to throttle my motor to 1,350 revolutions a minute to save the blades of the propeller. Pelting rain will quickly reach a wooden propeller to pieces if revolving with regular R.P.M. Raindrops will made dents in the hardest wood.

Barriers of the Path.

"Going between the mountains was not so bad, but it did keep me worried as I did not know at what turn I would find a mountain rising up in the air in the pass.

Guiding Stellar Light.

"Shortly after midnight I had flown out of the rain and mountains and was passing over fairly good country, hilly, but no mountains; the moon was shining through the clouds, adding greatly to my comfort. I opened my motor wide again and climbed back to 10,000 feet altitude. The clouds by now were bunched in heavy banks and from their position I judged my compass course to be the same as Yuma, with the addition of one point to take care of magnetic deviation.

Fringes Mountain Top.

"Flying under or over or around the clouds, through them only when I proceeded on. Once while banking to avoid a heavy cloud ceiling I noticed a snow-capped peak less than 100 feet below and touching the cloud I was flying through.

"From 1 to 4 a. m. I flew a zig-zag course, checked by the plane's clock and during this time I passed over several snow-covered ranges, through one small snowstorm and skirted innumerable cloud banks. At 4:20 I saw the first streak of the oncoming day. It looked more like a reflection of the moon on the clouds than the rising sun. I was flying at 11,000 feet with the motor running 1,500. The country below was falling away into barren foot hills and looked most friendly after viewing the rugged peaks so long."

Continuing his report, Lieutenant Coney details how he was forced down at Bronte, Texas, and again at Dallas, before reaching Jacksonville.

Historic Log Invaluable.

The log of his historic trip reveals that the total flying time elapsed between San Diego and Jacksonville was twenty-two hours and twenty-seven minutes. The average speed was ninety-seven miles an hour and the maximum altitude attained was 16,000 feet—about three miles above the earth.—A total of 450 gallons of gasolene was used, almost twenty gallons an hour, and twenty-five gallons of oil, about a gallon an hour.

The report of the dead lieutenant will be invaluable in instructing future army flyers in cross country and transcontinental piloting. The wealth of experience obtained by the trip which could not be incorporated that would overcome conditions are responsible for the present business situation, the association's statistician quotes E. E. Clark, chairman of the interstate commerce commission, as follows: "The whole country and all our people, excepting those who are and have been chasing prosperity, are suffering the aftereffects of a titanic war . In some quarters zealous efforts are made to have it appear that this situation is in large part, or in the main, due to high freight rates . Careful inquiry discloses that the utilization of products is prevented, not by the freight rates, but by economic conditions."

the rat would knock over the light and his shop would be destroyed by fire.

"The setting of fires in a store, however, does not aid bankrupts in getting insurance, for the insurance money is paid to the creditors. The purpose of the fire is to cover up the removing of goods or the concealment of assets. And while insurance is being paid for a fire in one city, often the same articles are being used in another city to help stock another prospective failure or are being sold for profit, having generally cost their possessors nothing because of the manner in which the large credit concerns have been beaten out of their bills.

Tale of the Bucket of Lard.

"Some time ago I secured an indictment of a man from the East Side of New York who had one of the finest schemes for setting fires that I have ever encountered. He was head of an arson gang which specialized in setting fires wherever and whenever desired.

"He would set a candle in the center of an ordinary lard bucket, pack the top of the cover around the candle with cotton, and then around the outer rim of the top would place the ends of six matches, sticking twine or thread around these ends and at regular intervals would suspend little sacks the fire would occur.

"The candle would heat the gasolene and cause a vapor, and then when the cotton was ignited the gasolene would explode with such force that the pieces would be blown to parts of the room and no evidence could be found."

Is the Electrical System of Your Car "Hard" on Your Battery

THE COOPER BATTERY

"Renders the Longest Length of Service Per Dollar"

Why the Cooper Battery Gives Maximum Service Regardless of Electrical System

To build a battery which will give maximum service regardless of the demands made upon it by the starter, lights, etc., requires men who know electrical systems as they know batteries. Our engineers have studied electrical systems, their peculiarities and the demands they make upon the storage battery. With this knowledge they have designed and supervised the construction of each part right in our own factory. As a consequence, they have made it possible for every Cooper Battery to give the same dependable, maximum length of service, regardless of the type of electrical system.

Minimize Your Battery Troubles by Buying a Cooper Battery Guaranteed 2 Years.

RAY

Ray Storage Batteries!

HERE IS INFORMATION YOU LIKE TO KNOW

We have just received word from the Ray Battery Co., Ypsilanti, Mich., whom we represent in this territory, that Wallace R. Blood has been appointed director of sales and advertising of the Company, to take office May 1st.

Mr. Blood is Vice President of Campbell, Blood & Trump, Inc., one of Detroit's prominent advertising agencies. He retains his office with this concern, acting in an advisory capacity. His name is well known in the automotive industry as an authority on merchandising of mechanical products. He is a member of Society of Automotive Engineers, past president of the Aviation Club, of Chicago, and was for several years Technical Editor of Motor Age.

Coincident with this news comes word of the factory's realization of its increased production schedule. Starting May 1st, production will be increased from 300 to 600 per day. More equipment is on the way to permit of another increase July 1st to 1000 batteries per day.

Considering the fact that the Ray Battery Co. started production less than a year ago with ten batteries per day, this increase is truly remarkable. The Company is in excellent financial condition. All increases are being made from profits and a large cash balance is constantly maintained.

The Only Battery Guaranteed Unconditionally for 2 Years

Naturally it is the "Lavier Formula Plate" which makes this guarantee possible. Whether on the first day or last—any time within two years from the day you bought your battery—if your RAY fails to function properly, you get a new RAY BATTERY. Presidential Golf At Ring Ladies' Best Yet

I visited the barber shop wile Grant was trying to get ahold of Mr. Christian.

To the editor: Everybody I seen lately has asked me to tell them about my golf match with the President and it looks like they was nation wide interest in same so I will repeat the story over again for the benefit of those which ain't been lucky enough to see me since the mammoth event came off.

Well, Grant Rice, the poet, called up one day and says he had made a date for he and I to go to Washington and play golf with the President so we got there early on a Thursday A. M. and went to the Willard and eat our breakfast at the next table to Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge who however remained in blissful ignorance of same. After a wile I visited a barber shop wile Grant was trying to get a hold of Mr. Christian on the telephone and the manicure gal asked me where did I come from and I says N. Y. and she says she would hate to live in N. Y. but wouldn't mind working there if she could have a home at Newark or Brighton and she asked me when I got in and when I was going back and finely what was I doing in Washington and I says I come in to get a manucure.

"You are a great kidder," she says, so all in all I come out of the barber shop feeling pretty good.

Well, it seems Mr. Bristian had asked I and Grant to lunch with the President and Mrs. Harding and Grant had said yes without even asking them what they was going to have, so we got our suitcases and golf bags and went out to where the taxi cabs are and the starter says:

"To the station?"

"No, to the White House," says Grant and I shoved the two bits back in my pocket figuring we had give him enough of a thrill.

Well we was wisked to the office entrance and showed right into the private office, and shook hands with the President, but he also had a lot of other saps to shake hands with so we stood and talked with Mr. Christian to try and find out the attitude of the administration towards some of the big questions of the hour, and he as much as admitted that he didn't see how Cobb could get anywheres with them pitchers.

Finely the President was through holding hands with the brother Elks from Spring Valley and took us over to the White House, and we had to keep calling him Mr. President as Mr. Christian had kind of mumbled his name when we was introduced and we met the 1st lady of the land and eat our lunch which was liver and bacon, new potatoes, asparagus biscuits and some kind of a tart.

Not Like This at Home.

Mr. Rice had on a gray pin stripe suit without no vest wile the writer wore a Harding blue suit complete in 2 pieces. After I had drank 2 cups of coffee mine hostess asked me wouldn't I have some more, and I says yes and she made them get it for me without no argument. Up to this time I had felt right at home.

The President and Mr. Rice talked golf wile I and the 1st lady indulged in the light chit-chat which makes the present writer so sought after by fashionable N. Y. hostesses. For inst. when she said:

"I expected you would be a man 20 yrs. older," I just smiled and said barteringly:

"Did you?"

After lunch the President showed Grant and I over the cozy little home including the state bedrooms which he didn't say what the names of the different ones was but they all looked like Texas and finely he turned us over to a valet that took us to a room where we was to dress for the game. During this incidents I and Grant realized that people that lives in the White House has got a servant problem like everybody else. The problem there is how to get the valet out of the room wile you dress and neither of us were able to solve it. Further and more, we had to dig out white pants to match the hose where we was visiting and mine had just came back from the cleaners and was dareing to say the lease.

So all and all I was blushing furiously when we joined the President again and was introduced to Mr. Fletcher the under secy. of state who was going to make the 4th. man though neither Mr. Rice or myself is use to playing with underlings. The 4 of us stood on the front porch wile a couple photographers took our picture which I am afraid mine will be very risque.

Well, we all got in a car and was wisked away and the President talked about this in that and says he supposed we had noticed in the White House that he had to get in the elevator ahead of the Mrs. and go through doors 1st, and etc. and it was a rule that the President always has to do everything 1st, and he wished it was different as it made him feel uncomfortable. Well, out on the golf course, they forget this rule and go according to the golf rules, and I guess he generally always feels pretty comfortable out there.

"They's a nice course here in town now," he says. "But I guess we'll go over in Maryland and play Chevy Chase."

This was another thing that upset my game as I had expected to stay right in Washington and play capitol golf.

Well we figured out that it would

It's versus the rules for Mr. Jarvis to laugh.
